G.O.P. UNITES ON SHANAHAN FOR HOUSE SPEAKER

Expected Opposition Fails to Show.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—David E. Shanahan, five times speaker, was unanimous choice of the Republican house caucus tonight for the speakership for the Fifty-seventh general assembly, which opens at high noon tomorrow. No other name was presented. All eighty-one Republican members were present.

The battle which has kept things in a stir at the statehouse for two days ended in a fiasco and the opposition to Shanahan on an anti-Emmerson basis flattened out after buzzing and bubbling all day.

C. J. (Gus) Johnson of Paxton, leading opponent of Mr. Shanahan during the conversational phases of the contest, kept his name from being put in. He seconded, with a dozen others, the nomination of Shanahan.

Still Talk of G. O. P. Bolt.

The elder statesmen are now loudly declaiming that Shanahan will be given the gavel for the sixth time in his career tomorrow when the house organizes. The only element of doubt is whether a few city hall members may bolt.

A swing of the five Republicans to Michael L. Igoe, the Democratic pick, would suffice to elect him. All day long the Republicans have been disturbed by talk that a considerable Small-Thompson bloc might bolt, but tonight after a count of 81 noses the administration leaders declare everybody seems to be sitting tight. Shanahan on the first ballot is what they are looking for.

The house has 81 Republicans and 71 Democrats. It takes 77 votes to elect.

Democrats Name Igoe.

The Democrats in their caucus unanimously picked Michael Igoe as their choice for speaker and Senator Tom Courtney for president pro tem. of the senate. Democratic chieftains in an imposing array descended upon the capital in midafternoon announcing the Democrats will all stand tight and not interfere with any scrapping on the majority side of the house.

Harmony descended like a dove with missing tail feathers upon the Republicans after two conferences in which administration leaders diligently applied themselves to buttonholes and lapels.—C. J. [Tip] Doyle, state chairman, called the caucus to order in a speech urging that dissension be chased to the woods: . . . . . .

"The Democrats," said he, "have been happy for days watching the dissension among the Republicans. Just around the corner in 1932. The Democrats are scheming to take advantage of every slip if there is discord in the Republican ranks. Harmony here tonight shows Republicans can always be counted on."

Cazus Belli Thrown Out.

Representative Leroy M. Green of Rockford was made caucus chairman. A resolution was put in by Representative A. O. Galvin of Chicago to the effect that the caucus should not support any administration candidate unless a pledge were given that certain things would be supported in the legislature, among them the redistricting and repeal of the search and seizure act. This was expected to be the nub around which the battling would be started. It was declared out of order by the chair.

Mr. Shanahan was nominated by Mrs. Anna Wilmarth Ickes of Wilmette. Mr. Johnson arose to say that his hat was out of the ring.

"I wrote members that my name would be presented," he said, "it was with the distinct understanding that my candidacy would not be objectionable. Now I have found it would result injustice upon the administration should I perpist it to go on. I don't see how I can be true to myself if I persisted my candidacy to go further."

Hart as Senate Leader.

So the caucus made it unanimous for Shanahan. The senate caucus picked Senator Richard J. Barr for president pro tem, his old job. He was out of it last year but ran the senate machine just the same.

After the caucus Mr. Johnson said no trade was involved in his withdrawal, that he had been promised nothing and had asked for nothing.

Some of the saturnine, however, skeptical as ever, remarked that it looked all the time to them that a lot of the flaff talk was for trading purposes with a view of landing chairmanships.

The Galvin resolution which was

ASSASSINS KILL PATSY TARDI, WOUND HIS PAL

Trapped by Gunmen Near Their Homes.

Patsy Tardi, 23 years old, one of the organizers of the notorious "42" gang and one time brothel house keeper for Jack Zuta, slain vice boss, was shot and killed by two assassins at Miller and Polk streets late last night. Tardi's companion, Ralph Costanzo, 20 years old, was probably fatally wounded.

The victims were caught unawares by the killers and shot down with automatic pistols. Tardi was shot twice through the head and in the left side and Costanzo was wounded twice in the abdomen. A police 1313 call was turned in by neighbors who heard the shots, but when squads reached the scene Costanzo had already been removed to the Mother Cabrini hospital.

Tells of Shooting.

From Costanzo detectives learned the story of the shooting. Tardi and Costanzo live in the same neighborhood, the former at 905 Miller street and the latter at 1035 Polk street.

"I met Tardi on the corner," said Costanzo, "and we started walking along the north side of Polk. Two men crossed over from the other side of Polk street, got in front of us, and started shooting. They ran away on foot."

Because of his condition Costanzo could not be questioned extensively. Detectives learned from his brother, Joseph Costanzo Jr., that Ralph was summoned from home by two men who called at the door at about 9 o'clock, about an hour and a half before the shooting. Little is known of Costanzo. One report was he was once employed as a driver of a sugar truck.

A Multiplicity of Motives.

In Tardi's record the police declared there might be a dozen motives for his assassination. Last July Tardi was held almost a week as a suspect in the murder of Alfred Lingle, but was released on habeas corpus proceedings. He had been known as a tough young hoodlum and his stock went up in the estimation of his gang friends because of his seizure as a suspect in a major killing.

One of the theories followed by detectives investigating Tardi's murder was in connection with the slaying several days ago of August Battaglia, minor west side police character, who was shot to death at Roosevelt road and Halsted street. Tardi may have slain Battaglia and been killed in vengeance, it was said. There was another theory that the same gang which murdered Battaglia shot Tardi.

Tardi's widow, Mrs. Jean Tardi, 20 years old, carrying a baby 15 months old in her arms, and his sister, Mildred, 14, were questioned at the Maxwell street station. Mrs. Tardi told Lieut. John Kelly she last saw her husband at 1 o'clock yesterday. She knew nothing of his affairs, she said.

An Honest Beginning.

Tardi was introduced to the public in 1917, when at the age of 10 he did an honest deed. He returned a lost purse containing $35 to its owner, received no reward, but declared he was satisfied because he didn't want to be a thief. His career changed later, and he was named in police reports for larceny, assault, and gun toting. He served two terms in the Bridewell, one of thirty days for theft and one of ninety for gun toting.

A two fisted gun fighter, Tardi speedily rose to leadership in the "42" gang, but became even too tough for that outfit. He joined the Zuta gang and boosed the old Sterling hotel in Madison street. While on duty there Tardi gained his chief claim to fame, the killing of Danny Hartnett, tough west sider. Hartnett invaded the hotel one night, shot Tardi once. Tardi wrested the weapon from Hartnett's hand and killed him with it. He was never prosecuted.

Ambush and Kill Victim.

Frank Candela, 51 years old, 628 West 25th place, known as a minor neighborhood politician in the 11th ward, was ambushed by gunmen last night and killed almost in front of his home.

His body was found in front of 620 West 25th place with two bullets in the back of his head. Neighbors, aroused by the shooting, summoned the Rev. John Doody, pastor of All Saints Catholic church. Wallace and 26th streets; but Candela was dead when the priest arrived. No motive could be found for the killing. Four children and a widow survive Candela.

PROPOSES LAW AIMED AT GANG MACHINE GUNS

Aimed at gangsters, a bill drastically restricting the sale and ownership of machine guns has been prepared by State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county, it was learned yesterday. The measure will be introduced at the next session of the legislature by State Representative Richard J. Lyons of the 8th district, residing in Mundelein.

Possession, ownership, or even transfer of the weapon would entail a fine not exceeding $1,000 and imprisonment of not more than five years, under the provisions of the bill. Possession is defined as "having either on the person, in an automobile or other conveyance, or on any property or premises." In addition, a conviction for an attempt to use the weapon would be punishable with a maximum term of ten years in the penitentiary.

The bill would invest sheriffs with the authority to grant permits to the proper parties to own machine guns, such as banks, business houses, and pay roll guards.

BOMB DAMAGES STRUCTURE FOR GRAIN ELEVATOR

A black powder bomb, said to have been due to labor troubles, was exploded last night at the base of a concrete grain elevator under construction at 102d street and the Calumet river. It tore a hole about seven feet square in the wall near the entrance.

Max Levine, watchman, living at 9722 Commercial avenue, was nearby when the explosion occurred and ran around to the scene. He could see nobody and the police believe the bomb had a time fuse. The damage is estimated, from a cursory examination, at $1,000.

Lieut. John Tracy of the East Side police began an investigation. He will question Supt. A. E. Eriaeser of the elevator company, Rosenbaum Bros., Inc.

Pioneer Colonists Demand Secession from Canada

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

REGINA, Sask., Jan. 6.—Descendants of the famous Barr colonists of Ontario, made up of Britons who came west to Lloydminster, in Alberta, in its pioneering days, tonight demanded secession and the setting up of a dominion of western Canada under the British flag if measures to insure a decent standard of living for farmers are not provided. So large was the attendance that an overflow meeting was held. Wheat pool officials and a member of the United Farmers of Saskatchewan addressed the meeting.

$14,242,000 Voted to Build State St. Bore

The finance committee of the city council last night approved the 1931 appropriation bill calling for the expenditure of $133,779,469 from five separate funds. The bill will now go to the council. A new item is an appropriation of $14,242,000 from the traction fund for the construction of the State street subway, the first appropriation to be made in Chicago for that purpose.

The passage of the subway appropriation aroused little comment in the committee, the items in the subway budget having been prepared in advance. Upon its submission to the committee Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], chairman of the local transportation committee, said he had gone over the items with the finance staff. Thereupon the committee voted its approval.

All Other Budgets Approved.

Besides acting on the subway the aldermen approved the vehicle tax budget of $5,637,500 and the bond and trust fund of $25,114,969. In other meetings they had approved the corporate fund budget of $67,000,000 and expenditures from the water fund of $21,785,000.

The total of $133,779,469 in a single budget measure this year is occasioned by the financial relief legislation of last July. In other years the council passed its budgets separately, but under the new legislation the aldermen are required to group all the budgets in one appropriation bill. After its passage no more appropriations can be made under the law during the year.

Tie String on Subway Fund.

On $12,960,000 of the subway appropriation the aldermen attached a string that will prevent it from being expended by Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, without first obtaining the consent of the council. On the remaining $1,282,000 there are no restrictions and Faherty may expend it immediately if he desires.

The principal items in the subway appropriation are as follows:

Construction to be paid by city	$7,500,000
Construction under river	3,334,000
Construction of cofferdams	400,000
Purchase of lands at each end	1,500,000
Preparation of drawings	317,000

In making appropriations from the bond funds the aldermen exhausted all the money available for expenditure. The main portion of the $25,114,969 bond budget is made up of ap-

L. ADAMS-BECK, NOTED NOVELIST, DIES IN ORIENT

VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Word reached friends here today that Mrs. L. Adams-Beck, more widely known under her pen name of E. Barrington as a novelist, died suddenly on Jan. 3 in Kyoto, Japan. She wrote under three names, Adams-Beck, L. Moresby, her maiden name, and E. Barrington. Her better known books under the latter name are "The Glorious Apollo," a story of Byron's life; "The Ladies," "The Chaste Diana," "The Divine Lady," and "The Splendor of Asia."

Mrs. Adams-Beck, an Englishwoman by birth, formerly lived in Victoria. She was the daughter of the late Admiral John Moresby and a granddaughter of Sir Fairfax Moresby, admiral of the fleet. She lived in the far east for many years, traveling extensively in Little Thibet and penetrating into many parts of Asia never before visited by a white woman.

She was credited with a profound knowledge of the oriental mind and her studies of the occult sciences are reflected in her writings, notably in "The Ninth Vibration," "The Treasure of Ho," and "The Perfume of the Rainbow." Delving into the early teachings of Buddha, she spent the past year in Japan translating ancient literature.

HANDLESS MAN SENTENCED FOR $700 FORGERY

A man without hands was sentenced to jail yesterday in Town Hall court on charges of forgery.

He is Frank Greissmayer, 40 years old, 2140 Burling street, charged with obtaining a $700 loan from a finance company by forging the name of his father-in-law to a note.

When he raised his artificial hands in court and protested that he could not write, Assistant State's Attorney Mandel interrupted to introduce the record of Greissmayer's conviction two years ago on a similar charge. He then confessed and gave a demonstration of writing while holding a pen between his teeth.

The program of Chinese music, singing and speeches will also go on the air. The broadcast starts at 11:05 p. m.

Gets Windfall from Packer's Venture in Oil

Mrs. Lolita Sheldon Armour, widow of the late J. Ogden Armour, yesterday received $8,216,058 for 400 shares of stock in the Universal Oil Products company, a part of her husband's estate which had once been regarded as worthless.

Mr. Armour's creditors had refused to accept the oil stock as a valuable asset. Later the company, which controls an oil cracking process, began making large profits. In 1926 Mrs. Armour loaned her husband $1,000,000 which he needed to fulfill an obligation in connection with his Sutter basin project in the west and he gave her the stock as security. Her loan thus has yielded more than 800 per cent in four years.

Armour's Faith Vindicated.

A number of years ago, when Mr. Armour was at his financial height, he invested from $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 in the oil cracking process. He always had faith that the process would yield a profit, but he died in London on Aug. 16, 1927, before his judgment was vindicated.

A year ago the Armour estate was closed in Probate court, showing an insolvency of $1,805,000. The widow and Mrs. John J. Mitchell Jr., a daughter, were the claimants because of loans they had made to Mr. Armour.

Some time ago the United Gasoline corporation, which is controlled by the Standard Oil Company of California, became interested in acquiring the oil cracking process. Negotiations came to an end yesterday when $22,249,999 was paid for the 1,000 shares of stock of the Universal Oil Products company.

Others Receive Millions.

Mrs. Armour's share of this amount has been stated. Others to share were Hiram J. Halle of New York and the Natoma corporation, who get $3,319,411 each. C. P. Dubbs of Wilmette, who invented the oil cracking process, receives $3,582,045. He was represented by Attorney Weymouth Kirkland.

Attorneys Alexander F. Reichmann and Frank L. Belknap, who rendered legal services to the company, also shared in the division of the purchase money. Mr. Reichmann was given $1,402,794 and Mr. Belknap received $755,350. There were other stockholders who received smaller shares.

In moneyed war times J. Ogden Armour was reputed to be worth $150,000,000. His company obtained large government meat contracts, but when peace was declared these contracts were canceled with vast quantities of meats in the hands of Armour & Co. With the slump in foreign currency Mr. Armour was reported to have lost $100,000,000 of his personal fortune—a loss of "a million a day" for months. And at his death there was nothing left of consequence in his estate.

CHICAGO DOCTOR JAILED IN VIENNA; U. S. TO PROTEST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Jan. 6.—Arrested as a "long wanted bank robber," as he was boarding a train here today, Dr. S. M. Marcus, formerly of Chicago and now a well known mental specialist in Los Angeles, had to spend most of the day in the local jail before the Austrian police officials finally admitted that there had been a "mistake."

After his release Dr. Marcus lodged a vigorous protest at the American consulate. Consul General Ernest L. Harris promised to file a formal protest with the Austrian government.

TELLS HOW TEN PLANES, 40 MEN FLEW ATLANTIC

Fought Rain on Hop to Brazil.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

NATAL, Brazil, Jan. 6.—Ten giant Italian seaplanes roared triumphantly into the Natal harbor at 4:15 p. m. today [1:14 p. m. Chicago time], completing a stirring flight of 1,875 miles across the South Atlantic ocean from Bolama, Africa, in 18 hours and 46 minutes.

The success of the Italian squadron in setting up a new record for transoceanic group flying was marred, however, by misadventure at the take-off from Bolama at 2 a. m. G. M. T. Tuesday [8 p. m. Chicago time, Monday].

Fourteen seaplanes had been lined up for the take-off from Africa for the long ocean jump. Two of them were unable to get into the air and, according to reports received here, one of them was wrecked in attempting to take off.

Two Picked Up at Sea.

Of the even dozen planes that left Bolama, one was forced to alight on the ocean early in the flight, because of leakage of its oil lines, and another encountered similar misfortune near St Paul's Rock, just off the Brazilian coast. Both planes were picked up by two of twelve Italian naval vessels, which had been strung out along the squadron's route.

The ten planes that completed the jump showed few scars from their battle with adverse weather conditions. Flying over the province of Rio Grande do Norte in three sections, the planes swooped down on to the harbor here with machine-like precision. The first to land was the one piloted by Gen. Italo Balbo, the Italian air minister, who is in command of the flight. He was followed by the plane of Col. Maddalena, holder of the world's distance and endurance records.

The three divisions landed at ten minute intervals, receiving an ovation from the huge throng of spectators that had waited for hours in heavy rains to welcome them.

Fight Rain; Push On.

On the long ocean grind, the squadron, encountering rain and low hanging clouds, determined to push on in spite of the poor visibility, and Gen. Balbo instructed his pilots by wireless to spread out the formation of the sections of the squadron.

The squadron passed above the lonely island of Fernando do Noronha at 2:55 p. m. [10:55 a. m. Chicago time] and, with their goal almost in sight, headed straight for St. Paul's rock and then for Natal, anchoring in the harbor.

Gen. Balbo was plainly elated at the success of the flight, when he stepped ashore amid the cheering throngs. In an interview he said that in spite of the misfortune attending the take-off from Bolama, the squadron had had even greater success than he had foreseen. He said he would have been impressed even if only half of the squadron had negotiated the long overwater jump.

Balbo Praises Airmen.

The Italian air minister was high in his praises of the "magnificent" airmanship of the squadron's personnel who "have brought more fame to the good name of Italian aeronautics."

Gen. Balbo was especially pleased with the work of Col. Maddalena, who had charge of preparing the air fleet for its feat, and of the work of the pilots at the controls of the various planes.

He pointed out that a long group flight such as this one imposed on the crews of each plane exactions which do not hamper the crew of a plane making the jump alone. In this connection Gen. Balbo expressed satisfaction at the manner in which the 10 planes had kept their formation on the long dash, despite the adverse weather.

Capital of Brazil Goal.

Shortly after the planes had come to rest, Gen. Balbo ordered them towed upstream, where their motors will be examined and any necessary repairs made in preparation for the continuance of the air journey to Rio de Janeiro.

Their next stop is Bahia, 635 miles away. From Bahia the Italians plan to push on to Rio, 844 miles further on.

The forty airmen were taken on a triumphal tour through this port soon after their arrival. Tomorrow they will be guests at an official reception, followed by a dinner at the Aero club in the evening. The squadron expects to stay here the next two days.

"ITALIAN AIR VICTORY!"

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Jan. 6.—"Italian Air Victory!" This is what Rome's newsboys tonight are calling the safe arrival of ten planes of the Italian air armada at Natal, Brazil this afternoon. The hero of the victory—black bearded, 35 year old Air Minister Balbo—has become the biggest man in Italy outside of Premier Mussolini.

At the mention of his name crowds break into cheers, and arms fly up in the Fascist salute.

It is reported that on Gen. Balbo's return, Il Duce will probably turn over to him the posts of army and navy, creating a new cabinet portfolio and making Gen. Balbo minister of national defense.

With the army back of him, Gen. Balbo will become the most formidable contender to succeed Premier Mussolini when the dictator dies. Even before this flight Gen. Balbo was reported to have cherished such an ambition, and some of the other Fascist party leaders have watched his amazing rise with uneasiness.

Italy's newest hero is one of Italy's most colorful and powerful figures. Born in 1896, he was feared as a fire eating journalist and politician before he was 25.

He participated in the march on Rome and became commander of the militia, but he was so hardboiled that, after the murder of Giacomo Matteoti when public opinion became dangerously excited against the whole Fascist organization, he was given another post. He helped Mussolini reorganize the army and acted undersecretary for national economy.

When he was appointed undersecretary for aviation, he knew nothing about flying. According to friends, he was frightened stiff at his first attempt at flying. But he stuck to the job of flying and became a fair pilot, as well as a highly competent air minister.

The idea of personally leading the sky armada on its perilous adventure is characteristic of his audacity and imagination.

Rome Wild with Excitement.

The news of the safe arrival of Gen. Balbo's fleet at Natal sent Rome into wild excitement tonight, but valiant efforts were made to hail the news with fitting Fascist dignity.

Electric signs flashed up on downtown buildings announced the arrival of the armada in Brazil. That was about 9:45 p. m. Instantly milling throngs collected.

A few minutes later, newsboys rushed up waving extras. They were almost mobbed by eager customers, who fought for papers and handed over silver coins without waiting for change. Orchestras in movies and cafés struck up the Giovanezza, the Fascist anthem.

Drama of Hop Missing.

One curious fact about the celebration is that at midnight the people of Rome do not know the full drama of the flight owing to some inexplicable quirk on the part of the censors. All the crowds know is what they read in the papers, and that is a one paragraph bulletin saying that Gen. Balbo's ten planes arrived at Natal. This is followed by a page editorial rhapsody and an analysis of weather conditions.

This morning the first official flash of the take off said that twelve planes left for Natal. A few minutes later a correction was sent out stating merely that planes left, not mentioning the number. When the message arrived saying that ten planes had passed Fernando do Noronha island, it was not known whether two planes had fallen in the ocean or had been unable to leave Bolama.

Late tonight newspaper men were informed that the two stragglers were safe and were about to take off to rejoin the fleet, which is an epic in itself, but which for some reason was considered too dangerous for the public to know.

Are Naval Bombing Planes.

ORBETELLO, Italy, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The twelve seaplanes used by Gen. Italo Balbo's trans-Atlantic squadron are of the Savoia-Marchetti "55" type adopted as bombing planes by the Italian navy.

Each is equipped with two 500 horsepower Fiat motors, mounted in tandem above the wings. The propellers of the forward motors are two bladed, those in the rear four bladed.

Following are some of the specifications of the cruisers:

Length, 53 feet; total wing spread, 79 feet; weight, unloaded, 9,702 pounds; useful load capacity, 6,615 pounds; gasoline capacity, 860 gallons; oil capacity, 77 gallons; normal cruising speed, 125 miles per hour.

Each seaplane carried radio telegraph and telephone sets, capable of communicating over long distances.

TEN PLANES FLY ATLANTIC

Map shows route of greatest group flight in history, which ended yesterday when ten planes, manned by forty flyers, spanned the South Atlantic and landed at Natal, Brazil. The 5,000 mile flight started at Orbetello, Italy, Dec. 17.

Stops were made at Cartagena, Spain; Kenitra, Morocco, and Villa Cisneros and Bolama, Portuguese Guinea. At Bolama the planes were overhauled for the overwater flight, in which one plane was forced down near St. Paul Rock, off the Brazilian coast. The twelfth plane was forced down early in the flight. Both were picked up by Italian cruisers.

The flight required 17 hours 15 minutes. The air fleet will proceed to Rio de Janeiro, capital of Brazil, in three days, with a stop scheduled at Bahia. A hop to Buenos Aires is also being considered by Gen. Italo Balbo, air minister of Italy, who commanded the flight.

FOURTH SQUADRON FLIGHT.

The crossing of the South Atlantic by ten Italian planes was the fourth great long distance squadron flight in the history of aviation. American army and navy airmen blazed the trails in the other three exploits.

Three American naval flying boats, the NC-1, NC-3, and NC-4, attempted to cross the Atlantic eastbound in 1919. The NC-4 succeeded, reaching Lisbon, Portugal, May 27, after 19 days and two stops in the Azores. The two other planes were forced down at sea and the crews saved.

The most important flight in American aviation is that of the round the world army flyers. Four planes started and two finished. The start was made in Seattle April 6, 1924. On Sept. 28 Lieut. Lowell Smith and Lieut. Erick Nelson completed the 27,000 mile flight.

The third flight was that of five American army planes, which took the air at San Antonio, Tex., in December, 1926, on a good will flight to South America. They visited Mexico, Central America, west coast of South America, and crossed the Andes to Buenos Aires. Two were killed on the trip.

The South Atlantic has been crossed nine times. Five crossings were nonstop dashes.

FLYERS HOPE TO START AGAIN FOR BERMUDA TODAY

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Lieut. William S. MacLaren announced tonight that he and Mrs. Beryl Hart would take off at 5:45 o'clock tomorrow morning in their freight carrying monoplane Tradewind bound for Bermuda, the Azores, and Paris. This will be the second start of the plane across the Atlantic. It was forced back on Saturday by a broken sextant and fog after coming within a short distance of but failing to locate Bermuda.

3 Italian Flyers Circle Africa in Light Planes

ALGIERS, Algeria, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Three Italian aviators, Lombarde, Malotti, and Rossini, arrived tonight with a record of having flown entirely around the continent of Africa since leaving Rome in October. Using light planes.

U. S. CALLS ON LIBERIA TO END SLAVE TRAFFIC

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—(AP)—The American government has demanded of Liberia that prompt steps be taken to suppress slave traffic.

The state department dispatched a note to the African republic of Nov. 27 urging that not only the traffic be suppressed but that steps be taken to deal with those responsible for it. The memorandum was sent through the Liberian consul general at Baltimore.

The report was based on the report of the investigating committee composed of an American, a Liberian, and a representative of the league of nations. It cited the finding of investigators that high officials, including President King and Vice President Yancy of Liberia, had been directly involved.

These two resigned after the memorandum was received at Monrovia on Dec. 4. The note pointed out that no action had been taken by the Liberian government against those responsible for slave trade.

On the basis of the report, the memorandum cited other government officials who, it said, under the guise of public works, had used enforced labor for private enterprises.

The American communication termed "inadequate" the steps so far taken by Liberia to correct conditions.

HOOVER SPEAKS WORDS OF CHEER TO AUTO MAKERS

Says Industry Shows No Cause for Gloom.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Addressing the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, President Hoover said, "The despondency of some people over the future is not borne out by the statistical evidence or prospect in respect to the automobile industry."

The future of the automobile industry, he said, does not warrant any despondency.

The President's address was carried from Washington to the banquet in New York by telephone.

"I am informed that if I were speaking to every person whose livelihood is directly or indirectly dependent upon the industry I should be speaking to one person in every ten of the people of our country," Mr. Hoover said. "Therefore, the prosperity of the industry is the anxious thought of the nation.

More Roads Mean More Cars.

"The despondency of some people over the future is not borne out by the statistical evidence of prospects in respect to the automobile industry. I am informed by the department of commerce that despite the depression you have manufactured and sold during the year 1930 over 3,500,000 new automobiles. You have also disposed of large inventories of a year ago. Hundreds of miles of new roads are being constructed every day in the world and these increasing miles must be equipped with more automobiles.

"I am informed also that the consumption of gasoline during the last year shows an increase of 5 per cent over even the highly optimistic year of 1929.

"This certainly indicates that we have been cheerful in the use of our automobiles; I do not assume they are being used for transportation to the poorhouse. While I am aware that many people are using the old automobile a little longer, it is obvious that they are still using it and that it is being worn out. Altogether the future for the industry does not warrant any despondency.

Tells Joys of Motoring.

"No one needs to recall the utility and importance of the automobile in our national life. I have often wondered, however, if part of its popularity was not due to the exhilarating sense of power that we all inhale through the mastery over time and space we gain from it.

"It brings a sense of freedom that makes our spirit rise, even though it sometimes invites for some people the depressing ministrations of a motorcycle policeman."

STOCKYARDS GIFT OF $220,000 SPURS DRIVE FOR RELIEF

Of the $5,000,000 emergency relief fund sought by Gov. Emmerson's unemployment commission, $3,379,750 has been collected thus far, Philip R. Clarke, director of the drive, announced last night. Packing interests at the stock yards yesterday gave stimulus to the drive with contributions totaling $220,000.

"The returns from the stockyards interests were a big tonic to the drive," Mr. Clarke said. "They set a good example for trades that have not yet contributed. We are now confident we will raise the quota."

Employment figures for the week ended Jan. 3 indicate a decided turn for the better in Chicago. John Kane, general superintendent of the Illinois free employment bureau, reported an increase in the placing of both men and women job seekers. As usual during the last month, the week's figures showed that women led in obtaining employment. Women given employment totaled 433 while there were 294 men placed in positions.

Decatur Alderman Found Shot to Death in Garage

Decatur, Ill., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Lorris Robinson, city alderman and wealthy land owner, was found shot to death in his garage tonight.

School Budget Is Boosted at Inner Chamber Session

James A. Hemingway, chairman of the school board finance committee now considering the 1931 budget, who has barred the public from meetings of the committee in a private office in the Steuben building, gave further notice yesterday of his determination not to make public the operations of the committee. The preliminary draft of the budget calls for an expenditure of $96,500,000.

The fact that the committee had recommended that $50,000 be appropriated in addition to the above total for use in the bureau of recreation was not mentioned by Hemingway when asked about the committee's doings after its session yesterday.

The chairman had announced that he would hand out a complete résumé of the committee's actions at the close of each session, but information of the additional $50,000 fund was gleaned from other members of the board. The fund will be used to create nine new playgrounds and to hire 18 instructors.

It was learned that the committee decided to ask the board to introduce a bill in the legislature providing that money for the teachers' pension and retirement fund be raised by the state through taxation. Hemingway said that approximately $500,000 would thus be available "for other purposes."

Information was also given that there were inner chamber discussions of a plan to remove the educational department from its present quarters in the Kelly building, 460 South State street, to the Steuben building, 188 West Randolph street. The annual rental in the Steuben building would be in excess of $150,000, it was learned. The Kelly building rental is less than $60,000.

It was also announced that there was some controversy in the inner chamber when Frank Singleton, director of the school bureau of public safety, requested $17,000 in addition to $9,400 asked in the preliminary draft of the budget to carry on extra-departmental work, including the prevention of malicious breaking of school windows.

Figures were presented to prove that Singleton had saved the board more than $50,000 in the last two years by apprehending window breakers. But Hemingway insisted that any saving in that department would not be appreciable. "We might do away with the bureau of safety entirely," he said. "This job of watching the windows was given Mr. Singleton when the teachers took over his safety duties."

A line of departmental and bureau heads spent the second successive day away from their desks yesterday on instructions to "be present in the event that members of the board should wish to talk with them." In the group, which waited all day without being called, were Don Rogers, director of building surveys; August H. Pritzlaff, director of physical education; Herman J. Fischer, director of the bureau of recreation; Dr. Frank S. Bruner, director of special schools; Maj. H. H. Moore, assistant to Maj. F. L. Beals, director of the R. O. T. C., and Dr. J. Lewis Browne, director of the department of music.

President Lewis E. Myers indicated that when he has charge of the budget—that is, when it is submitted to the board—he will not exclude reporters. "I have no control over the present situation," said Myers, "being only an ex-officio member of the finance committee."

Chairman Hemingway announced yesterday that he would not be "bulldozed" into holding open sessions. He was appointed to the board in 1927, as a supporter of the city hall administration, when the movement was started to oust Supt. William McAndrew and to "rap King George on the snoot."

HUNT SALESMAN AFTER PROMISES OF JOBS TO GIRLS

Investigators for the Better Business bureau are searching for R. E. Bower, a New York lingerie salesman, after seven Chicago models had complained of being deceived by promises of a trip with a style show. The investigators emphasized that Bower was not wanted on a criminal charge, as no money had been collected, but that they merely wanted to question him.

The seven models, answering an employment agency newspaper advertisement, went to the Sherman hotel, where Bower promised them $30 a week, all expenses, and shoes and hosiery, as well as all lingerie they displayed. After questioning them on free love, their past moral conduct, and present family connection, Bower required an exhibition in costume of their modeling.

They were told to return yesterday, when tickets to Cleveland were to have been provided. Bower left the hotel yesterday.

BRUENING WARNS EAST PRUSSIA TO RETAIN ITS CALM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KOENIGSBERG, Jan. 6.—"You may rest assured that East Prussia will never be abandoned by the German reich," Chancellor Bruening told a delegation which waited upon him today at Koenigsberg in the course of his tour along the east German border.

Warning them to keep their political power "free from the extremists and the adventurers," the chancellor declared:

"We know that a certain nervousness has developed during recent months among the people of East Prussia owing to happenings across the frontier. We believe there is no ground for such anxiety when the governments of the reich and of the states unitedly exercise all their powers politically and economically to heal the festering wound in the east."

ALDERMEN VOTE $14,242,000 FOR STATE ST. BORE

Approve 1931 Budget of $133,779,469.

propriations from the $20,670,000 of bond issues that were approved at the Nov. 4 election of last year. The remainder appropriated was taken from the residue in bond funds, some of which were approved as long ago as 1914.

Allow 5 Per Cent Discount for Bonds.

Market conditions for municipal securities, as indicated a week ago in the sale of $7,000,000 worth of water certificates for $6,650,000, were taken into account in the bond budget. As the bond issues approved in November have not been sold, the aldermen made allowance for a discount of 5 per cent in their sale and appropriated only $19,636,500 from those issues.

The major items in the bond budget are as follows:

Ogden avenue	$3,187,000
State street bridge	3,325,000
South Halsted street bridge	2,565,000
Public benefits	4,094,500
Street lights	1,900,000
Repairs to existing bridges	950,000
Street traffic lights	475,000

Answering the criticisms that have been directed against the committee because in some years the expenditure of money from vehicle tax license fees on street repairs has averaged as low as 63 per cent, the aldermen made claims that the appropriation of $4,500,000 for that purpose this year is more than 88 per cent of the $5,637,500 within the budget.

The remainder, $1,137,500, is allotted to other city hall departments for work done in collecting the tax. Of this sum $35,000 is turned over to the license department to reimburse the corporate fund in part for the salaries appropriated to the license investigators.

After approving the budgets the aldermen took up minor items in each of that had not been definitely acted on while the budgets were under consideration. Action was taken on these items.

A $50,000 appropriation was given to Richard W. Wolfe, commissioner of public works, for legal and engineering work in connection with acquiring sites for water filtration plants.

LYLE SUPPORTERS REPORT GROWING BALLOT STRENGTH

Gerds and Marks Enter Camp of Judge.

BY PARKE BROWN.

The mayoralty headquarters of Judge Lyle again called attention yesterday to increases in the organization strength of its candidate. They emphasized particularly the enlistment in their ranks of Charles L. Gerds, regular committeeman from the Seventh ward, and State Senator Adolph Marks, Lundin-Deneen leader in the First ward.

"There is no longer any doubt," said Louis Nettelhorst, Brundage leader, who is temporarily in charge of the Lyle headquarters during John Leonard East's absence from the city, "that we shall have a solid organization in every one of the fifty wards long before election day. That is more than any other candidate will have.

Points to Straw Votes.

"Organization alone does not win, but when he have organization to supplement the public sentiment indicated by the flood of callers and mail we are extremely confident of the outcome. That feeling is only strengthened by the straw votes that are being taken almost every day. They show Judge Lyle in the lead even in what one might call hostile territory because of the leadership there."

This was the outstanding utterance on a day of calm that followed the excitement aroused by reports that Mayor Thompson might drop out of the race. From Mount Clemens, Mich. where he is receiving treatment for inflammatory rheumatism, Thompson denied that he had any such intention.

"Another campaign lie," he charged, and added that it was circulated by his enemies.

Entourage Is Missing.

Comment among the politicians on this point was that the report emanated originally from the city hall where his friends were alarmed by the discovery that he had slipped out of Chicago Sunday without word to any of them, without leaving instructions for the conduct of the mayor's office, and without any of the entourage who have accompanied him on every trip of this sort in the past.

Because of this situation Robert M. Perbohner, a member of the board of local improvements, who has been Thompson's constant companion for months, and W. J. Balmer, commissioner of public service, who is considered his campaign manager at present, drove to Mount Clemens yesterday and spent a short time with him. Then they returned to Chicago.

Nelson a Possible Entry.

These developments returned the campaign to the condition that marked it over the week-end except that the fact had been established that George F. Harding will not become a candidate because he has aligned himself with Judge Lyle.

Harding was asked about becoming a candidate if Thompson dropped out, and with Harding's private statement of his position becoming known the friends of Ald. Oscar F. Nelson put him in the running again as heir to the city hall organization's support in the event Thompson withdraws.

Except for the announcement of organization shifts in favor of Judge Lyle, the only ripple on the placid stream was an announcement by friends of Thomas J. Houston, a leader in Masonry, former president of the Thompson civil service commission, that a mayoralty petition will be filed this morning.

Royal C. Allen, a publicity man, made the announcement. It was said that Mr. Houston was out of the city and could not be reached. The petition bearing his name has been in circulation for several weeks, but politicians had expressed doubt that it would be filed.

Ald. Arthur F. Albert, whose Morrison hotel headquarters were opened during the day, postponed the issuance of his statement defining his position in the four cornered race. It is expected today.

Austin Barrett Club Formed.

Headquarters for Charles V. Barrett flung out huge new signs from the Hotel Sherman across both Randolph and Clark streets, and announced that its candidate had received new support from an Austin Barrett club formed at the Central Plaza hotel Monday night. The officers include Matthew F. Blondell, Dr. Frank C. Linden and George J. Dehn.

Lyle headquarters attached particular importance to the action of Committeeman Gerds' coming into camp because in doing so he rejected a large slice of city hall patronage which had just been dished out to him by Thompson's orders. Gerds was elected as the county committee representative of the Seventh ward to succeed Charles Ringer, who retired.

He defeated Roy N. Lesch, assistant corporation counsel, and Thompson listed him among those who were with him after he had sent Gerds word that he, the committeeman, would be given a $5,000 job for himself on Jan. 15 and a score of lesser places for his followers before that time.

On Monday night Gerds called a meeting of his organization. Judge Lyle was indorsed. Gerds announced himself as a candidate for alderman on an anti-Thompson platform, and sent back to the city hall a number of job orders that had been sent to him to give to the men he selected to fill the places on the pay roll.

Athlete's Bride Seeks Divorce

Charges Cruelty

Mrs. Virginia Peine Waibel, 19 years old, daughter of the late Adolphus G. Peine, clothing manufacturer, filed suit for divorce in the Circuit court yesterday against William Waibel, former Northwestern university athlete. Through her attorneys, Sims, Godman, Stransky & Brewer, Mrs. Waibel charged cruelty. The couple eloped to Valparaiso, Ind., and were married on Dec. 19, 1929. They separated last November and Mrs. Waibel has since been living at the Ambassador East hotel. Mrs. Waibel is a beneficiary of a trust fund left by her father, who was vice president of Alfred Decker & Cohn, Inc., clothing manufacturers.

GIRL FLYERS SET NEW ENDURANCE RECORD, FLY ON

Trout, Cooper Stay Up 48 Hours.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Bobbie Trout and Edna May Cooper, actress and aviatrix, set an endurance flight record today. At 9:47 a. m. Miss Cooper piloted the Lady Rolph an hour past the previous record of 42 hours 16 minutes set by Miss Trout and Elinor Smith, New York aviatrix, some months ago.

Soaring on beyond the new feminine mark, the girl flyers declare they aim to crack, if possible, the present men's record of 645 hours, held by Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine of St. Louis.

Sail Away After New Scenes.

The monotonous round above the municipal airport was abandoned for three hours between today's refueling times as the girls hied themselves in search of new scenes, feasting their eyes on aerial views of Hollywood, Beverly Hills, Santa Monica, and the beaches.

Rough air, from a choppy wind which followed last night's rainstorm, upset the noon refueling. Miss Cooper got a shower bath of gasoline and the Lady Rolph obtained but 38 gallons of fuel.

Spurn Lunch, Eat Chocolates.

A tasty luncheon of various delicacies was spurned. Instead, a pound of chocolates was joyously received.

Miss Cooper, who applied a generous coat of ointment to her face after the gasoline bath, ordered a chamois skin mask for future protection from such mishaps.

Tomorrow Miss Trout will celebrate her 25th birthday.

AUTO SKIDS ON ICY PAVEMENT; DRIVER KILLED

Charles F. Buck, 56 years old, 943 Speight street, Madison, Wis., was fatally injured yesterday when his automobile skidded on an icy pavement four miles west of Elgin and plunged into a ditch. He died at St. Joseph's hospital in Elgin. His companion, Miss Katherine Stirmeman of Winona, Minn., was injured.

John Lenardt, 18 years old, 1719 West 18th place, died at the county hospital yesterday of injuries received on Dec. 28 when he was struck by an automobile while crossing Paulina street at 18th street. The driver of the car was Joseph Striller, 3544 West Roosevelt road. This death and one other raised the Cook county motor toll for 1931 to 20. The other victim:

Anthony Bukaun, 7 years old, of 7303 South Peoria street. Died in the Englewood hospital last night of injuries received on Jan. 3, when he was run down by an automobile in front of his home.

DODDS SUCCEEDS LUHRING, CRIME PROSECUTOR

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Nugent Dodds, a special assistant attorney general for the last seven years, was today appointed to the vacancy caused by the resignation of Oscar R. Luhring, assistant attorney general in charge of criminal prosecutions. Mr. Dodds is 43 years old and a native of Michigan. His nomination was sent to the senate by President Hoover.

$70,000 LOSSES LISTED IN BANK VAULT LOOTING

Institution's Officials Believe It Is Solvent.

Losses of approximately $70,000 in cash, stocks, bonds, and jewelry were announced yesterday by renters of safety deposit boxes in the Lawrence Avenue National bank, which was closed following a robbery on Jan. 1. Alfred P. Leyburn, chief national bank examiner for the seventh district, made public the names of holders of boxes entered during the robbery. Unofficial reports by those box renters were then made. Several on the list could not be reached and some refused to state the contents of their boxes before consulting lawyers.

John E. Malloy, assistant cashier of the bank, was arrested by federal authorities on an embezzlement charge after he had told the officials that he had been held up in the bank and kidnaped.

Darby Day, chairman of the board of directors of the bank, which was closed on Friday morning, and George Pilat, president, predicted yesterday that the institution would be found solvent and held hope that the depositors would lose nothing.

Losses Are Listed.

From the list prepared by Mr. Leyburn and from the information volunteered about the contents of the boxes the holders and their losses were listed as follows:

B. Gruber, owner of a restaurant at 3204 Lawrence avenue, $2,000 in stocks, bonds, and cash.

Ray Schultz and husband, 4712 North Sawyer avenue, $2,250 in jewels and $2,000 in bonds.

Fred A. Brenner, 3124 Montrose avenue, $10,000 in cash and $5,000 in stocks.

Rose Greenberg, 4947 North Albany avenue, $4,000 in bonds and a diamond wrist watch valued at $500.

Ben Gerber, 3048 Leland avenue, a mortgage for $3,500 and $500 cash.

Eva Cooper, 4802 North Albany avenue, $4,000 in jewels, $8,200 in stocks and $400 cash.

Isadore Jacobson, 4817 North Troy street, $25,000 of bonds.

Jane A. Dilley, 2313 North Western avenue, $500 cash.

Dora Goldfine, 3000 Sunnyside avenue, $2,000 cash.

H. Sbarberg, 5040 Kimball avenue, $450 cash.

Other Boxes Listed.

Boxes listed by Mr. Leyburn as tampered with but probably not looted, were in the following names, with amounts given by the renters:

Charles P. Robertson, 4403 North Mozart avenue.

Celia Bernstein, 3742 Windsor avenue, $3,700 in jewels and $3,000 of bonds.

Mrs. N. J. Borring, 5511 North Spaulding avenue, $1,000 in bonds and some deeds.

William S. Silver, 5128 North Kimball avenue, two deeds.

Christ Melidones, 2323 Leland avenue, $1,850 in stocks, $350 in jewelry and $50 in cash.

Joseph Zolden, 4743 North Monticello avenue, $200 in bonds and $500 cash.

Box renters on Mr. Leyburn's list who could not be reached or who refused to estimate their losses are:

Thorgerson & Erickson, 4804 North Kedzie avenue.

Mrs. Laura Novy, 4250 Eastwood avenue [address believed to be faulty].

Andrew Kotsius, 3000 Lawrence avenue

Alice J. Carroll and Margaret A. Moran, 4710 North Sacramento avenue.

Mrs. L. Merens, 4743 North Troy street.

Alcock Sees "Inside Job."

Acting Police Commissioner Alcock said he was convinced the robbery was an "inside job."

Attorney William F. Waugh, who obtained Malloy's release on bonds of $7,500, protested Malloy's innocence. He said Malloy was told by President Pilat to be at the bank on New Year's day and to have the time lock on the vault set for 1 o'clock, pending an examination necessitated by the proposed merger of the Lawrence Avenue bank with another bank. At 11 o'clock some one telephoned Malloy, according to Waugh, and said he represented the national bank examiners, who were coming to close the bank and wanted to be admitted at 1 o'clock. It was because of that call that Malloy admitted the bandits, Waugh said, and the call suggested to him that the bandits had knowledge either that a merger was contemplated or that the bank would be closed.

ALMA RUBENS HURRIES TO SEE MOTHER AFTER SHE'S FREED ON BAIL

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Eluding friends here tonight, Alma Rubens, who burst into the motion picture firmament as a star and ended her screen career with incarceration as a drug addict in two California institutions, was reported speeding to her mother's ranch near Madera after release on $5,000 bail from San Diego jail this morning.

The former actress was arraigned before United States Commissioner Henry C. Ryan at San Diego for smuggling, conspiracy to smuggle, and unlawful possession of a quantity of narcotics.

Ruth Palmer, New York chorus girl and Miss Rubens' companion, was arraigned on the same three charges. Unable to make the $5,000 bail, she was returned to San Diego jail, but later released when her bail was reduced to $500. She was known on the stage at one time as Rose Gallagher.

San Diego police are searching for Miss Rubens' chauffeur, Edward A. Thomas, also alias Tolman, to take him into custody on the same charges faced by the actress and Miss Palmer.

Commissioner Ryan ruled that the two women must appear for hearing on the triple charge on Jan. 13.

10,000 Jobless Men Dig Montreal Out of Snowdrifts

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 6.—Old Man Winter lashed eastern Canada today with one of the most furious storms in years. An all day blizzard piled up the snow in huge drifts. An army of 10,000 unemployed was engaged in digging Montreal out of the drifts. Two deaths were caused indirectly by the storm here.

GEN. WOOD'S SON, OSBORNE, FIGHTS WAY BACK TO TOP

Named Head of National Guard in New Mexico.

Santa Fe, N. M., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—The appointment of Osborne C. Wood, son of the late Gen. Leonard Wood, as head of the New Mexico National Guard puts a dramatic capstone on one of the most remarkable "comebacks" that the west has known.

New Mexicans are freely predicting that this young man, who came into the state with an apparently shattered career behind, may go even further in the public life of the state.

Wood's appointment as adjutant general of the New Mexican guard was the first made by Gov. Arthur Selidgman, Democratic winner at the November elections, after his induction into the governorship.

Wins His Appointment.

Neither push nor pull won this appointment. It followed recognition by Republican Gov. R. C. Dillon, who had appointed young Wood, aged 33, first a captain in the guard and then assistant adjutant general. Furthermore, the appointment as head of the New Mexican militia came at the almost unanimous request of the officers of the National Guard of this state. To be exact, just 90 per cent of these officers asked Gov. Selidgman to give Wood the honor.

Labored in a Mine.

Fresh from a hectic and spectacular career in Wall street and with the label of prodigal son attached to his luggage, Osborne Wood came to New Mexico in September, 1927, more or less injured in health and reputation, not to mention finances. He was flat broke and suffering from the blues. He got a job as a mucker or pick and shovel man at the Pecos mines near Santa Fe and for a solid year plugged away at gruelling labor eight hours a day 600 feet under the ground until he emerged brevet hardrock miner of the first class.

Then young Wood got indignant as the result of the death of a boy in a mine accident, took up the cudgel for better mine protection legislation and severed his connection with the mining company. Just how amicably he left may be judged from a telegram from the mine manager after he reached Santa Fe which read: "Come and get your clothes and things or we will throw them over the dump."

Then to Job as Blacksmith.

Wood then took a job as blacksmith with a coal mining company at Hagan, just south of Santa Fe, and continued his recuperative activities by nailing large heavy iron shoes onto the uncertain feet of temperamental mine mules. During this period Osborne Wood was incidentally making friends everywhere by his genial and courageous personality. These friends declare he answers fully the strictest tests of the southwest.

Osborne Wood was a lieutenant in the regular army from 1918 to 1924. He was attached to the 164th depot brigade at Camp Funston, Kas., and was on the staff of his father. He was aide de camp to his father when the elder Wood was governor general of the Philippines.

His Brightest Day.

"My dullest day," said Col. Wood, "was my thirtieth birthday in a rock cell on the 600 foot level of the Pecos mines, on which date I actually and figuratively hit bottom. I don't mind saying one of the brightest days was the first of January, this year, when I was named adjutant general. I appreciate the honor deeply and hope I have learned enough about military affairs in the last ten years to make good on the job.

"The people of New Mexico have been fine to me and I am not apt to forget it."

HOOVER MEETS CHECK IN FIGHT ON FOOD LOAN

Feed the Cities, Too, Is La Guardia's Plea.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—How to block legislation for loans to feed human beings in the drought stricken areas continued today to worry administration leaders in congress.

Objections by Representatives F. H. La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.] and L. L. Patterson [Dem., Ala.] held up a proposal to send the drought loan appropriation bill to conference in the house. If sent to conference, the program was to eliminate the senate amendment for $15,000,000 for food loans, in addition to the $45,000,000 for loans for seed, feed, and fertilizer, as provided in the original house bill and as authorized in legislation enacted before the holidays.

The administration leaders later considered adding the $45,000,000 bill as an amendment to the deficiency bill which was under consideration in the house during the day. This plan may be resorted to when the deficiency bill comes up again on Thursday or a special rule may be obtained to send the drought loan bill to conference.

Seek to Avoid Separate Vote.

Whatever procedure may be adopted the administration forces will try to avoid a separate vote on the food loan question in the house.

Representative La Guardia injected a new angle into the situation by serving notice of his intention to try to amend the senate amendment by providing that the food loans might be made to persons other than farmers.

"We are going to treat all Americans alike or I'm going to know the reason why," said Mr. La Guardia, who represents a New York City district.

President Hoover's view that food loans by the federal government are unnecessary and that relief of this character can be handled adequately by private organizations was upheld by John Barton Payne, head of the American Red Cross, in testimony before the senate committee on appropriations. Mr. Payne, James A. Wetmore, supervising architect of the treasury department; L. C. Martin, assistant to the assistant secretary of the treasury, and Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of engineers of the war department, appeared to tell what is being done to provide drought and unemployment relief.

Payne Minimizes Alarm.

Mr. Payne expressed the opinion that relief activities can be adequately carried on during the winter months on the present Red Cross fund of $4,500,000.

The Red Cross chief denied that a food riot had occurred last Saturday at England, Ark., and said that 500 persons had been quietly fed last Saturday when "about 40 men came in with some excitement" and demanded food. He said the 40 could have had help had they appeared at Red Cross headquarters in the first place.

While Mr. Payne was giving this testimony before the committee, Senator Thomas [Dem., Okla.] was reading in the senate telegrams from H. L. Kimbell, chairman of the Jackson county drought relief committee, and Oklahoma newspapers urging federal aid.

"We believe food riots at England, Ark., might be repeated in any one of a dozen Oklahoma counties," the Daily Oklahoman and the Oklahoma City Times telegraphed. "Believe great need is apparent in other states. Urge congress to make food loans available for administration through Red Cross to avert serious developments which may be anticipated before spring unless steps are taken to feed helpless."

Kimbell, referring to the demonstration in Arkansas, said: "Afraid of such here and sympathize with them to the fullest extent. Conditions more serious than anticipated. Will work with you, but for God's sake, do something now."

Mellon Is Alarmed.

Meanwhile, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon took alarm at a resolution introduced by Representative McKeown [Dem., Okla.], which would suspend for a year foreclosures by federal land banks in drought stricken areas. The secretary sent a letter to Chairman McFadden of the house banking committee, before which the resolution is pending, expressing doubt of the constitutionality of such a measure.

Governor Asks Crime Board to Continue Study of Laws

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Gov. Emmerson will recommend to the legislature that the judicial advisory council of Illinois be authorized to continue its work of expediting the administration of criminal justice. He so informed the council today at a luncheon in the executive mansion, where its report was read to him.

Almost all of the recommendations the council has made, after its year and a half of study, will be incorporated into proposed legislation and introduced into the 57th general assembly which convenes tomorrow. The recommendation for a classification of crimes and a readjustment of penalties will not be included in these bills, as the matter would require a great amount of revision of the criminal statutes and changes in the department of public welfare and in state institutions. This would require an expenditure of money which the council does not know if the state cares to make at this time.

Among Later Recommendations.

Thirteen of the fifteen members of the state council and Judge Denis E. Sullivan of Chicago, vice chairman of the judicial advisory council of Cook county, met with the governor.

The joint report of the state and Cook county councils contains but two or three sections which have not had as full publicity as the others. These include:

1. A section on reclassification of crimes and readjustment of penalties. In substance, these changes would abolish the distinction between felonies and misdemeanors and would classify crimes into five grades, providing a different method of treatment for each, according to the nature of the crime, and in a certain group of crimes providing different treatment for the habitual offender.

"As to all except the most serious crimes," reads the report, "defects in procedure will be eliminated and speedy and simple trials will be made possible."

Would Revise Challenges.

2. Challenges for conscientious scruples against capital punishment. For this the report suggests: "The criminal code provides that in trials for murder it shall be cause for challenge of any juror that he had conscientious scruples against capital punishment, or that he is opposed to the same. Obviously, this provision was inserted for the use of the prosecution to permit the state to excuse from service as a juror in a murder case a person who, because of conscientious scruples, was opposed to the maximum penalty provided for murder. Yet counsel for defendants in murder cases, taking advantage of the phraseology of the statute, have used this provision as a last resort to get rid of jurors, even in cases where the prosecution was not asking the death penalty. It is the opinion of the councils that this provision should be reworded to restrict its use to the state, as was originally intended."

3. Peremptory challenges in criminal cases. The councils recommend that instead of each defendant being allowed twenty peremptory challenges in cases carrying the death penalty or imprisonment for life, if one defendant is on trial he be allowed twenty challenges and if there is more than one defendant four peremptory challenges be added to the basis number, twenty, for each additional defendant.

OFFER REVISED BILLS TO GOVERN BOARDS OF TRADE

Farm Groups Oppose Grain Speculation.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—Special.]—The fight of farm groups to obtain more drastic regulation of the Chicago Board of Trade and other grain exchanges was launched today with the introduction by Senator Arthur Capper [Rep., Kas.] of a revised bill in the senate. Representative L. J. Dickinson [Rep., Ia.] is sponsoring the same bill in the house.

The bill heads the American Farm Bureau federation legislative program and is expected to have the indorsement of Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde and of the farm board. Early hearings are to be held before senate and house committees and efforts will be made to enact the legislation at this session. The grain exchanges oppose the bill.

"Among the principal changes is one aimed at vicious short selling and which limits to a million bushels in any one day the amount of grain futures which may be traded in for purely speculative purposes by any individual or firm," said Senator Capper. "Such limitation does not apply to hedging transactions, but does apply to spreading operations.

"It is made unlawful for any one to act for a foreign government in buying or selling futures without the consent of the secretry of agriculture upon full disclosure of all the facts.

"The secretary of agriculture is given power to approve the board of trade rules governing future trading and to require the adoption of trade rules necessary to safeguard the public interest. Provision is made for the licensing of commission merchants, brokers, and correspondents handling or executing orders for future delivery, and the secretary of agriculture is given sole power to deal with violations, subject to appeal to the courts instead of to a commission consisting of three cabinet members as at present.

"Another provision gives the secretary of agriculture power to determine the grades of grain which may be delivered on futures contracts with power also to fix the price differences at which different grades may be delivered."

BRITISH UNEMPLOYED NOW 2,643,127, THE HIGHEST IN HISTORY

LONDON, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The British unemployment figure of 2,643,127 on Dec. 29 was the highest in history, an official announcement said today. This number does not take into account the men rendered idle by the South Wales coal strike or the dispute in the textile industry. The next highest figure was 2,580,429 on June 3, 1921.

Lloyd George Raps Dole.

BARMOUTH, Wales, Jan. 6.—(AP)—David Lloyd George, former English premier, said today there would have been a revolution long ago had it not been for the British dole. He said, however, that in retrospect he believed it would have been better to spend the money in providing work rather than maintaining unemployed in idleness.

Jobless Rioters Injure 3 Policemen in Holland

G. O. P. UNITES ON SHANAHAN FOR HOUSE SPEAKER

Expected Battle Fails to Develop.

tabled was also signed by Representatives James J. McVicker, Roland V. Libonati, Michael R. Durso, and Michael R. Ruddy, all of Chicago.

In the Republican fight one phase that stuck out with prominence is that none talked against Shanahan, but the opposition was directed against Gov. Emmerson. When this bulged up the administration leaders got extremely busy. Help came from Chicago. Committeeman John East, friend of George Harding, helped line up south side members. W. R. James, president of the west park board, circulated among the west side members. Mr. James, an old fishing and hunting pal of the governor, is regarded as having pulled a lot of weight in flattening the battle.

The Democratic hosts are here largely to celebrate the inauguration of Edward J. Barrett as state treasurer. Among the visitors are Clayton Smith, Martin J. O'Brien, Tom Byrne, Sheriff William D. Meyering, Walter W. L. Meyer. It's the first time in eighteen years that the Democrats have had an inauguration in a big state office. In the last 67 years Illinois has elected a Democrat as state treasurer only three times and a Republican thirty times.

Democrats Change Front.

Concerning the possibility of a Republican bolt, Democrats, although saying the speakership might prove a political liability for them, were not, to tell the truth, thrusting away the gavel with the same vigor displayed a week or so ago.

Mr. Igoe took the ground that he would take the speakership if it came to him. "If any one votes for me I cannot help it," he said, "I'm not seeking the speakership, but if members vote for me of their own accord, I will accept it."

Asks Removal of Taxicab Stand as Traffic Relief

Ald. John Coughlin [1st] said yesterday that he will ask the city council at its next meeting to order the temporary removal of the taxicab stand from Washington street in front of the public library. The traffic burden of Washington street at Michigan avenue has been increased since the start of construction of the new Randolph street viaduct over the Illinois Central railroad tracks, it was explained.

SEES STATEHOOD AS SOLUTION OF COUNTY TANGLE

Merriam Suggests Political Cure.

Statehood for Chicago to end the confusion resulting from conflicting local governments was one of the suggestions gathered yesterday in a poll of members of the commission which will attempt to work out a plan for the coördination and simplification of the 417 local governments in the county. The commission was named Monday by authority of the county board.

Charles E. Merriam, head of the department of political science at the University of Chicago, was the member of the commission who suggested that one of the solutions might be the formation of the state of Chicago. He made clear that this was only one of a number of plans which might be considered by the commission.

"Tangle Worst in World."

"The Chicago tangle of overlapping and conflicting local governments is the most confusing and complicated in the world," said Prof. Merriam. "Every effort should be made to straighten out the situation promptly. If we had fewer governments to deal with we could control them better and get better service from them. Some money might be saved but the greatest gain would be in the improvement of service and a more democratic control over public affairs.

"The shortest and surest cut would be to annex a wide belt of outlying territory to Chicago, so that all Chicagoans might be included in the city where they belong. But this would probably arouse so much resistance that some less difficult way must be found.

"The various alternatives should be carefully considered, including possible statehood for Chicago and the soundest and wisest plan pushed forward energetically."

Mrs. Fairbank Asks Study.

Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, author and clubwoman, also appointed a member of the commission by President Cermak of the county board, declared:

"Out of the incredible mess in which Chicago finds itself today two outstanding reforms are clearly needed. The first is the election of a man of integrity and ability as mayor, and the second is the coördination and simplification of local governments.

"Before the state legislature should act on the second problem, it is advisable to bring before it a plan which is the result of careful study by a responsible and public spirited group, recommending definite measures for the reform of both taxation and expenditures. This, as I understand it, is to be the function of Mr. Cermak's commission."

George O. Fairweather, chairman of the joint commission on real estate valuation, also a commission member, said that the problem needed careful study. He had a number of ideas in mind, he declared, to present to the commission.

RABBIS WIN WAR ON RACKETS; LIFT BAN ON POULTRY

Shochtim Ousts Officers and Elects New Ones.

The bar on eating of poultry among the orthodox Jews in Chicago, declared more than a week ago by the Kehillah, the ruling board of rabbis, in an endeavor to drive racketeering from the Shochtim, the union of kosher poultry killers, will be officially lifted tonight at a meeting in the Hebrew Theological seminary. Tomorrow morning killing will start and kosher poultry will be obtainable at all Jewish markets.

This announcement was made last night at a meeting of the newly elected officers of the Shochtim and members of the rabbinical board, held in the Kehillah offices at 3600 Roosevelt road. The lifting of the ban followed a complete victory for the rabbis, with all their demands met by the union.

Rabbis War on Racket.

The ban was declared after officers of the union had refused to accede to demands of the rabbis that they conduct their affairs under Mosaic law. According to the rabbis, the officers had brought the shochet profession into disrepute through racketeering methods, slugging of members, and selling of positions after terrorizing merchants through bombings. Joe Etkins, business agent, was accused of instigating the racketeering.

Yesterday new officers were announced by the Shochtim, after a forced resignation of the old officers, and the rabbinical board called a meeting to outline conditions under which the ban might be lifted. All the new officers without equivocation agreed to the demands of the rabbinate. Not only were the officers compelled to resign but they were also forced from the union. Etkins is now held in bonds of $20,000 on a slugging charge and is scheduled to appear before Judge Lyle on Jan. 15.

New Officers of Shochtim.

The new officers are: S. Rest, president; D. Kantor, vice president; R. Hymanson, secretary; Victor Grossman, treasurer; and M. Saranovitz, business agent. An examining board of 33 members—11 shochets, 11 rabbis and 11 laymen—was appointed to handle future disputes.

Rabbi Menahem Sachs, president of the Kehillah, in announcing the peace pact, thanked the Kosher Butchers' association, pointing out that its members had lost almost $100,000 through observance of the ban. He also thanked all members of Jewish congregations who observed the ban.

PRESIDENT OF CHINA PREDICTS EUROPEAN WAR AT EARLY DATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Jan. 6.—Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, in an address at Nanking, reviewing the world situation, expressed fear of an early outbreak of war in Europe. He declared that the crisis in the relations of Germany, Russia, France and Italy is most serious.

In the event of a second European war, Gen. Chiang said it probably would mean the collapse of Great Britain's world empire, especially where the far east was concerned.

"Should a renewal of the European struggle develop," he said, "it would be impossible for either China, Japan or America to escape becoming involved, hence there is a vital need for my fellow Chinese countrymen to strive with the greatest energy to unify our nation and to achieve concord in all interests, since China's nation survival, or extinction, hinges on the outcome of such a struggle as another European conflict."

POLICEMAN KILLS YOUTH STARTING ON CRIME CAREER

Stanley Milkarz, 18 years old, 1348 Bauwans street, was shot and killed yesterday by a policeman while he was riding with two companions in a stolen car in his first attempt at crime. Milkarz was shot by Policeman Claus Hoelek of the Irving Park station when he tried to flee after the three youths had been stopped for questioning.

His companions, John Schwartz, 17 years old, 1362 Dickinson street, and Frank Zinza, 18 years old, 1737 North Hermitage avenue, admitted stealing the car, the property of Hyman Dorf, 3221 West Division street. Hoelck stopped the trio for questioning when they tried to pass a stop light at Cicero and Milwaukee avenues. Milkarz leaped from behind the wheel and fled down an alley. When he refused to halt after a warning shot Hoelck fired again, hitting him in the back.

CHAS. A. LEVINE SOUGHT TO CLEAR STOCK MYSTERY

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—The police today were ordered to seek Charles A. Levine, aviation enthusiast. Assistant District Attorney Charles J. Garrison is investigating the manner in which Levine obtained $22,000 in stock which he pledged with other securities as collateral for a $25,000 bank loan last August.

The stock, 100 American Telegraph and Telephone company shares, disappeared when it was being carried by a messenger from the office of the latter company to the owners.

COL. McCORMICK SAYS ACTION CAN WIN PROSPERITY

Tells Furniture Trade Law Is Not the Remedy.

Our present depression can be changed back into prosperity by the application of methods that are modern, that are foreign to law making as we have known it in the United States since its settlement.

This message was delivered last evening at the Stevens hotel by Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of THE TRIBUNE, to more than a thousand members of the furniture trade attending the first annual united furniture industries rally.

"The solution does not lie in harking back to the legislation of Henry VIII. or the feudal system of William the Conqueror," said Col. McCormick. "It is to be found partly in collective and more largely in individual action.

Nation One Great Factory.

"Collectively the nation must realize that it is one great factory, that its produce must flow freely from the extreme ends to the centers and back again to all other parts of the continent. This cannot be obtained by harassing either transportation or distribution agencies.

"Politically we must strike the shackles from trade, even as the early Americans who escaped from Europe struck the shackles of caste from themselves. Individually we must improve our processes. Whatever we make we must make better, more practical, and more artistic. If any manufacturer will produce an article much more desirable than articles of similar nature his success will be as great and as immediate as the success of the great names in invention and manufacture. Any distributor who can originate new methods of distribution or make his methods much more effective can find a similar success.

"We are the heirs of the bravest people who ever lived. Landing upon an unproductive soil in the presence of savage and brutal enemies, they plunged into a wilderness and turned it into a garden. The most deplorable times we can imagine would have appeared heaven to our forefathers.

"Let us not worry about red figures and reduced sales. Let us expand our imagination, let us see that we are worthy of our ancestry and the land they handed down to us, put aside discouragement and move into the new year with the resolution of the pioneers."

During his brief talk Col. McCormick declared that the period of settlement of the United States had come to an end and that the one just starting must use engineering science and design to obtain results that in the past came with less effort. He added that since the Norman conquest in England political power and social prestige had been tied up with the ownership of land and that the earlier spirit of American emigrants from the British Isles was based on a desire to obtain more and more land, without much regard to its scientific use.

Praises Furniture Trade.

Col. McCormick complimented the furniture industry as one that had gone as far as any other in improving quality and design of its product and than had been pioneer enough to establish the great Furniture mart, where "a continent might repair and have its needs for household goods instantaneously furnished." He predicted that other industries would have to follow similar methods.

Thomas H. Beck, president of Collier's magazine, was toastmaster at the dinner. Floyd W. Bateman, member of the World's Fair commission, spoke briefly, giving an early invitation to the furniture men present to attend this event.

Prof. Fred E. Clark of Northwestern university suggested that the industry could not look to higher prices in 1931 as a solution to its troubles. The day of the golf playing executive was over, he asserted, and the furniture man of the future would have to study still more intensively to gain and hold markets.

Man Seized in Priest Garb Revealed as Paroled Felon

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Harry Barrett, arrested in a downtown store last week dressed as a priest, revealed today that he was William J. Clifford, paroled convict of the Illinois State prison. The prisoner, held on a charge of attempting to pass a worthless check, said he was sentenced at Bloomington, Ill., to serve one to ten years on a similar charge.

REPORTS FRAUD PLOT.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Mrs. Edith N. Wolf, 3435 West Wisconsin avenue, reported today that three men had attempted to obtain money from her in a confidence game by inducing her to purchase rolls of cloth they represented as having been smuggled into the country.

GERMAN LEADER URGES DOLE BE PAID TO INDUSTRY

Money Would Be Used to Give Jobs to Idle.

STUTTGART, Germany, Jan. 6.—(AP) — Hermann Dietrich, German finance minister, in an address on the German economic situation here today, advanced the proposal that Germany's vast unemployment dole be put to work by pouring it into the pay rolls of industry instead of into the pockets of idle workers. Denouncing the huge waste of unemployment, he said:

"Paying out to the millions of unemployed more than $750,000,000 annually without receiving anything in return is so exorbitant that despite all theoretical consideration we must dare to find a new way out."

Would Give Money to Industry.

His suggestion for a "new way out" was to pay this vast sum to industry instead of to the idle. He explained that he did not think of it as a subsidy but as a means of enabling industry to put 4,000,000 jobless to work. The money now paid out in doles would partly pay the wages of extra workers taken on by industry otherwise unable to absorb them.

There may be some drawbacks to this plan, Herr Dietrich admitted, but "when four million citizens are in danger of being driven to despair, qualms and scruples are nothing and positive measures are everything."

Industrialists Fight Plan.

BERLIN, Jan. 6.—(AP)—German industrialists through their national league today recorded opposition to an economic program outlined by Hermann Dietrich, the finance minister, in an address at Stuttgart this morning, in which he proposed that the unemployment dole be paid into industrial projects instead of to idle workers.

The league, in voicing objection to government subsidies in general, asserted that promulgation of plans which are "still quite nebulous," is calculated to "shake confidence in Germany's financial policy."

TWO BURGLARIES REPORTED.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Police are investigating the theft of five fire extinguishers from the Riverside theater today. Burglars broke into the Fenwick club, 219 10th street, today, taking silverware from the kitchen.

WANTS WRIT TO KEEP SECRETARY FROM HUSBAND

James D. Hennigan, owner of a machinery manufacturing company in Oak Park, was sued for separate maintenance in the Circuit court yesterday by Mrs. Mathilda S. Hennigan of 715 Clinton avenue, Oak Park. Mrs. Hennigan charges desertion and alleges that her husband's private secretary, Miss Mary B. Delaney, alienated the affections of Hennigan.

The couple were married May 17, 1918. They have two children, John Jr., 10 years old, and Ann, 8. In July, 1929, the bill says, Hennigan went to a hospital for treatment and while a patient there was lured away from his wife by Miss Delaney.

Since Nov. 1 last, Mrs. Hennigan says, she has been unable to see her husband. She asks that Miss Delaney be restrained by a court order from seeing her husband. Hennigan, the bills says, owns property worth $138,000.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL ADDS A THOUSAND TO ITS PAY ROLLS

Following the announcement by four railroads whose activity is centered in Chicago that thousands of workmen had been added to their pay rolls since the first of the year, L. A. Downs, president of the Illinois Central railroad, said yesterday that that railroad has added 1,000 employés for the month of January. He expressed the opinion that the recovery of normal trade was apparent.

Business "Rotten," So He Leaps 14 Floors to Death

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Business being "rotten" with him, Samuel Dubrowin, 47, a manufacturing jeweler, plunged to death from his office on the fourteenth floor of the Jewelers' today.

NICARAGUANS LED BY U. S. MARINES DEFEAT REBELS

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Patrols of the Nicaraguan national guard, commanded by officers detached from the United States marines, have fought several engagements with insurgent forces in the densely wooded country between Totogalpa and Ocotal within the last few days, it was reported here today.

The engagements were in the same district where eight American marines were killed and four wounded in two battles last week. The insurgents were all declared to be followers of August Sandino. One of the patrols, under Lieut. J. MacDonald, battled a group of 100 insurgents near Licoroy, killing three. One member of the patrol was slightly wounded.

Yesterday another patrol fought a running engagement with an insurgent group near Chipote. One insurgent was killed. There were no casualties among the guardsmen.

GOOD TIMES AND GOOD AUTOS GO TOGETHER—NASH

Manufacturer Sees Trade Upturn in 1931.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Good times, good automobiles and good roads go together in the opinion of C. W. Nash, president of Nash Motors company, who arrived here today for the 1931 national automobile show. Mr. Nash is confident that American business is emerging purged and fortified from a depression that was mostly mental and speculative.

"The public has been frightened," the pioneer automobile manufacturer told THE TRIBUNE reporter, "but it is beginning to come out of its shell. Some of the people lost confidence in themselves, their country and their fellowmen and became hoarders. Other business depressions have been caused by lack of money. There is plenty of money today and unlimited opportunities for success."

Mr. Nash is approaching his sixty-seventh year. He was asked this afternoon what he considered his job to be in 1931.

His Job for 1931.

"To get raw material in one door, run it in a straight line to the other door and turn out the best automobile possible at the lowest price," he replied without hesitation. "The building up of value and the building down of price can be accomplished by better manufacturing practice, and the automobile industry has done more along that line than any other organization."

Mr. Nash was asked his opinion of 1931 as a replacement year in the industry.

"This year," said the automobile man, "will see double the number of old automobiles scrapped over any previous year. I believe the states are going to take a hand in getting the old wrecks off our highways. I have been talking to friends in several states and they tell me the matter is receiving the attention of the lawmakers, some of the states requiring the owners to bring in their cars for inspection and have them put in shape if they are in a dangerous condition.

Would Bar Unsafe Autos.

"Any unsafe automobile should be barred from the public highways, for they are not only dangerous to the driver but to every other driver on the road. In the rural districts you can see any number of old cars with drooping fenders and wobbling wheels rattling along the country roads. There is a concerted movement this year to get them off the roads. Once an automobile owner always an automobile owner is a true adage. People are going to replace these old cars.

"The public does not appreciate the fact that automobiles are responsible for good roads and that good roads are responsible for a lot of prosperity. Take northern Wisconsin for example. The people up there know that hard surface highways are their only salvation. They appreciate them. Another thing about good roads is that they make old cars dangerous. Nobody wants to poke along at low speed on a smooth highway. I think I can safely say we are driving ten miles an hour faster now than we ever did before. Laws regarding speed of automobiles have been lifted and the stress is on safe driving. Good roads and the desire to drive at a faster speed will help to get the old rattletraps off the highways and the replacements will help business.

Better Times Ahead.

Speaking of the prospects of the coming year, Mr. Nash expressed the opinion that the "period ahead is going to work up to the highest and soundest degree of national prosperity that the people have ever experienced." He declared that economic strength was coming back slowly, but on the good old fashioned diet of "hard work, clear thinking, and public demand."

"That we are well past the valley of depression and are definitely on the economic upgrade, can hardly be questioned by the most gloomy of our alarmists," said the automobile man. "The present times can be likened to a national sobering up process and the lack of money or resources had had little to do with it."

Mr. Nash believes that when the automobile industry is revived the entire business world will be revived.

"We hope," he declared, "that the public will come out of its shell. Banks the country over report maximum savings account and a great surplus of cash for use in legitimate business channels. Reorganization along more economical manufacturing line has been going on for months and industry is again on its feet."

HOME TOWN TO AID A BANKRUPT BANKER TO MAKE NEW START

Fordyce, Ark., Jan. 6.—(AP)—A country school teacher, who climbed to financial heights with millions at his command, came home today with $500 to start anew where he began 44 years ago.

The fact that he was bankrupt apparently made little difference to old friends and neighbors of A. B. Banks, who in other days they helped until finally he became president of the American Exchange Trust company at Little Rock, largest bank in Arkansas, a controlling factor in scores of other banks in the state and head of the Home Life Insurance companies. Now that he needed their aid again, they expressed willingness to give it.

A crowd of the townsfolk met him in the county courthouse here and extended him an enthusiastic welcome back home.

Although many banks had closed in Arkansas, including the American Exchange Trust company, and the Home Insurance companies were in the hands of receivers, the main thought at hand today was a welcome to the man who taught the children of hundreds here and then went out from the town and grew rich and brought wealth to others.

Mayor George Smith presided at the massmeeting and spoke for his townsmen in welcoming their old neighbor. Mr. Banks' service to Fordyce in civic uplift, his liberality in charities and contributions to Arkansas industry and finance before economic depression ended his power, were recalled by the speaker.

Mr. Banks, in his reply, declared he planned to start all over again and expressed confidence he could rebuild his fortune and pay all he owed.

SUE TO COLLECT INSURANCE PAID IN FAKE HOLDUP

Mrs. Laura B. Price, wife of Edwin Price, millionaire manufacturer, her husband and two jewelers were named defendants in a suit filed in the federal court yesterday seeking the recovery of $17,900 paid out in insurance as the result of a fake jewel robbery. Joe Baum and Ben Levine, who allegedly staged the holdup, also were named defendants.

Mrs. Price was sentenced to six months in jail after being found guilty of conspiracy to defraud last November, and the two jewelers, Maurice A. Barnett and Max Krakow, were sentenced to 1 to 5 years and six months, respectively. The suit filed yesterday was instituted by the Corporation of the Royal Exchange Assurance of London.

200 Compete for Interne Posts at County Hospital

The annual examinations for county hospital internships opened yesterday with about 200 medical students from the University of Illinois medical college, Rush Medical college, Northwestern university medical school, and Loyola university medical school competing. The tests are being conducted in the county hospital, and will continue today and tomorrow. Of the 200 contestants, 60 or 70 will be admitted as internes to the hospital. Half of these will enter next July and the others next January.

TENNESSEE BANK INQUIRY ASSURED; GOVERNOR LOSES

Crump's Speaker Choice Elected.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Gov. Henry H. Horton and his political backers, Col. Luke Lea and Rogers Caldwell, whose financial crash has involved the state in the loss of millions, were defeated today in their effort to organize the Tennessee senate, and a vigorous investigation of state affairs is now assured.

Senator Scott Fitzhugh of Memphis was nominated for speaker of the senate this afternoon after two days' deadlock between the administration forces and the opposition.

Behind the scenes in all this, seeing it all and gathering in the threads, was Ed H. Crump, congressman elect of Memphis, who refused to support the administration and who put Fitzhugh into the race on Monday. This struggle leaves Mr. Crump the undisputed boss of this legislature and any good that may result to the state will come from his brand of politics.

Complete Inquiry Promised.

"There will be a real investigation of the state finances," said Mr. Crump tonight. "Mr. Fitzhugh will appoint a committee of the best men that he can and they will go as far as they can in uncovering this situation. It will not be a whitewash and it will not be a blackjack affair."

That it may not go to the lengths desired by the extreme opposition to Gov. Horton is indicated in the speech of Mr. Fitzhugh in assuming the speakership platform after 20 out of the 28 votes in the caucus had been cast in his favor.

Beside his desk, as the balloting progressed, stood Mr. Crump, Mayor Watkins Overton of Memphis and Walter Haynes, speaker of the house, another protégé of Mr. Crump. It was to his friends from Memphis, long the neglected orphan of the state, now come into power, that Mr. Fitzhugh paid his first tribute.

Accepts Responsibility.

"There is a great responsibility on me and you. There is a great work to be done. I want the people of Tennessee to know that there will be, if it is within my power to bring it about, an honest, fair impartial and complete investigation——" He did not finish this sentence, for applause from the senators and the big audience interrupted him.

Constructive work is to be expected, but there are some who have been looking for something destructive in connection with the revelations of the intimate connections between the Caldwell interests and the state funds, and they are not filled with enthusiasm at the prospect.

Grand Jury Enters Situation.

The attention of these was turned today to the county grand jury, which was instructed by Judge Chester K. Hart to investigate all reports and rumors about the state funds, and should the investigation disclose violation of the criminal laws that they must indict regardless of the "political, financial or social standing of the offenders."

Mr. Crump, before leaving Nashville tonight, explained something of his political creed and actions here.

"I have been in politics many years," he said, "and have gone to the people 14 times without defeat. We have been square in Memphis, and have not used politics for gain. I have a nice bond and mortgage business, but have never permitted any city, county or state insurance or other benefits to come my way.

"With all these bank failures in Tennessee, Arkansas and Mississippi, and this financial situation, I saw how things were heading and that we would not be able to support the governor's man, Abernathy, although he is a good man. I told him we could not support him when I came up here. I looked over the field and then decided to put in Fitzhugh, a fine and able lawyer, an honest man, who will give the state a square deal. I began to work with the other candidates, and it was the opposition to the governor, you will notice, that first came over to us."

Extreme Opponents Switch.

First results of the overnight hotel conferences were reflected in the break of the forces of Senator Hu C. Anderson, who has been regarded as the most extreme of the administration opponents. His election would have been heralded by the public emergency group as their most complete victory.

The vote of Senator Robert L. Alexander Jr. of Nashville for Fitzhugh is taken as proof that an alliance has been entered into between Boss Crump and the Hilliary Howse machine of Nashville, which has opposed the Horton-Caldwell-Lea faction bitterly.

Something of religious fervor entered the support of Broadbent, for Senator John R. Todd, a man from the hill country, who nominated him, said that the mountain men were watching and waiting to see what account this legislature would give to the people, and that Providence had selected "this four square man, Broadbent," to meet the new day in Tennessee politics. They stuck to the last.

CHARGES EWALD PLANNED TO PAY $75,000 FOR JOB

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Former Magistrate George F. Ewald planned to go still higher in the judiciary and to pay "$75,000 or $100,000 for a place in General Sessions," according to testimony adduced by the state this afternoon at the trial of Ewald and his wife on an indictment charging that they had both bought public office for $10,000.

The witness was Emmerich Doczor, one time confidential secretary to Ewald and former secretary and treasurer of the Cotter-Butte Mines company.

Doczar created a small sensation by stating that Ewald had once told him he would have to sell 100,000 shares of stock that he [Ewald] owned in the Cotter-Butte mine.

"I have to sell this stock so I can go to general sessions," Doczar quoted Elwald as having said. "I have to kick in $75,000 or $100,000 there, just like I kicked in for my magistrate's job."

Magistrate Henry M. R. Goodman resigned from the bench today. Thereby following the precedent of former Magistrate Francis X. McQuade, who also relinquished his judicial post just as the Seabury-Krsel investigation was about to devote an open session to his affairs.

INQUEST REVEALS THIEVES' SCHOOL; POLICE HUNT TWO

An alleged school for young box car thieves was revealed yesterday through testimony at an inquest in Melrose Park into the killing on Dec. 18 of Frank Bovay, 19 years old, 1839 Madison street, Chicago.

As the result of testimony by Leonard Bartolome, 17 years old, 1209 23d avenue, Melrose Park, who was wounded, warrants were issued for Martin Cobboletti, 45 years old, who Bartolome said induced the youths to live at his farm near Bryn Mawr and Wolf roads and taught them how to steal and to dispose of the loot.

At the same time the county highway police revealed that a guard had been maintained at the farm for two weeks in an effort to capture Cobboletti and his 19 year old son, Tony. Cobboletti's wife and her other 10 children are still on the farm.

The jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide and commended Sergt. Elmer Duffy of the Indiana Harbor Belt Line police, who surprised and shot the two youths.

Slayer Will Die Without Good-By from Father

Charles Rocco, who is to be electrocuted Feb. 13 for the murder of Courtney R. Merrill, south side banker, was advised yesterday that his father, James Rocco of Rockland county, New York, will be unable to come to his assistance or to say a final good-by to him. James Rocco, who earns $4 a day as a laborer—when he is able to work—has been unable to get $100 for railroad fare—and will have to abandon the idea of seeing his son.

RADICALS CLAIM CREDIT FOR HUGE MASS OF LAWS

Renew the Charge They're Not Constructive.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—What have the senate radicals accomplished?

A great deal in the way of progressive legislation and of governmental reform, according to the radicals themselves. Nothing, at least nothing constructive, according to their critics, who characterize the radicals as a pestiferous bunch of windjammers and disturbers more intent upon tearing down institutions and reputations than upon building stronger the structure of the republic.

Out of the 96 senators the radicals number 15, often 17, and sometimes as many as 25. By themselves they can achieve nothing. It is only when they succeed in attracting the support of a sufficient number of ordinarily conservative senators to constitute a majority of the senate that they are able to leave their impress upon legislation.

Democrats Usual Allies.

It is the Democratic conservatives who most frequently and most numerously coalesce with the radicals. There are two principal reasons for this. One is that on many questions, notably those of the tariff and taxation, the Democrats and the nominal Republicans who constitute almost entirely the radical group are either in complete agreement or not far apart, at least not so far apart as the radical and the regular Republicans. The other is that by coalition with the radical Republicans the Democrats, nominally in the minority, are able to run the steam roller over the regular Republicans, knock an administration program into a cocked hat and annoy the President generally.

The Democratic-radical Republican coalition has been on and off for years, according to the view of expediency on the Democratic side of the senate center aisle. Back in 1924, when the radicals held the balance of power in congress, a coalition of the Democrats and radicals defeated the Mellon program for sweeping reductions of taxes on large incomes.

After the chastening they suffered in the 1924 election, which they felt was largely due to their previous conorting with radicals, the Democrats gave the Norris-La Follette group the cold shoulder.

Democrats in Shy Mood Now.

But in this congress the coalition materialized again. The Democrats and the radicals rewrote the tariff bill in the senate, riding roughshod over the regular Republicans, though a good deal of what they dictated in the senate was knocked out in the conference committee of the two houses later.

Now the pendulum has swung the other way again. The Democrats, with their eye on the winning of the conservative east in 1932, are evincing great chariness of association with the radicals.

The late Senator Robert M. LaFollette [Rep., Wis.] was accustomed to submit the radical program to Republican national conventions, beginning with 1908. This practice was continued by his son, the present senator of the name, in 1928. Although these platforms were invariably rejected by the regular Republicans as "Socialist doctrine" the radicals boast that 26 of the 31 planks in their declarations of 1908 and 1912 were eventually written into law.

The radicals lay claim to an impressive list of achievements.

"Most of these measures," says the People's Legislative Service, a radical research and propaganda agency which compiled the list, "were conceived and launched by progressives and the others were vigorously supported by them. It is safe to say that none of them could have been passed but for the efforts of the progressives."

The list follows:

"Legislation enlarging the powers of the interstate commerce commission; establishing classification; providing for suspension of rate increases when challenged by shippers or consumers, and providing for physical valuation of railroads.

"Creation of the tariff commission.

"Exemption of labor organizations from operations of the anti-trust laws.

Popular Vote for Senators.

"Election of senators by popular vote.

"Publicity of campaign contributions and expenditures.

"Regulation of telephone and telegraph rates and services.

"Limitation of use of court injunctions in labor disputes, enacted in 1914, further limitation being sought by the progressives in the pending Shipstead bill.

"Extension of the eight hour law to all government employés and all employés of contractors or subcontractors doing work for the government.

"Some of the provisions of the federal reserve bank law.

"Creation of the federal trade commission and later legislation to define its functions and make its authority effective and to authorize it to make tariff investigations.

"Anti-monopoly legislation embodied in the Clayton act.

"LaFollette's seamen's act, which emancipated seamen in American vessels from virtual slavery.

"Revision of the anti-trust laws to prevent their use to suppress unions and other coöperative efforts of wage earners and farmers.

"Creation of the department of labor.

The Alaska Railroad.

"Construction of a government owned and operated railroad in Alaska.

"Establishment of the parcel post.

"Adoption of the income tax amendment to the constitution.

"Extension of the suffrage to women.

"Adoption of the federal inheritance tax.

"Howell-Barkley railroad labor act, establishing an industrial code for railroads.

"Submission of the proposed child labor amendment to the constitution.

"Restoration of appropriations for the federal trade commission, saving the life of that body.

"Railway labor act, abolishing railway labor board and establishing machinery for mediation and arbitration.

"Workmen's compensation act.

"Income tax law and successful fight for its retention and just enforcement.

"Abolition of secret executive sessions of the senate.

Active on Muscle Shoals.

"Retention of the $125,000,000 government investment at Muscle Shoals and passage by the senate of the Norris resolution for government development and operation.

"Creation of a legislative reference department in the library of congress.

"Reform of the arbitrary rules of the house in 1910, as the result of the overthrow of Cannonism under the leadership of George W. Norris, then a representative.

"Recovery of public property worth 500 million dollars as result of the Teapot Dome and Elk Hills oil scandal investigation engineered by the late Senator La Follette.

"Ousting of Harry Daugherty from the attorney generalship as result of investigation conducted by Senators B. K. Wheeler [Dem., Mont.] and S. W. Brookhart [Rep., Ia.].

"Power trust investigation now being conducted by the federal trade commission with astounding results.

Rough on "Undesirables."

"Successful fights on undesirable public servants, notably Secretary of the Interior Ballinger, Senators Lorimer and Newberry, and Senators-elect Frank Smith and William S. Vare; Charles B. Warren, nominated to be attorney general; Secretary of the Interior Fall; Judge John J. Parker, nominated to the Supreme court, and Nicholas Roosevelt, appointed vice governor general of the Philippines.

"Liberalization of the archaic rules of custom house censorship of literature.

"Curbing of American imperialistic policies in Mexico, Nicaragua, Haiti, and other countries."

The next article will describe the propaganda agencies of the radicals.

MOVIE STAR DIES

ETHEL TERRY.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Ethel Grey Terry, for twenty years a prominent figure on stage and screen, died today at her home here after an illness of a year.

Miss Terry was the daughter of Lillian Lawrence, a famous actress in her day.

For two years Miss Terry was featured by David Belasco in some of his Broadway successes. Later she appeared under the Shubert banner and eventually had her own stock company at Schenectady, N. Y.

In 1919 she came to Los Angeles and worked with the late Lon Chaney in several productions.

She is survived by her husband, Carl Gerard, an actor.

SERBIANS NAME TOWN AFTER THE MAN WHO STARTED WORLD WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Jan. 6.—Gavrilo Princip, who assassinated Archduke Ferdinand and his wife, thus causing the world war, will receive further recognition by the Serbians when the town of Ludas changes its name next month to Princip. Princip, who died in an Austrian prison after his death sentence had been commuted by Emperor Franz Josef, was honored last year with a commemorative plaque on the house in front of which he shot the archduke in Sarajevo.

DID NO WRONG FIGHTING NORRIS, LUCAS DECLARES

Nye Finds Bank Held G.O. P. for $4,000 Loan.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Senator Nye's campaign investigating committee continued its inquiry into Republican campagning today. Members of the committee made public their views as to what the Republican national committee really did. They also brought forth denials from Robert H. Lucas, executive director, that he or the national committee intended any wrongdoing.

They elicited the admission that the $4,000 borrowed personally by Mr. Lucas to pay for circulars used against Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska and in seven other states had been secured by a pledge of national committee funds.

Was It Private Obligation?

They sought to demonstrate that either the committee funds were pledged with the permission of other members or that the loan was secured by Lucas, privately to keep the matter secret, and that he expected the committee eventually to pay it; or else Lucas wrongfully used his office as executive director to post money with which he was intrusted as collateral for a private obligation.

One disclosure supported their contention that the Commercial National bank, which loaned the money, had considered the national committee backers of the loan. Wade S. Cooper, president of the bank, produced a statement sheet of the committee's $5,000 "special account," at the top of which, initialed by an assistant cashier, was the notation: "Hold $4,000 as collateral for loan."

Lucas Explains Acts.

Lucas explained he had acted privately in sending circulars into states other than Nebraska because they raised the wet and dry issue which the national committee was trying to keep clear of.

"Republican dry candidates asked for help," he explained. "The Anti-Saloon league didn't seem able to raise any money." It was shown that $32,000 had been sent from the "special account" to help congressional candidates in Maryland, Kentucky, Virginia, Utah, North Carolina, Missouri, Kansas, and West Virginia.

O'BRIEN HOLDS OFFICE DESPITE PRISON PENALTY

Gets 18 Months and $6,000 Fine.

State Representative Lawrence C. O'Brien, who was sentenced to the Leavenworth penitentiary yesterday for evasion of the federal income tax, does not automatically vacate his legislative office as a result of his sentence, according to legal authorities.

O'Brien, a Democrat, who has represented the 29th district [lower north side] in the general assembly for fourteen years, was convicted by a jury on Dec. 12. Federal Judge Lindley yesterday sentenced him to eighteen months in prison and fined him $6,000. The legislator was convicted on six counts for trying to evade more than $75,000 in taxes for 1926, 1927 and 1928 on an alleged income of $436,000, derived from teaming contracts with the sanitary district, the Lincoln park board and the city of Chicago.

Other Sentences Heavier.

O'Brien's sentence was the most lenient so far received by tax dodgers convicted in United States Attorney Johnson's campaign against gangsters and grafting public officials. County Assessor Gene G. Oliver received only eighteen months in Leavenworth prison on similar charges, but his fines totaled $12,500. Frank Nitto, alias Nutti, Capone hoodlum, received eighteen months on a plea of guilty, but he was fine $10,000.

Other sentences imposed upon convicted tax evaders were five years and a day for Jack Guzik, Capone gang leader, and three years for Ralph Capone, brother of Alphonse.

The Illinois constitution provides that no person convicted of "perjury, bribery or other infamous crimes" shall be eligible for office in the general assembly, but federal tax evasion is not considered an infamous crime under the laws of Illinois, according to lawyers. If O'Brien goes to prison, lawyers say, his office will be vacated, but he plans to appeal.

A Plea for Leniency.

O'Brien's attorney, James A. O'Callaghan, pleaded for leniency, declaring his client enjoyed the confidence of his constituents and was a respectable citizen. He pointed to O'Brien's wife and two small girls in the courtroom and said they and O'Brien's aged mother were dependent upon him. He repeated arguments made during the trial that O'Brien did not know income from taxing bodies was taxable.

"The citizen must know the law or must find out," said Judge Lindley. "There was no showing that he even sought a lawyer's advice. There was evidence that when he received an income tax form he threw it in the waste basket."

After pronouncing sentence, Judge Lindley allowed O'Brien's counsel ten days to file a petition for probation.

Horseshoe Curve Wreck Ties Up Five Fast Trains

Altoona, Pa., Jan. 6.—(AP)—The wreck of a westbound Pennsylvania freight train just east of the Horseshoe curve early today tied up all four tracks of the main line. A flagman and a conductor were injured. Five passenger trains, including the Pittsburgher, two sections of the Broadway Limited, one section of the American—all eastbound—were held up for several hours.

SEARING ACID STOMACH ENDS

Mr. C. M. Reade, Merchantville, New Jersey, writes, "After 15 years of searing acid stomach I began taking ACIDINE. From the first dose, about three weeks ago, I have enjoyed my old health back again."

Just another of thousands who are astonished at the way this new prescription ACIDINE succeeds when other known remedies fail. The reason is it is different from other medicines. ACIDINE contains Japtase, which, in laboratory tests, digested 800 times its own weight of certain heavy starchy foods. ACIDINE neutralizes burning acid, soothes irritated stomach and intestinal linings, helps end acidosis.

Eat, drink all you want. When sour stomach, gas, pain, heartburn, bad taste, heavy feeling, short breath, dizziness, belching, nervousness, colds, gassy headaches and sleeplessness trouble you, take ACIDINE. Results guaranteed. If not delighted, maker refunds money.

U. OF C. STARTS POLICE CLASS; 35 PUPILS ARE COPS

Prof. Vollmer Tells Views on Fighting Crime.

The course in police practice and administration, to be conducted at the University of Chicago for the next three months by Prof. August Vollmer, opened yesterday with a class of 55 in attendance, 35 being police officers and the others university students.

At the first session, Prof. Vollmer lectured for an hour on the scope of the course. Subsequent lectures will deal with all types of modern crime, how to select and train police personnel to cope with modern criminals, and exposition of the daily duties of all officers from police commissioners to patrolmen.

Sees College Trained Cops.

"The police problem is at once the most difficult and least understood of any in the United States," the professor told his class. "Police work, at its best, is both a science and an art. I believe it inevitable that every policeman will eventually be regarded as a professional man, and that police administrators will be trained as such in American universities.

"Attempts at solving crimes or coping with crime waves by giving ordinary citizens police powers have always been a failure. Attemps to solve crimes by posting rewards for the capture of criminals have been equally futile. Drastic punishment of criminals has proved no deterrent;, it is known that pickpockets reaped a harvest at public executions of their own kind in England 100 years ago."

Police work, Prof. Vollmer asserted, must be studied as a social science. The policeman should not only know his criminals and their methods, but must know enough of the criminal personality to distinguish between hereditary criminals and the merely misguided.

For Crime Prevention.

"In a sense the policeman must combine the function of the parish priest and social workers with that of criminal apprehension. In the future I see crime prevention as the chief function of the police force."

For textbooks the new class will use two volumes, "The American Police" and "The European Police," both by Raymond Fosdick of the Rockefeller Foundation. The university library and the crime detection laboratory of Northwestern university will be available for research and experiment.

Among outside lecturers to address the class will be Albert S. Osborne, New York handwriting and forgery detecting expert; Dr. John A. Larson of the Institute for Juvenile Research, an expert with the lie detector, and a number of seasoned criminals whom Prof. Vollmer has persuaded to recount their experiences to the class.

MUSSOLINI PLANS BIG WELCOME FOR GREEK PREMIER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Jan. 6.—Premier Venizelos of Greece will arrive here tomorrow for a friendly political conference with the Italian government.

Coming just before the league of nations' council meeting, where the question of a revision of treaties will be the principal subject for discussion, the French will doubtless see in Premier Venizelos' visit further materialization of the so-called revisionist league—Turkey, Russia, Italy, Bulgaria, Austria-Hungary, Germany, and now Greece—and preparations for an organized onslaught on the Versailles treaty.

Whatever is the real object of Premier Venizelos' visit, it is unquestionably of great importance, as is shown by the elaborate preparations which are being made for his reception. He will be met at the station by Foreign Minister Dino Grandi and other foreign office officials. He will be received by King Victor Emmanuel at 10 a. m. and by Premier Mussolini at 10:30. Il duce will give a dinner in his honor tomorrow night.

50 DETECTIVES WAIT FOR AN INVENTOR WHO THREATENS O. D. YOUNG

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Fifty detectives were lying in wait tonight for an embittered inventor who has threatened the lives of Owen D. Young, head of the General Electric company, and Mrs. Young; of the Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick of Riverside church, and of the radio manufacturers A. Atwater Kent and Powell Crosley Jr. The places where the police were in hiding were not made public.

It was disclosed that since the inventor opened his letter writing campaign 17 months ago he had mailed more than 500 typewritten missives, some of which he signed with a pen, while the greater number bore only typewritten signatures. The identity of the writer is no mystery. He is a man of some inventive genius, now living on royalties he gets for a ventilating device which he patented. Three years ago he was arraigned in a New York court for writing annoying letters to a rich builder, but the case was dismissed.

In all the letters the writer bitterly complains that the Radio Corporation of America and its subsidiary companies has made fortunes with a new sound device for phonograph and radio which he invented, but for which he never was paid.

FORGER HUNTED AFTER SWINDLING BANK OF $36,000

Fakes Signature of Contractor.

Detectives were hunting O. H. Weber yesterday. In one month in Chicago the operator who called himself Weber defrauded a bank of approximately $36,000 which a surety company has paid. His Chicago career was outlined as follows:

On Sept. 11 he opened an account at the Chicago Bank of Commerce, depositing $500 and saying he was a masonry contractor. At the same time he rented office space in the Hartford building, Room 911. On Oct. 1 he deposited a check on the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company for $7,975 bearing the purported signature of E. L. Scheidenhelm, treasurer of the Edward L. Scheidenhelm company, contractors, with offices in the Civic Opera building. The signature was declared to be expert forgery.

Deposits Company Checks.

"Weber" said he wouldn't check against the deposit until it had been cleared and within a few days it was through the clearing house and apparently all right. Then on three other occasions, about a week apart, he deposited other checks—all bearing the same signature—for $9,875, $9,850, and $8,575. All were printed checks of the Scheidenhelm company, all stamped with the protection perforator machine of that concern. These checks also were on the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company.

His forgeries were not discovered until the Scheidenhelm company received its monthly bank statement. By that time "O. H. Weber" was gone. He had left behind $600 on deposit in the account in the Bank of Commerce, which had been increased by the four large checks. It was found then that ten checks had been stolen from the Scheidenhelm offices.

Makes $3,000 on Stock Deals.

In the interim "Weber" had shown some stock market ability by winning $3,000 in stock trading with the Sutro Brothers' brokerage house, where he made an initial deposit of $4,500.

Judge Forfeits Bond of Defendant in Will Case

The $15,000 bond of Edward C. Koester, charged with confidence game, forgery, and conspiracy to defraud the rightful heirs of the late Edward B. Jennings, eccentric millionaire, was forfeited yesterday in Judge Philip J. Finnegan's court. Assistant State's Attorney Henry Ayers told the judge that he believes Koester, who has been a hospital patient for several months, is faking his illness.

GRAND JURORS TO OPEN POLICE INQUIRY TODAY

Critics of Departments to Be Called.

Chief Justice McGoorty of the Criminal court announced last evening that his charge to the special grand jury to be impaneled today will not be directed against any particular police administration, but will cover the situation generally existing in Cook county. The jurors will be asked to include in their investigations, he said, not only the Chicago department but also the county highway police and the departments of all municipalities and villages in the county.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller, who is to be transferred from the racketeering inquiry to the police investigation, said that he has not as yet developed many tangible cases for the jury to work on.

Police Critics to Be Called.

"The investigation, at the start, at least, will be more or less in the nature of a fishing expedition," said an attaché of the grand jury room.

It is understood that as soon as the jury is organized a general call will be sent out for the heads of the various organizations which have from time to time attacked the police department and they will be asked to produce the evidence on which they based public statements. Among those to be summoned, it is reported, will be Col. Robert Isham Randolph of the Association of Commerce and head of the "Secret Six," and officials of the Employers' association.

Evidence Up to Prosecutor.

"I have not been apprised of any concrete evidence from any source," said Judge McGoorty last evening. "The task of gathering evidence will be in the hands of the state's attorney's assistants as soon as I charge the jury. I do not know what, if any, evidence they have."

AMERICA IMPROVES HUMAN SPECIES, SAYS FRENCH PROFESSOR

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Jan. 6.—America has succeeded in improving the human species, Prof. Bruneau, who has just returned after a year at Bowdoin college, told an audience at the University of Nancy today.

The professor depicted for his hearers what he called the social-charitable type produced in America, which he regarded as having been made possible by high standards of living and by true sentiments of democracy.

He said America had a general kindliness and friendliness which might at first appear slightly mechanical, but which was really genuine.

YOUTH SCALDED BY STEPFATHER KILLS WITH GUN

Anthony Indelicato, 52 years old, unemployed for fifteen months, sat comfortably near the stove in his home at 721 Norton street yesterday and reprimanded his stepson, John Pulio, 22, for being out of work seventeen months.

Pulio answered angrily. Indelicato, angered, suddenly reached over the stove, seized a pot of boiling water, and hurled it at the youth, scalding him severely. Indelicato started to run as Pulio dashed into his room, procured a revolver, and shot at his stepfather three times. Two bullets struck, and Indelicato dropped dead.

Police arrested Pulio shortly afterward at the Mother Cabrini hospital, where he had sought medical aid, and removed him to the Bridewell hospital.

WOMEN FOES OF DRY LAW MEET HERE ON JAN. 21

Probably the largest anti-prohibition massmeeting ever to be held in Chicago is scheduled for the Drake hotel on Jan. 21, when national officers of the Woman's Organization for National Prohibition Reform will have their quarterly meating. Mrs. Charles Sabin, founder president of the movement, will be the main speaker at the public meeting in the hotel ballroom that will follow a closed conference.

SEX EQUALITY HEARING SHOWS WOMEN DIVIDED

Take Opposing Sides Before Senate Group.

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Some women think equality of the sexes would be a grand thing. Other women aren't so sure.

So there was a turbulent session this morning when both groups met to tell a senate judiciary subcommittee just how they felt about the proposed Lucretia Mott constitutional amendment which guarantees that "men and women shall have equal rights throughout the United States and every place subject to its jurisdiction."

On one side of the official table sat a long line of feminists, members of the National Woman's party, determined to win equality for their sex through this amendment which they are sponsoring. On the other side of the table sat another long line of women of twelve national organizations opposed to the amendment and equally determined not to have equality.

And in between, holding a stop watch on the arguments, sat a man—whimsical, courteous, philosophic Senator Caraway, with his Arkansas drawl.

As One Side Views It.

The talk between the two factions is sharp and serious. The National Woman's party insists that it's better for a working woman to give up all protective legislation, such as limited hours of work, and keep her job, than to be swaddled in so many safeguards that her man employer will find it more profitable to discharge her and hire an unprotected male competitor.

But the National Woman's Trade Union league, represented by its president, Miss Rose Schneiderman, argues that the smart woman will get a job and legislative protection, too.

Then the National League of Women Voters carries the controversy from the factory into the home. One of its members, Mrs. William J. Carson, a Philadelphia attorney, attacks the proposed federal amendment as "unnecessary," and cites cases where women have won rights over husbands as well as employers in local and state battles without any federal help.

Senator Caraway Is Referee.

In the midst of this debate in the varying geographic rights of a married man to mortgage property without his wife's consent Senator Caraway, who is in charge of the hearing, grows curious and asks a question:

"Can a man get rid of property like that now?"

"Yes, he can."

"He certainly can."

"In Pennsylvania he can," the women on both sides of the table chorus.

The senator scratches his ear meditatively. Then he muses slowly:

"Why, down in my state it's different. Down there about the only thing a married man can get rid of without his wife's consent is his reputation."

Senator Stelwer, sitting in officially at the hearing, leans back in his chair and laughs.

The National Woman's party declares that it is unfair to forbid women to work on the night shifts in factories, for such prohibition often causes them to lose their jobs.

The women on the other side of the table answer that this night work is injurious to the workers' health.

But the National Woman's party tosses this back:

"Causing a woman to lose her job doesn't improve her health any."

And so it goes, vigorously and vocally, for two hours, with Senator Caraway interposing a soothing "thank you, madame," at the conclusion of each speech.

Faces $250,000 Alimony Bill; Court to Fix a Date

The question of how rapidly John F. O'Connell, loop broker, can pay $250,000 alimony to his former wife, Mrs. Sadie Kaplan O'Connell Goldblatt, was referred to Cornelius Harrington, master in chancery, by Superior Judge John J. Sullivan yesterday. O'Connell is at present $8,200 in arrears in his annual payments of $20,400, according to Mrs. O'Connell's attorneys, Socrates & Davis. He was divorced by his wife in July, 1928. O'Connell was ordered to pay $40 a week pending the decision of Master Harrington.

BLOOD TRAPPED, FOSTER FATHER ADMITS SLAYING

Frail Girl's Death One of Three N. Y. Murders.

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Doris Reiling, a frail, 18 year old girl with many admirers, was beaten to death with an iron topped stool in a rear room of a Cushman bakery shop on Broadway near 179th street today. Eight hours later her foster father, Frederick Reiling, a man of about 40, confessed the murder.

Taken to the Wadsworth avenue station house after his own father, 80 year old John Reiling, had told the police that Frederick Reiling and the girl had quarreled frequently, the foster father aroused suspicion by volunteering the information that he had gone to the bakery to see Doris at 6:50 a. m., within a few minutes after she had left him at their home, in West 185th street, to go to work.

Blood stains on his shoes caused him to collapse and confess.

No Motive Seen for This One.

In Brooklyn Philip Piccataggi, a man of 58, who lived with his wife, Rose, and two daughters, Mary and Eleanor, in the Borough park section of Brooklyn, was assassinated in front of 6416 17th avenue by two men, one of whom used a shotgun and the other a pistol.

Piccataggi was treasurer of Morris Gallo, Inc., a plastering concern. He was himself a boss plasterer and considered well-to-do.

Police could establish no motive for this murder.

Taken for a Ride.

In the Bronx Thomas Diorio, a young Italian, was "taken for a ride"—assassinated. Diorio was released only recently from Elmira reformatory. He was found stiff and stark early today in the gutter in East 177th street, about 500 yards east of Eastern boulevard. A bullet hole in the back of the head told the story of sudden death.

ONE moment when GEO. S. DOUGHERTY kept COOL!

GEORGE S. DOUGHERTY, one of the best known sleuths in America, formerly Deputy Commissioner of Police, and Chief of Detectives of New York.

"SEVERAL years ago William Rudolph, better known as 'The Missouri Kid,' and George Collins, alias 'Black Frank,' robbed a bank in Union, Mo., and fled with $135,000 to a shack in the Ozark Mountains. There they bumped off Detective Charles J. Shoemaker, the first man to track them down.

"Shoemaker was a Pinkerton detective. Billy and Bob Pinkerton told me the world was not big enough for them to hide in. 'Go get them, dead or alive!' they said.

"Black Frank was nabbed on the street. And finally, I dogged the Kid to a sporting house in Hartford.

"His hand darted for the 44 Colt in his holster. I sprang at him. Together we hit the floor, rolled over, struggling desperately. Three of his cronies pitched in. I had a tight hold of his right wrist. I felt him straining to get it closer, closer, closer to that holster. Believe me, this was one moment I had to keep cool!"

George S. Dougherty

P. S. "Both Black Frank and the Kid were hanged in the Union jail yard two months later."

FOG, RAIN, SNOW AND GALES HARRY EASTERN COAST

Collier Fast on Rocks with 51 Aboard.

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Dense fog and a drizzling rain crippled shipping, railroads and air service on the entire north Atlantic coast today. Blizzards inland tied up many highways and some railways.

The storm was general throughout northern New York and northern New England. Serious damage was caused along the New England coast by high tides. In New Hampshire the most damaging tides in thirty years pounded the shores, wrecking several cottages and flooding roads. The summer studio of Eugene O'Neill, the playwright, located on a high cliff near Provincetown, Mass., toppled into the sea.

Snow, reaching a maximum of 16 inches, covered upstate New York and Vermont.

After a day in which heavy seas pounded the 1,438 ton collier William N. Page against a sand bar a mile west of West Hampton Beach, L. I., while coast guardsmen vainly endeavored to place a line aboard by Lyle gun and airplane, officers and men of the stranded ship's crew, said to number 51, waited tonight for their next hope, that of refloating the vessel.

Members of the crew in lifebelts could be seen moving about the deck during intervals when the fog lifted.

An hour after the collier went aground the coastwise steamer George Washington, carrying 100 passengers, collided with a New York Central car float near Man of War rock in the East river. No one was hurt, but the ship was damaged. Farther down the coast, near Asbury Park, N. J., three Brooklyn fishermen were rescued at sea by the steamship City of New York, while a fourth man was rescued from the surf near Sea Girt, N. J., by a coast guard patrol.

INDIANA BOARD ASKS WIDE OPEN HIGHWAY PURSE

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—A request that the Indiana state highway commission be given broader authority to spend its receipts, subject only to the review of the state budget committee, was filed with the budget makers by the commission tonight preparatory to the convening of the 1931 legislature here Thursday.

Anticipated revenues for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 are $23,100,000, and for the fiscal year of 1932-'33 they are placed at $23,491,000, all of which the commission says it will use for road building and improvements. The budget request, in effect, asks that the legislature, instead of restricting expenditures to construction, maintenance and auditing, as heretofore, allot the anticipated revenues to the commission in a lump sum which would be expended with the approval of the budget committee at regular intervals.

Opponents of the plan say it would create a big "pork barrel," which could be used for political purposes.

The last appropriation act limited the administration department to $70,000, the maintenance department to $4,400,000, and the construction department to $8,000,000. At the same time, however, it made available to the department all revenues from state gasoline taxes, automobile licenses, federal aid and miscellaneous receipts, with the result that the commission actually spent in the fiscal year ended Oct. 1 last a total of $22,569,171.

REPORT BERGDOLL LEFT GERMANY FOR AMERICA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 6.—The small town of Weinsberg, sixty miles from Heidelberg, the refuge of the millionaire war slacker, Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, is seething with rumors that Bergdoll left for America last week after his family had reached a compromise with the Washington authorities.

The former Bertha Frank, daughter of a Weinsberg head gardener, today declared she was Bergdoll's wife and that her husband had spent Christmas with her.

She refused to answer questions about Bergdoll's reported return to America. According to information, a note mailed by Bergdoll revealed that he was aboard the Majestic.

Majestic Docks in New York.

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—The Majestic docked in New York tonight. Ship news reporters were unable to learn whether Grover Cleveland Bergdoll was a passenger. Washington officials said they knew nothing of the report.

100,000 SILENTLY HONOR JOFFRE AT ARCH OF TRIUMPH

Line Streets Ten Deep; Cannon Roar Salute.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 6.—Marshal Joffre, the "savior of the Marne," sleeps in the little chapel in Notre Dame cathedral tonight, just to the right of the arched entrance, and far from the pretentious and lofty catafalque under the grand nave where the final religious rites will be held tomorrow morning.

In sudden and strange contrast to the countless thousands who for the last two days filed past the bier at the war college chapel, Marshal Joffre's body lay guarded by a small company of priests in the eerie light of a few flickering candles under the lofty arches of the old church.

100,000 Pay Silent Honor.

Shortly before 9 o'clock this morning the body was taken from the war college. Arriving at the Arch of Triumph, under which lies France's "unknown soldier," the simple ceremony of a momentary pause before the tomb precipitated an impressive ceremony. Instead of the handful of curious, expected to be present, the great Etoile circle was ringed by more than 100,000 silent, reverent onlookers, lining the sidewalks ten deep all the way down the Champs Elysées. They were kept in check by mounted republican guards.

The simple funeral cortége was led by cuirassiers. Instead of lances, great torches were held aloft, which strangely lighted their red plumes and horsehair switches, flowing down from shining helmets. Then followed an automobile hearse bearing the marshal and his staff, Gen. Dufour, Col. Desmazes, and Capt. St. Sernin, looking drawn and wearied from their long vigil during the last few days.

Cannon Roars Salute.

As the automobile hearse moved silently up under the arch, a colonel of the 24th infantry honor guard broke the stillness under the arch with a raucous command. Bayoneted rifles came rigidly to present arms. The hearse stopped. The band blew the refrain of "Les Marseillaise" and a cannon crashed nearby, accompanied by many lesser explosions of flashlight powder.

Bugles then sounded "Aux Champs," the French equivalent for "taps," and the small cortége moved on down the magnificent Champs Elysées lighted only by the cavalry's torches, all electric signs having been ordered darkened. At intervals French 75s, parked along the Siene, barked salutes of 21 guns.

It was announced today that a special distinction had been accorded the United States army by the French war ministry, which has invited Brig. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, military attaché, as ranking American officer in France, to be one of the honorary pallbearers.

NAB EX-CONVICT; SEE SOLUTION OF DEATH MYSTERY

With the arrest in Chicago yesterday of a former convict Chief of Detectives John Norton believes he has solved the mystery of the death of Russell Gorvott, a Michigan Central railroad freight brakeman, near Hageraville, Ont., last July. Gorvott was found dying under the wheels of his train.

Two patrolmen in plain clothes yesterday arrested on suspicion Jerome Johnson, 24 years old, 1239 West Madison street, who said he was a chauffeur. Finger prints, however, revealed that he had served three years at Jefferson City, Mo., penitentiary for robbery and 60 days in the Bridewell here for larceny, Chief Norton said.

Last night Mrs. Johnson, who had quarreled with her husband, walked into the detective bureau and said Johnson had boasted to her he had once killed a railroad trainman in Canada, near St. Thomas.

SALTIS GRANTED JURY TRIAL ON VAGRANT CHARGE

CRIMINAL COURT.

Steve Novak, rape, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell; William Majewski, rape, sentenced to 30 months in the penitentiary, by Judge Philip Finnegan.

David Rosenfeld, arson, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge Joseph Burke.

Joe Saltis, south side beer racketeer and public enemy, was granted a jury trial yesterday when arraigned before Judge John H. Lyle in the Felony court. He is charged with vagrancy, as are the other twenty-five public enemies listed by the Chicago crime commission. Saltis, who fled to Wisconsin months ago, returned to the city when his son was injured by an automobile.

"We have no objection to your honor trying this case," said Attorney George Crane, who appeared with Saltis before Judge Lyle. "However, we are asking for a continuance because Saltis' son is still in a serious condition. Another reason is that Attorney James Burke, who is really the lawyer in this case, is also ill."

"Inasmuch as you have said before that you want a jury trial, this case will have to be transferred to the chief justice," said Judge Lyle. "I am too busy trying nonjury cases in this court, and, anyhow, we have no jury out here. The sooner the case is sent downtown the sooner it will be tried. Therefore I will send it to the chief justice at once."

Saltis and his attorney marched from the courtroom to appear later in some other court. He is the only public enemy who has said he would be willing to be tried before Judge Lyle.

Norway Grants Trotzky, Red Exile, Lecture Permit

Want to Look Young?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you 90 per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound, as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver, and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

BALKS ON PLAN FOR PROGRESSIVE TRAFFIC LIGHTS

So. Parks Head Fears New Congestion.

Prospects for the early installation of a coördinated system of progressive traffic light on Michigan avenue between Oak street and 22d street appear to have faded as a result of the attitude of President Edward J. Kelly of the south park board, who said yesterday that advocates of the proposal have not convinced him of its practicability.

Various Chicago traffic engineers have estimated that the time required to travel along Michigan avenue between Oak and 22d street would be reduced materially through the use of progressive lights in place of the present synchronized lights. Following a number of meetings last summer by various civic bodies interested in traffic control, south park officials intimated that they were ready to join with the city and the Lincoln park district in the installation of a coördinated system. The Lincoln park board has jurisdiction over the thoroughfare to the Link bridge, the city from the bridge to Randolph street and the south park board from Randolph street south.

Kelly Not Convinced.

"No one has convinced me that the use of a system of progressive lights would expedite south side traffic," Mr. Kelly said. "However, we are not taking an adamant stand and if any one can demonstrate to us that progressive lights would be of greater benefit to traffic than the present system we stand ready to install them.

"I recently returned from New York City, where I watched the control of traffic. There the same system is used that we employ and it seems to me that if it were possible to get a better system New York would do it. The present lights appear to work satisfactorily on Fifth avenue, where traffic is extremely congested.

Cites Million Spent.

"We have spent millions of dollars for the improvement of the south side's boulevards and we don't want to have all this set at naught through the installation of control lights which might delay the flow of traffic instead of expediting it.

"Possibly progressive lights might be of some help to north side traffic, but at the expense of south side motorists. The trouble now is that while the south side has plenty of outlets for traffic Michigan avenue must bear the brunt for the north side.

"It is true that traffic is tied up at the north end of Michigan avenue, but it proceeds swiftly south from Randolph street. Cross traffic entering the south side's outer boulevard systems might be held up by a new system of lights and this would only add to the congestion."

The progessive light system has the approval of the city and Lincoln park district. The system also has the backing of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

DELAY HEARING ON FALL APPEAL TILL FEBRUARY 2

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Hearings of appeals of Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, and Harry M. Blackmer, convicted in connection with the Teapot Dome oil lease scandals, today were postponed by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals until Feb. 2.

The postponement was ordered to permit Judge D. Lawrence Groner, recently appointed to the court by President Hoover, to take his seat.

Fall was sentenced to a year in prison and to pay a $100,000 fine. Blackmer, former chairman of the Midwest Oil company, was fined $60,000 for contempt of court. He has remained abroad and refused to answer court summons to testify.

REPORTER NABS NEGRO KIDNAPER OF BUSCH HEIR

Fugitive Is Located in Kansas City.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 6.—(AP)—The Negro kidnaper of Adolphus Busch Orthwein, 13 year old heir of the wealthy Busch family, was in the St. Louis county jail at Clayton tonight, five days after he seized the boy on New Year's eve.

The Negro, Charles Y. Abernathy, surrendered today to Harry T. Brundidge, reporter for the St. Louis Star, at Kansas City. Brundidge turned the Negro over to Sheriff Lill of St. Louis county, who was waiting for him near his hiding place in Kansas City.

Abernathy was brought by automobile from Kansas City to the jail, where he was booked and placed in a cell. He was smiling as he left the sheriff's office and laughed aloud as he held up a newspaper to shield his face from photographers.

Prosecuting Attorney Castlen announced he would insist on a $50,000 bail bond for the kidnaper. Abernathy's father, Pearl Abernathy, and his niece, Frieda Robb, both charged with complicity in the kidnaping, are still in jail, unable to raise the $30,000 bail bonds demanded for their release.

An attorney for the Busch family said his clients would request their release, as they were convinced the father and niece had no part in the kidnaping.

The newspaper did not reveal how the kidnaper had been traced, but explained the first tip was that the name of Abernathy had been mentioned in the Orthwein household in connection with the case. Pearl Abernathy, a real estate dealer and father of the kidnaper, was questioned and from him it was learned that one of his sons was involved.

U. S. GRAND JURY TO SIFT INDIANA POSTAL JOB SALE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Grand jury investigation into the alleged sale of postmaster appointments in the First congressional district of Indiana was in prospect today.

Attorney General William D. Mitchell announced that the facts submitted to the department of justice by the postoffice department which resulted in yesterday's dismissal by the latter department of four postmasters will be sent to George R. Jeffrey, United States attorney at Indianapolis. If Mr. Jeffrey desires it, a special prosecuting attorney will be sent from Washington to assist him in handling the case.

The understanding is that postoffice inspectors have assembled a considerable amount of evidence concerning the payment of money as campaign contributions by the four postmasters who were dismissed.

Representative Harry E. Rowbottom of Evansville, Ind., represents the First congressional district. His name has not been directly connected with the case, either by the department of justice or by the postoffice department. Some of the discharged postmasters, however, have admitted making contributions to his campaign fund.

Mr. Rowbottom, a Republican, was defeated for reëlection in November and will retire from the house on March 4. He had klan support in his campaigns.

There are several criminal statutes under which both members of congress receiving money for influencing official actions and persons paying the money are liable to prosecutions. Penalties range up to fines of $10,000 and imprisonment for three years.

"Civilized" Skunks Drive 3 Wild Polecats from Zoo

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 6.—(AP)—A group of 17 civilized skunks in the Detroit zoo today settled a delicate problem for zoo officials by casting out of their midst three wild brethren. The three uninvited animals found their way into the skunk den, but the 17 cultivated polecats drove them out.

SPEAKEASY OWNER HELD BY U. S.

Claude Clark, alleged owner of a speakeasy at 40 North Wells street, was held to the federal grand jury by United States Commissioner Walker yesterday in bond of $5,000. Conspiracy charges against Julius A. Hackett, agent of the building, and a Negro porter were continued until Jan. 9.

BOTANIST USES PLANE TO STUDY GLACIAL PERIOD

Traces History of Dunes from Aloft.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Botany has taken to the air at the University of Minnesota, the seventh major science to discover special uses for aviation.

For months, it was revealed today, Dr. W. S. Cooper, professor of botany, has been going aloft, reading in the massed carpet of vegetation in northern Minnesota certain tracks of the glaciers of 20,000 years ago.

Previously archeologists have used airplanes to locate prehistoric cities, geologists to read time's map in earth contours, meteorologists for weather, zoölogists for identifying high flying insects, astronomers for eclipses, and biologists for floating bacteria.

Studies Dunes from Plane.

With Mark M. Hurd, Minneapolis aviator, Dr. Cooper has flown repeatedly since last spring, looking at sand dunes and their vegetation, both markers of a time when the glaciers are believed to have pushed the Mississippi river out of its course.

"I found," the botanist says in a forthcoming report, "that the dunes occur all the way from St. Paul to Brainerd.

"Where did the sand come from? Evidently from the glacial Mississippi. I had to go into the air and look down from a great height to gain this information.

"At first after the ice melted the hills became covered with spruce and the sandy plain with pines. Here and there groups of pines and spruces still remain hidden among the oaks and these are easily located and photographed from the air.

Takes Photographs from Air.

"On dunes the vegetation today is mainly prairie grasses with two kinds of oaks which differ in the sort of places they prefer. By flying over the region in October, when one kind has dropped its leaves and the other has not, it was easy to pick out the two kinds and make a record of their distribution by vertical photographs.

"Different sorts of aquatic plants growing in lakes which occur in the depressions among the ancient dunes can be accurately mapped from the air and even the muskrat population of a lake can be estimated by counting the houses which stand out as white dots in the center of a perfect circle of water cleared of all plants."

Ford Rubber Concession in Brazil Hit by Rebel Chief

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

15 Month Hunt Leads to Home of Nurse.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York News.]

PARIS, Jan. 6.—Capt. Christian Gross of Chicago, a member of the American diplomatic service, today received word from America that his 7 year old son Peter, who has been missing fifteen months, has been located at Staatsburg, Duchess county, N. Y.

It is said the boy was placed by a trained nurse in the care of her father, James Burke, who was aware of the child's identity and origin and believed the nurse acted on behalf of Capt. Gross' divorced wife, who with Marcus de Sayas has been accused in Grenoble, France, of having kidnaped the boy.

Peter has been turned over to Capt. Gross' parents at Staatsburg and is reported to be in good health. Capt. Gross today expressed his gratitude to the Burke family for their kind care of his child.

Nurse's Mother Is Silent.

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—At the home of James Burke in Staatsburg, inquiries on the whereabouts of Peter, 7 year old son of Capt. Gross, were met with silence.

Mrs. Burke, wife of the man who has been Peter's unofficial guardian for fifteen months, said her husband was away and that she had been instructed to answer no questions about the boy.

Charles W. Gross, the boy's grandfather, with whom he is reported to be, has his home in Chicago, but was said to be in Staatsburg.

WON DIVORCE HERE.

The marital difficulties of the Grosses began in January, 1928, when Mrs. Gross filed suit for divorce in the French courts, charging desertion. They were married in 1922. Mrs. Gross was the daughter of Francis Burton Harrison, former governor general of the Philippines. She was a granddaughter of Col. George Crocker of San Francisco, one of California's wealthiest men.

Capt. Gross, whose former Chicago home was at 6721 Chappell avenue, replied to Mrs. Gross' action with another divorce suit, filed in the courts here. He named as co-respondent a Spaniard, Alberti, who had promised, he alleged, to put Mrs. Gross in grand opera within six months. Superior Judge Robert E. Gentzel granted the decree last August, also awarding to Capt. Gross the custody of the two children, Peter, 7 years old, and Barbara, 5.

Barbara was with Capt. Gross, but Mrs. Gross had Peter, and ever since the decree was granted the father has been searching for him. Capt. Gross also obtained an injunction restraining a New York trust company from paying Mrs. Gross $250,000 of an $830,000 trust fund.

Money or a "Ride" Offered Official Fighting Gambling

Freeport, Ill., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Alderman A. R. Buffin said today he has received a letter conveying a promise and a threat. A promise of a "nice little sum" if he would quit fighting slot machines and gambling in Freeport, and a threat that he would be "taken for a ride" if he doesn't.

GARRETT, FORMER RUM RAIDER, ON TRIAL ON CONSPIRACY CHARGE

Boston, Mass., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Oliver B. Garrett, once liquor raider and storm center of the Boston police department, was placed on trial today for alleged extortion and conspiracy.

The dapper, slender young defendant vanished just before he was to go on trial last June and returned voluntarily six months later after a nation wide search for him had failed. Co-defendants with him are Mrs. Garrett and Miss Lillian V. Hatch, once a checkroom employé of the Hotel Hits, whose owner, John F. Sullivan, is the state's outstanding witness against Garrett. They are charged with conspiracy.

STEALS 3 AUTOS, NABBED TRYING TO TAKE FOURTH

Morris Darmistadt, 41 years old, who for a week had lived in a rented room at 931 Lakeside place, and who stole three cars within a few hours from the South Shore Cadillac Motor Car company, 2015 East 71st street, was arrested yesterday afternoon when he returned to get another.

The first car was missed late Monday night. Early yesterday another disappeared from the lot adjoining the auto agency's offices. Police were called but before they arrived the third car was taken away just after an employé had parked it in a driveway.

Sergts. John Kelly and George Tucker of the detective bureau auto detail seized Darmistadt as he started the motor of the fourth car. One car was found nearby where it had been abandoned because of a dead battery, the second was parked in front of Darmistadt's home, and the police were still hunting for the missing auto late last night. The three stolen cars were valued at $12,000.

Darmistadt said he was broke and needed money. A girl friend who went for a ride with the thief is being sought for questioning.

Deaf Hear Again Through New Aid

Earpiece No Bigger Than Dime Wins Enthusiastic Following Ten-Day Free Trial Offer

After twenty-five years devoted exclusively to the manufacture of scientific hearing-aids, the Dictograph Products Co., Inc., Dept. 146B, 180 North Michigan Blvd., Chicago, Ill., has just perfected a new model Acousticon that represents the greatest advance yet made in the recreation of hearing for the deaf. This latest Acousticon is featured by a tiny earpiece no bigger than a dime. Through this device, sounds are clearly and distinctly transmitted to subnormal ears with wonderful benefit to hearing and health alike. The makers offer an absolutely free trial for 10 days to any person who may be interested, and a letter will bring one of these remarkable aids to your home for a thorough and convincing test. Send them your name and address today! (Advt.)

Health Slipping? Noted Physician Explains Danger in Clogged Intestines

TIRED ALL OVER? That's a sign your body is being poisoned—from within! DR. GEORGES ROSENTHAL, celebrated authority of the Pasteur Institute, in Paris, explains how poisons form when intestines are stagnant and unclean. These poisons circulate through the body—undermine vitality and health. THIS IS WHERE the trouble starts! "Keep intestines clean with fresh yeast," Doctor Rosenthal urges DANGEROUS POISONS spread from Here!

That's why Intestinal Fatigue causes so much sickness and poor health, explains Doctor Rosenthal, the famous French medical authority

DO you tire easily? Is your appetite poor, your pep all gone? Are you subject to indigestion, to headaches, to frequent colds?

And do you really want to find out what is wrong : : : what it is that's keeping you from perfect health, from greater success, from more abundant living?

Then read what follows—carefully. It is a message from one of the foremost medical authorities in Europe today : : : Dr. Georges Rosenthal, Laureate of the Institute and of the Academy of Medicine of France.

Doctor Rosenthal says:—

"When an unclean condition arises in the intestines, poisons form. These poisons penetrate into the blood and affect the whole system.

"To keep the digestive and intestinal tract clean, medical science recognizes the surprising value of fresh yeast.

"Fresh yeast is a food—not a drug. It corrects indigestion . . . tones up the system . . . increases resistance to colds. Coated tongue, bad breath . . . headaches, pimples, etc., clear up."

There is opinion based on a lifetime of medical experience! And how sensible—how very simple to act upon!

For fresh yeast—Fleischmann's Yeast—acts in Nature's own way to correct Intestinal Fatigue and thus to clear away the poison-breeding wastes that contaminate your system.

As soon as you eat it, Fleischmann's Yeast mixes with the contents of your digestive tract . . . softens them . . . stimulates the muscles that help your body clear them away.

Thus yeast gradually restores normal intestinal action, stimulates internal secretions, tones up and cleanses the whole digestive mechanism. Your appetite picks up. Headaches and skin troubles are corrected. Ambition and energy revive!

And all without a single dose of medicine, a single bitter cathartic or pill!

You can eat Fleischmann's Yeast any way you like—preferably just plain, or in a third of a glass of water (hot or cold). Eat three cakes every day—one before each meal, or between meals and at bedtime. Each cake is rich in three health-giving vitamins—B, G and D.

At grocers', restaurants, soda fountains

Fleischmann's Yeast is fresh yeast . . . the only kind that benefits you fully.

Eat 3 cakes a day!

Remember, it's important to ask your grocer for Fleischmann's fresh Yeast (with the yellow label) : : : the only yeast that contains the Sunshine Vitamin D! Every cake is "irradiated" so give it this added element so important for sun-starved indoor workers. It is rich in Vitamins B and G, too.

SLAP PENALTIES ON PERSONALTY OWNERS IN LOOP

Tax List of Big Concerns Is Made Public.

Personal property tax lists for the loop district were made public yesterday by the board of assessors. The records reveal that approximately one-half of the 1930 tax schedules which were sent out to owners of loop property were not returned. The penalty for failure to schedule is an increase of last year's valuation by 50 per cent for the new valuation.

The highest personal property valuation in the loop is one of $8,851,000 by the Chicago City Railway company. This assessment is against loop property only. The Peoples Gas, Light and Coke company is listed at $7,872,000 for the loop only.

300 Lawyers Penalized.

Among those penalized was the Hotel Sherman company, which will pay a 1930 personal property tax on a valuation of $75,000 due to a valuation penalty of $25,000. The Consumers company, 20 North Wacker drive, was also penalized by a $25,000 increase in valuation.

The lists disclosed that more than 300 attorneys having offices in the loop were penalized by increased valuations ranging from $100 to $300. At 160 North La Salle street fifty-five attorneys failed to file schedules, while in the Ashland block, 155 North Clark street, fifty-eight attorneys will pay on increased valuations due to penalties.

Some Loop Valuations.

Other loop personalty valuations follow:

Marshall Field & Co. State and Washington	$4,710,000
Mandel Brothers State and Madison	600,000
Boston Store, 2 North State	570,000
The Fair, Adams and Dearborn	500,000
Chicago Title and Trust company 69 West Washington	1,750,000
Palmer house, Monroe and State	200,000
Morrison hotel, Clark and Madison	80,000
Hotel La Salle, La Salle and Madison	40,000
Albert Pick & Co., 224 West Randolph	39,000
National Bond and Investment company, 100 North La Salle	37,500
Bismarck hotel, Randolph and Wells	15,000
Credit Alliance company, 35 East Wacker	54,000
Charles A. Stevens company, 19 North State	276,000

The board of assessors' staff is now completing the tax lists for the townships of Hyde Park and South Town. When all of the townships in the county are completed the books will be turned over to the board of review. The reviewers, however, are still examining the 1929 lists and it is probable that they will be unable to adjust the 1930 books before next summer.

BERRY DIVORCE SETTLEMENT IS EXPECTED TODAY

Final settlement of the H. Roy Berry divorce case is expected today in the courtroom of Superior Judge Desort following a conference yesterday between Berry, his wife, Mrs. Frances Mary Berry of 200 East Chestnut street, and their attorneys. Mrs. Berry, through her attorney, John J. Kelly, has demanded a divorce and a settlement of $100,000.

At yesterday's conference it was understood that Berry's attorney, Leonard C. Reid, offered a counter proposition of a divorce, $20,000 in cash, real estate, and $500 a month alimony.

The case has been before the divorce courts for more than a year. Berry, real estate operator, sued for divorce, charging excessive drinking. His testimony was based on his wife's diary, which, he alleged, recounted numerous drinking parties from the time they were married in July, 1927 until they separated in October, 1929.

Mrs. Berry filed a cross bill charging her husband with cruelty and excessive drinking. She has been receiving temporary alimony of $500 a month.

Souvenir Shell from War Explodes; Family of 4 Die

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Jan. 6.—(AP)—For several years a shell, souvenir of the fighting in the district during the world war, rested in a home in the village of Opuzena. Today it exploded, killing two children and their mother. The father dropped dead of the shock.

Science Solves a Most Embarrassing Meat Problem

Charleston, W. Va., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Dripping a laboratory made digestive juice down the throat of L. T. Gollahan, 52, of Bland, for 24 hours, physicians at Bluefield dissolved a piece of meat which became lodged in his throat last Friday and saved his life. Unable to remove the meat by surgery the doctors used a solution of hydrochloric acid and pepsin, the principal digestive agents of the stomach.

HOLD UP TWO IN HOTEL.

Two young men yesterday held up Mrs. Elizabeth Shearin, a guest, and William H. McMahon, an employé, in the lobby of the Belmont hotel, 721 Belmont avenue, and escaped with $40.

HINDUS OF INDIA REJECT MOSLEM OFFER OF PEACE

MacDonald Fails to End Deadlock at Parley.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 6.—Another effort by Prime Minister MacDonald to break the deadlock between the Hindus and Moslems, which threatens the success of the Indian round table conference, failed today, in spite of an effort on the part of the Moslems to meet the views of the Hindus. The effort was made at a meeting of the minorities committee, over which Prime Minister MacDonald presided. He appealed to the Hindus and Moslems to settle their age old difficulty.

Sir Mahomed Shafti, speaking for the Moslems, declared that his co-religionists preferred to retain the right they now have of separate electorates with fixed percentages of their representatives in the legislative assemblies, but that they are prepared, in the interest of peace and good will, to accept the Hindu proposal for a common electorate, provided they are guaranteed percentages of representation in proportion to their percentage of population.

Hindus Reject Offer.

This offer was rejected by Dr. B. S. Moonje, who spoke for the Hindus. He declared that if all the claims of the minorities to special representation were granted, there would be nothing left for the Hindus, who comprise a great majority of the population, but who have only 35 per cent representation in the legislative assemblies.

At the close of Dr. Moonje's speech Prime Minister MacDonald said that the prospect of a settlement was not bright, but after having heard all sides of the question he suggested that he summarize the positions in a draft report, which might then be discussed by a committee.

This morning the British Conservatives voiced their position through a speech by Sir Samuel Hoare, who objected to giving India self rule. The British army, he said, must not be weakened or withdrawn, and no one must be allowed to issue orders to it but Britons. India's finances must be controlled by Great Britain's viceroy, and the powers of suspending the constitution and disallowing legislation must not be interfered with, he declared.

Gandhi's Son Sentenced.

BOMBAY, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Ramdas Gandhi, youngest son of Mahatma Gandhi, nationalist leader, was sentenced today to six months' imprisonment for urging peasants of the Surat district to make their own salt, and Vallabhai Patel, acting president of the Indian national congress and Gandhi's second in command, was sentenced to nine months in connection with the civil disobedience campaign in Bombay presidency. Young Gandhi has already served a term for a similar offense and Patel has received two other jail sentences.

Winds Lash Lake, Piling Mounds of Ice on Shore

Somewhat warmer weather today, followed by rain tonight, was forecase last night by the weather bureau for Chicago and vicinity. High winds which whipped up huge waves in Lake Michigan yesterday, were abating last night and are due to increase and shift to the southeast today. No damage was done along the water front, according to the central coast guard, but floating ice driven ashore and piled in fantastic mounds along the city's beaches attracted scores of spectators. The accumulation was especially spectacular at the Oak street beach.

TO VOTE JAN. 16 ON MODERNIZATION OF THREE BATTLESHIPS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Continuance of the American battleship modernization program seemed assured today when the senate approved an agreement to vote Jan. 16 on the Reed bill authorizing $30,000,000 for the reconstruction of three outclassed dreadnaughts, the New Mexico, Idaho, and Mississippi.

Although the measure will be attacked by senate radicals and the "little navy" group, advocates of the bill anticipate its passage by a big majority.

The Jan. 16 voting date was agreed upon after the senate had wrangled for two hours over a motion by Senator W. H. King [Dem., Utah] to reconsider the vote by which the Reed bill originally had been passed on Dec. 8. Senator Claude A. Swanson [Dem., Va.], who led the fight for modernization, finally agreed to permit a reconsideration of the vote on the express condition that a definite time for voting would be agreed upon.

Opponents of the Reed bill were caught napping when Senator Swanson first brought it up for passage on Dec. 8. Senator King moved to reconsider as soon as he realized what had happened.

"I am ready to agree to a consideration of this bill," Senator Swanson said, "but only on condition that a definite day for voting is agreed upon. I do not want this bill approved unless a majority of the senate is for it. Neither do I want it killed by a small minority of four or five senators who were not present when the measure first came up."

BRANCATO FREED BY JURY OF GUN TOTING CHARGE

A jury in Judge John Prystalski's criminal court last evening returned a verdict of not guilty in the case of Dominick Brancato, 24 years old, alleged north side gangster, who was charged with carrying concealed weapons. He was arrested several months ago with Dominick Bello while in an automobile in front of the Chicago Temple building, which houses the downtown office of Chief Investigator Pat Roche and Assistant State's Attorney Charles F. Rathbun. At the time it was believed that a plot existed to murder the prosecutors.

Judge John H. Lyle in the felony court several weeks ago dealt out summary justice to Brancato when he was arraigned on a vagrancy charge. The judge after a speedy hearing sentenced him to six months in the Bridewell. It was charged, however, that the court records were falsified in this case and an appeal has been taken.

The jury yesterday voted seven to five for conviction on the first ballot, it was reported, but finally turned to a unanimous agreement for not guilty. No explanation was given by the jurors for their verdict.

TYPHOON DEATHS IN PHILIPPINES MOUNT TO 150

MANILA, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The typhoon which raged in the central Philippines Saturday caused at least 150 deaths and $1,250,000 property damage, said further reports tonight from the islands of Cebu and Leyte.

The Red Cross began relief work with the dispatch of a party to Cebu.

Twenty-seven persons drowned when the steamship Lozano foundered. Thirty others died in the sinking of fifty fishing boats. Sugar, hemp, banana and rice crops were badly damaged.

Indiana Claims Smallest Baby—a Pound and a Half

The village of Cook, near Hammond, Ind., boasts what is believed to be the world's smallest baby. It was learned yesterday. She is Ruth Angeline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hein. She was born the day before Christmas and weighs a pound and a half. She can lie on a handkerchief and rest comfortably in a cigar box. Her arms and legs are about the size of the ordinary adult's fingers.

RADIO TO INVADE THE BIRTHPLACE OF MOHAMMED

115 Stations Will Link Up Deserts of Arabia.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 6.—The sandy wastes of the Arabian deserts, where the camel trains of Sindbad the Sailor's day still bear a large share of the burden of travel and communication, will soon be bridged with a network of wireless, with the principal station within the sacred walls of the holy city itself.

Ibn Saud, king of the Hedjaz and leader of the faithful, has signed a contract with the Marconi company to erect 115 radio stations in Arabia. Furthermore, four radio sets will be fitted to trucks and will accompany the king during his many journeys over the desert.

Mecca to Have Station.

The two principal stations will be built in the king's two capitals, Riad, capital of Nejd, and Mecca, the city towards which the faithful all over the world turn daily for prayer.

The prophet forbade any infidel to put his foot inside the holy city, and the Marconi company will, therefore, be forced to train a complete crew of Mohammedan electrical engineers to install the elaborate station through which Ibn Saud plans to talk to Riad when he is at Mecca.

Powerful telephone and telegraph transmitters, with modern type receivers, will be installed within the sacred precincts, and Ibn Saud will remain in instantaneous communication with his governmental offices, even during his pious pilgrimages.

Arabs to Work System.

The stations throughout the country will be worked by Arab operators, and Ibn Saud will send a number of his subjects to England to study wireless telegraphy. The controls of the transmission sets will be fixed at a set wave length.

It is estimated that the entire hookup will be in operation within eighteen months. A British engineer will go to the desert towns to supervise the work and will pitch his tent outside of Mecca for distant supervision of the installation there after he has approached as near as the Moslems will permit a Christian to advance.

Ibn Saud is a Mohammedan leader under the true tradition of the prophet. He is head of a Cromwellian sect of extreme fundamentalists who live rigorous lives, eschewing all comforts, even the luxury of tobacco.

Woman Burns to Death as Fire Razes Farm House

Mrs. Louise Lantz, 51 years old, was burned to death yesterday in a fire that destroyed the Lantz farm home near Geneva. Her husband, Erik, and son, Fritz, awoke to find the house in flames and rushed to her bedroom, but a wall of fire barred them. An overheated furnace is believed to have caused the fire.

71, She Cuts Up $2,000 to Make Craziest Crazy Quilt

Pittsfield, Ill., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Mary Booth, 71, of Pearl, Ill., today was ordered committed to the Jacksonville Hospital for the Insane. Relatives said that recently she cut up $2,000 worth of paper money to piece it into a crazy quilt.

SENATORS SEEK WAY TO RETAIN CHANUTE FIELD

Residents Protest Prison Trade.

What action the Illinois delegation in Washington will take to forestall the projected removal of Chanute flying field from Rantoul, and the proposed establishment there of a federal prison will be considered today. Senator Otis F. Glenn will arrive here from Washington to confer with Senator Deneen before the latter's departure at noon for the capital.

The senators will discuss the protests made by business men and civic leaders in the Champaign-Urbana locality, where the plans of the war department and the department of justice to convert the air field into a prison have aroused bitter opposition.

Monmouth Seeks Prison.

Another development in the Chanute controversy was the arrival here yesterday of Mrs. Sarah Bond Hanley, Democratic leader and former state representative from the 32d district, who seeks to enlist the support of leading Democrats in securing the location of the federal prison at Monmouth. Leaders of all factions there, the local chamber of commerce and business men of Warren county are making a strong bid for the location of the prison there, she said.

The announcement of Secretary of War Hurley that activities at Chanute field are to be transferred to Wright field at Dayton and that the department of justice would be likely to use the sites for the erection of a federal prison for the sick and demented brought protests from leading citizens in Champaign and Urbana. They declare that the Chanute field is strategically located for air corps purposes and point to the advantage of having the air corps technical school situated near the University of Illinois.

Calls Proposal Injustice.

"It's a poor trade," declared Reginald C. Harmon, mayor of Urbana. "The war department will undoubtedly sustain a loss through the transfer to Dayton. It seems an injustice to the people of Illinois that the school should be changed without any sound reason for it. Trading an aviation school for a prison to a university community such as this is only an awkward method of keeping the people of the state from protesting too strongly."

Mayor George Franks of Champaign expressed the hope that something besides a prison would be substituted to replace the great loss to the community caused by the removal of the air field.

Paul Bacon, president of the Champaign chamber of commerce declared that the location of a prison within 14 miles of the university was a grave mistake.

Senator La Follette Here on Way Back to Congress

Hurrying back to Washington for the reopening of congress after the Christmas holidays, Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin passed through Chicago yesterday after having attended the inauguration of his brother, Philip, as governor of his state at Madison on Monday. Senator La Follette was accompanied by his bride.

NIGHT COUGHING

Quick and Safe Way To Stop It!

Whatever it is due to—cold, catarrhal condition of the throat, dust irritations or smoking—night coughing can and should be stopped! Nothing will pull you down faster, for it not only deprives you of needed sleep, but it tears you to pieces.

At the first sign of a cough, take good old "Piso's for Coughs." It does the five things necessary to stop a cough and repair the damage done. It checks the cough spasm, loosens the mucus, opens the air passages and soothes the inflamed tissues. At the same time, it has a tonic value that tends to build up what the cough tears down. Only Piso's supplies these five vital effects and it contains no opiates and does not upset the stomach. Safe to give even to babies. All druggists sell Piso's in 35c and 60c sizes. Be sure you get "Piso's for Coughs."

Teeth simply won't grow strong or stay strong without the food they need!

A FAMOUS doctor told a recent meeting of dental experts that about 80% of the population today is suffering from some form of faulty jaw development. Many of these faults, he pointed out, are traced to lack of the right food elements in the diet of growing children.

"Without the proper amount of Calcium and Phosphorus," he stated, "the jaw is discouraged in its normal growth. Calcium forms the basis of which the teeth are formed."

To assure the healthy, normal growth of teeth and bones, modern authorities urge mothers to give their children foods rich in Calcium and Phosphates. Milk is the best natural food source of these minerals. Green vegetables also contain them.

Other excellent sources of Calcium and Phosphates are foods prepared with Rumford, the all-phosphate baking powder. Rumford is so rich in these vital food elements that an average Rumford biscuit contains four times the Phosphate and half the Calcium contained in a large glass of milk.

Give your family plenty of cakes and hot breads baked with Rumford as well as plenty of fresh milk and green vegetables. You'll find Rumford's two-to-one leavening the best assurance of perfect results in baking, too. Get Rumford today from your grocer.

SPAIN RELEASES COLLEGE 'HEROES' TO THWART RIOTS

Sudden Freedom Disturbs Revolt Plotters.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Jan. 6.—In order if possible to forestall a nation-wide strike of university students, threatened for next Monday when the term begins, the government today released from prisons all over Spain hundreds of students implicated in the recent republican uprising.

From the Moncloa prison in Madrid, which houses the chief conspirators of the republican movement, 150 youths were freed and denied further enjoyment of profit from their situation behind the bars. Two of their ringleaders who, it is reported, had used firearms, were the only ones permitted to stay in jail.

Liberty Proves Disappointing.

All this is very disappointing to the leaders of the National Student federation, who had expected to turn to good use the imprisonment of their comrades in stirring the rest to valiant deeds.

The truce proves that it does not take much stirring to arouse Spanish students. The republican sentiment among them is strong. A leading professor at Madrid university last night said:

"The king would not dare to put his nose in any university in Spain."

The republicanism of the students appears to be a natural bent for throwing missiles at the civil authorities, such as tiles from the roof of the already battered university buildings, erecting barricades, burning newspaper kiosks, and what not.

Disorders of any kind at such a moment as this could easily precipitate a tragedy, the government realizes, and hence the release of the would-be martyrs.

Pretext for Riots Exist.

But it is doubtful whether this will suffice to head off the strike, which is obviously part of the republican plan to keep things stirring until another revolutionary movement can be hatched. There is sufficient pretext for student disorders with the chiefs of the republican movement still behind the bars. So far as can be learned the student leaders have still to be convinced that martial law is still in force, but the looming possibility of their colliding with steel in the hands of the unimaginative police guards is sufficient reason for a possible change in their plans.

It is not at all clear if republican leaders would be more dangerous to the government running at large than in jail. In Madrid, it has become quite the thing to visit them.

There does not appear to be any particular surveillance, and unbridled conversation goes on with much passing back and forth of documents.

The crowds at the Madrid prison have become so huge and boisterous at visiting hours that the police are having great difficulty in handling them.

Use Mails for Propaganda.

Despite the organized plans to continue to embarrass the government pending any new developments, the republicans' publicity man is going strong. He is using the royal mails to a great extent to circularize the country with all manner of propaganda allegedly printed at Moncloa prison.

At the present time soldiers and workers are being flooded with lurid accounts of the execution of Capt. Fermyn Galan on December 14 at Jaca, near the French border, in the abortive military revolt of part of the garrison there. He is the republicans' first hero-martyr.

Although many republicans privately curse him for going off half cocked, the workers and soldiers learn that he was a gallant man and everybody is repeating what are alleged to have been his words before the drum head courtmartial.

"There are in this room two men [himself and his brother rebel]: the rest are traitors," he is quoted as having said.

EXILED REVOLT CHIEF CLAIMS SPANISH USE CALVES IN BULL FIGHTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 6.—Maj. Ramon Franco, the Spanish trans-Atlantic flyer and rebel exile, tonight demonstrated that he has laid the strain of his revolutionary exploit behind him by revealing the secret of the decadence of the noble sport of bull fighting in his native land.

"Bull fighting has degenerated into a condition lower than prize fighting," Maj. Franco remarked. "The bulls are killing the sport. They are getting into big league bull fighting too young. The beef trotting into the arenas in Spain nowadays is only veal, rarely as much as four years old.

"In the good old days no self respecting bull tackled a first rate toreador, picador, matador or what have you under the age of six years. Three and four year old bulls have not sufficient maturity, courage and guile to cope with the skilled bull fighter.

"Sydney Franklin, the Brooklyn matador, is the only one in Spain today able to provide any interest in fighting the present day baby bulls. The reason is that he does Charley Chaplin stuff, and the peasantry, debased by the celluloid strip, goes wild with glee at his antics when he makes the callow calf swallow the sword."

HOLDUP VICTIM'S AUTO IN CRASH; BANDIT CAPTURED

Russell Wiles Jr., former University of Chicago student and now a radio engineer, yesterday inadvertently effected the capture of a holdup man, who turned out to be William May, ex-convict with a record extending back to 1916.

Driving north in Woodlawn avenue with Miss Marjorie Van Benschoten, 6618 Kimbark avenue, Wiles stopped for a red light at Marquette road. As he did, May jumped on the running board of the car flourishing a gun. Wiles started forward, striking at May with his fist. His car swerved, hitting that of Miss May Martin, 1414 East 66th place.

May, caught between the two, was knocked unconscious, and taken into custody by a police flivver squad that happened along. Wiles, arrested for reckless driving, was later discharged and complimented by Judge Francis Borrelli.

Woman Bandit Holds Up Couple; Loot Worth $6,000

John Sheridan, realty broker with offices at 624 South Michigan avenue, and his wife, Jeanette, were held up by a woman bandit last evening as they parked their car in front of their home at 905 Castlewood terrace. She took an expensive fur coat from Mrs. Sheridan and jewelry and cash from both. The Sheridans valued the loot at $6,000. A scarf concealed a small pistol as she approached the car and opened the door. After the holdup she walked a short distance to a sedan, in which were two men, and drove away.

MUTINY SCANDAL IN BRITISH FLEET HITS 2 CRUISERS

Cancel Sailings on the Spring Cruise.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 6.—Remarkable developments have followed a two day court of inquiry into the trouble arising on the submarine depot ship Lucia on Sunday, when 30 of its crew were arrested for refusing to obey a command.

Sudden orders were issued tonight canceling the sailing of the Lucia with the Atlantic fleet Thursday for the spring exercises, and also of the cruiser Norfolk, whose captains were both members of the court of inquiry.

Submarines Held Up.

It is further learned that the submarines of the "L" class, of which the Lucia is the parent ship, which were to form one of the most important units at the spring exercises, will not leave Plymouth, owing to the failure to secure a second depot ship.

The new order, which is causing considerable disorganization of the fleet, followed today's proceedings in the court of inquiry, where it was learned that statements had been made linking the events aboard the Lucia with a certain incident on the cruiser Vindictive.

It now seems certain, in view of these statements, that a courtmartial will be held and the whole proceedings made public. Evidence of a sensational character is likely to be forthcoming.

One section of the fleet which will sail Thursday comprises the battleships Nelson, flagship, with Admiral Sir Michael Hodges as commander in chief, and Rodney; the cruisers Hawkins, York, and Dorsetshire, and the cruiser-mine layer Adventure. They will visit the historic waters of the Spanish main, touching every island of importance in the British West Indies.

The Nelson will proceed to the Barbados and then to Dominica, St. Kitts, and Jamaica. About Feb. 23 the Nelson will reach Colon, on the Atlantic end of the Panama canal. Admiral Hodges will visit Admiral John V. Chase, commander-in-chief of the United States fleet.

The British admiralty regards this as a return visit to that of the United States battleships Utah, Florida, and Arkansas to Scotland last summer.

Policemen Offer Blood to Save Stricken Comrade

Although a dozen fellow policemen from the Chicago avenue police station yesterday offered themselves for a blood transfusion in an effort to save the life of Policeman Albin Johnson, who is in the Alexian Brothers hospital with acute sinus trouble, physicians decided against transfusion. Johnson's condition was so serious that the operation would probably be fatal, said physicians, who held little hope for his recovery last night. Policeman Johnson, who is married, lives at 4708 North Artesian avenue.

8 DIE IN BLAST MILE AND A HALF UNDERGROUND

Glen Rogers, W. Va., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Overcoming difficulties brought about by falling slate and mine gas, rescue crews tonight brought out the body of the last of eight men killed in an explosion today in the Glen Rogers mine of the Raleigh Wyoming Mining company. Seven bodies were brought out during the day, and all were identified.

Between 40 and 50 men were in the mine at the time of the blast which was described by officials af the company as "local" in character. The officials said it was confined to one section of the pit about a mile and a half underground.

About one tooth paste, at least:

THE TRUTH,

THE WHOLE TRUTH, AND NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH!

Tests conducted by great University's laboratories show startling facts about 10 American dentifrices

All these dentifrices were given exactly the same tests—on normal teeth. Photographs recorded first how dirty the teeth were before brushing. After brushing, photographs were made to show whether the cleansing had been thorough, or not. Finally each dentifrice was used in a test equivalent to 10 years' twice-a-day brushing at home—and microscopic lenses measured any injury to enamel.

THIS tells you exactly, in advance, what DR. WEST'S Tooth Paste will do for your teeth. It also tells you some hitherto unknown facts about 9 other dentifrices.

All dentifrices tested were found to be in one of the classifications following:

SEVEN DO NOT CLEAN—and of these seven two injure enamel!

TWO DENTIFRICES CLEAN BUT BOTH INJURE ENAMEL

ONLY ONE DENTIFRICE—DR. WEST'S—CLEANS TEETH WITHOUT INJURY TO ENAMEL

DR. WEST'S Tooth Paste, alone, cleansed teeth thoroughly, without any injury to enamel!

Gentle, Double Polishing Does It

This delightful modern dentifrice combines cleansing with a gentle double polishing action that cannot scratch or scour enamel.

That's why it brightens teeth beautifully—keeping them thoroughly clean, and safe!

In addition, it is deliciously refreshing and cooling to the whole mouth. And gives all other good results any dentifrice can safely provide.

You'll like DR. WEST'S Tooth Paste. It is already the most sensational success in dentifrice history. We have it for you: big tube, 25c; double-quantity, 40c. Most economical, as well as the best! They Said It Could Not Be Done.

Nothing which concerns the use and ownership of an automobile is more important than proper insurance protection.

Years ago the legal department of the Chicago Motor Club drafted an automobile insurance policy, the kind of a policy we thought would properly protect our members. It was free from all technicalities—a valued form policy (which means that in case of a total loss, the insurance company must pay the face value of the policy). Accessories were insured against theft without any additional premium charge. No short rate would apply in case our member for some reason should want to cancel his policy.

Further, we provided that our members should participate in the profits of the insurance carrier. We believed our member was a preferred risk, and we tried to get some responsible insurance company to write that policy.

They said it could not be done.....

Consequently, sixteen years ago we organized our own company, the "Inter-Insurance Exchange of the Chicago Motor Club." We have written that same policy ever since.

Today the "exchange" is carrying insurance on more motor vehicles in this territory than any other insurance company. The insurance department has prospered. It has accumulated assets in excess of an entire year's income. The members have profited. Not only have they enjoyed a good insurance service at a minimum cost, but each and every year they have received a cash dividend of 20% or more on their insurance premiums. During the year 1929 the cash savings returned to subscribers amounted to $711,332.11.

This insurance service is available only to members of the club. If you are not a member, join and take advantage of this service.

In addition to insurance service, the club provides members with such services as these:

Free mechanical first aid and towing service at any hour of the day or night.

Travel service, which provides you with maps, logs and the most complete and up to the minute advice on road conditions.

Bail bond service, which guarantees your appearance in traffic violation cases, where a bond not in excess of $100 is demanded.

Accident prevention work, which seeks to cut accidents, especially among school children, by means of safety posters and by fostering school boy patrols.

Home district service, which attends to special conditions around your home, such as seeing to it that refuse is promptly removed.

"Give me liberty to know, to utter and to argue freely according to my conscience, above all other liberties."
—Milton.

O, COMRADE!

By one of its processes the American government has issued a permit to the meat packers to deal, wholesale, in commodities other than meat and meat products to which a former order had restricted them. They may sell vegetables, fish, milk, coffee, nuts, and various other things for table use. They are not to do a retail business, the government wishing to preserve that to some extent to the small retailers, the neighborhood shopkeepers.

Apparently a government order could permit the packers to sell oil burners, books, drugs, or pleasure yachts, or it could prohibit this. The permission granted them to use their distributive system for other than fresh or cured meats came from the Supreme court of the District of Columbia, one of the agencies by which permits and prohibitions are controlled under acts of congress or rulings of commissars.

The farm board, another group of the people's commissioners, is buying grain and expects to have used some $500,000,000 by midyear. The Russian all union council of people's commissars orders the purchase, or taking, of grains, but the soviet collectivist machinery is not smoothly organized and the commissars do not get as much or get it so easily. The Russian Union of Soviet Socialist Republics as yet has neither the wealth nor the experience of the American Union. Consequently, it has more trouble with the grain growers, but it can study the methods of the American Union and no doubt will benefit therefrom in better times. The collectivist principle is the same and the Russian farmer will learn how to sell his grain to the government and the soviets will learn how to get it without raids and occasional manslaughter. America lights the way.

When the American growers have some tough luck the American communism shows again that Russia needs more experience and more money before it will be able to regard its methods as satisfactory. In a pending instance here Brother Caraway of the late United States senate has his associates make provision of $15,000,000 to feed the people injured by the drought in his own state and others. The collectivist control of the railroads enabled the government earlier in the relief work to give the distressed regions special rates at the expense of private citizens for the transportation of materials and products.

The American railroads have been communized so long that they are accustomed to commissar government and probably would not know how to proceed without it. Their executives expect to obtain a government ticket for each contemplated operation or change of operation, for their rates, their running time, and other details of administration. They have adjusted themselves to this form of government so thoroughly that if one had a chance to make an independent decision on his own initiative he would instinctively go for a stamped government permit.

America has about completed its five year plan and is well out in the clear ahead of the Russian experimenters, who have not shown either an active imagination or a resolute spirit. The American government is in control of railroading, merchandising and agriculture. It indicates by whom certain articles may be sold and may be expected soon to indicate at what price. It fosters one business and depresses another. It offers money for speculative purposes or refuses it or withdraws it. It says what may be used as sugar for sweetening coffee and what may not, what the people may drink and what they may not. It is apparently about to take charge of maternity, education, and the care of the teeth. It feeds the people in the country and is asked to feed them in the cities. Brother Norris will soon have it in the electric power business, and it will send out the light bills. Brother Johnson has put it in the city water and the subdivision business.

It is subsidizing winemaking and prohibiting the free use of the product. It levies taxes for economic effect, to level down one class and to build up another. It plays the consumer against the middleman in one instance and the middleman against the consumer in another. It puts difficulties in the way of distribution of some products and raises prices, or it throws the small retailer to the law of supply and demand and lowers prices.

It seeks out private enterprise where it is showing the most initiative and suppresses it. American character has become docile. The child in the cradle looks to a bureaucrat for its first playthings and the octogenarian for a ticket to cross the street. From his first to his last days the American soon will live by the stamped permit, and before he comes of age he will be dead from the collar button up.

The Russian Union of Soviet Socialist Republics cannot see where the American Union is going for the dust. Comrade Stalin should come on over. He'd be surprised.

JUDICIAL REFORMS.

It is to be hoped the legislature will adopt without unnecessary delay the well considered suggestions of the Illinois and Cook county judicial advisory councils. Some of the proposals are not needed, perhaps, in the state at large as in Cook county, but this ought not to encourage, as it certainly does not justify, indifference or obstruction from downstate legal conservatism. All the suggestions are improvements upon the present procedure.

We are not underestimating the value of these suggestions or the urgent need for their present adoption when we suggest that they do not touch upon the greatest of our needs, the raising of the level of our judicial personnel, both as to professional competence and character. All amendments of procedure, however desirable, will be disappointing unless we establish a wiser system of judicial selection and especially protect our courts, as well as a system can, from the entanglements of political influence. We most sorely need not only a more competent judicial personnel but one which is more independent of political pressures and considerations.

We recognize that no perfect system is procurable and that the problem of improvement is difficult to solve under our political conditions. But this should not discourage the councils from attacking it vigorously nor the bar and intelligent citizenship from giving its proposals active and insistent support. Other commonwealths have better judicial conditions than Illinois. We ought not to be satisfied with less than a place in the first rank.

THE WATER FUND.

The finance committee of the city council has tentatively approved expenditures from the water fund next year $9,650,000 in excess of the estimated income from the sale of water. The committee wants to spend $21,785,000, though income will be only $12,135,000. The water system already has a debt of more than $9,000,000, according to the report of City Controller Schmidt.

The water fund expenditures are administered by the commissioner of public works, Mr. Richard W. Wolfe. Mr. Wolfe's department authorized the expenditures for the Wabash avenue bridge approach, which a council committee has since been investigating to determine whether the costs were excessive, as was alleged. Mr. Wolfe found it impossible to attend several meetings of the committee and, when finally he did appear, explained that the arrangements had been made by others in his department. The intimation was that he could hardly be held responsible for what went on in his department. Mr. Wolfe, of course, did not invent that doctrine. It is a favorite with the present city hall administration.

Under the circumstances it would be scarcely prudent to intrust the expenditure of any extraordinary funds to the department of public works. When some one is placed in the commissionership who is ready to accept responsibility for what his department does, the council might be justified in borrowing money for the improvement of the water supply. That time will not come until there has been a house cleaning in the city hall.

AN APPROPRIATION THAT WON'T BE WASTED.

Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of army engineers, is asking congress for $3,950,000 for the Illinois waterway, to be spent in the year beginning July 1, 1931. This is in addition to the $1,200,000 allotted to the project in the emergency bill passed before the Christmas recess.

There is not much to be said for a good many of the appropriations which congress is being importuned to make as emergency relief measures; and there is only a great deal to be said against others. The government at Washington is in danger of succumbing to a kind of hysteria which has not been matched since the war. Fortunately, the proposal to complete the Illinois waterway is a guarantee that not all of the taxpayers' money is to be frittered away on questionable enterprises. The completion of the link between the lakes and the gulf will do far more than give temporary employment. It will open a commercial artery of the first importance in the nation's system of transportation. The traffic is here, ready to move as soon as the waterway is completed. Barges, towboats, and docks must be provided. Industries will proceed without delay to construct the special facilities required for shipping by water. Factories and warehouses must be erected. The railroads will have to provide facilities for the transfer of cargoes from barges to freight cars, and vice versa.

The Illinois waterway is precisely the kind of public work which can be undertaken now to best advantage. Its utility is beyond question. At any time, whether in a period of prosperity or of depression, the completion of the waterway would be of immense commercial value. It will be a business stimulator of lasting importance.

Editorial of the Day

THE 2 CENT FARE.

[Cleveland Plain Dealer.]

Announcement by two leading western railroads of a return to the 2 cent a mile fare on some of their branches recalls one of the biggest legislative struggles of a generation ago.

Two cent fare bills were fighting issues in many midwestern legislatures in the '90s. Those years were not gay in the corn and wheat belt. Crop prices were low. Populism was abroad in the land. Railroads were rated creatures of the money demons of Wall street. The battle was fought hard.

Rising prices and the big jump at the end of the war had seemingly relegated the 2 cent fare issue to history. Now declining passenger revenues have induced some of the roads to revive, unwillingly perhaps, the issue they hated.

First the individual auto, then the bus and the airplane have cut passenger receipts almost a third in ten years. The law makes it difficult for railroads to abandon passenger service on unprofitable branches. Even to take off a losing train often means a battle before a utilities commission and perhaps an order to continue a profitless service.

The last year has seen more sweeping canceling of passenger trains than any recent twelvemonth. Whether reduced fares can bring back the business and save to the roads some of the dollars that have been garnered by the bus lines is going to be an interesting laboratory experiment in the economics of transportation.

TESTING HEALTH KNOWLEDGE.

THE fifth annual meeting of the Chicago Principals' club is devoted to methods employed in the Chicago schools of teaching health. The following extracts are taken from a method of testing health knowledge of pupils used by them, as it is used by a great many schools elsewhere.

For eating a good noonday meal school children should plan to use about one-half hour.

Boys and girls who wish to be healthy should choose for luncheon hot soup, baked potato, milk.

One of the chief causes of decayed teeth is having food lacking in some elements while the teeth are growing.

It is best for children to eat at regular times each day.

Cooked meat or vegetables should be kept in a cold place, covered.

One reason why green, leafy vegetables are healthful is that they contain iron and vitamins.

While eating, it is a good thing to feel comfortable and happy.

One reason why people should not smoke is that it often harms the lining of the nose and throat.

In washing and drying dishes very hot water and soap are needed every time.

Get long and regular hours of sleep to keep well.

There is less danger of your giving a cold to some one else if you cover your face when coughing and sneezing.

If the organs of our bodies could talk they would say—wear loose clothing.

In choosing what clothes to put on when you dress in the morning, you should think whether or not they are suited to the weather.

One way tuberculosis is spread is by coughing and spitting.

Safety in games means watching out so as not to trip or to hurt other people.

We help to keep from having accidents in the water when we learn how to swim and how to save a drowning person.

Every one should start killing flies as soon as the first fly appears in the spring.

The best reason why patent medicines should be avoided is that they often contain drugs which are bad for us.

We get the best air to breathe by being out of doors in the sunshine.

The best way to spend the time right after school is to play out of doors in the sunshine.

The best way to sleep is with light, warm covers and windows open top and bottom.

PROBABLY LAUGHING GAS.

A Reader writes: What is this sweet air that is used for pulling teeth? Do you think this is the best way for a person with nervous indigestion to have the teeth pulled, or which way do you think best?

REPLY.

I presume you mean nitrous oxide, or laughing gas. This is one of the best anesthetics for the purpose.

YOU HAVE MIGRAINE.

H. M. writes: For the last four weeks I have been troubled with a constantly recurring headache, which affects only the right side of my head, over the right eye. These occur usually after retiring, at which time my right nasal passage becomes clogged and I find myself unable to keep it cleared. Please tell me what causes these headaches, and whether the clogging of the nasal passage is the entire cause.

REPLY.

You are having attacks of migraine. It seems probable that the primary trouble is in the nasal sinus.

COLD, CLAMMY HANDS.

L. A. writes: My hands are always cold and usually perspire, which makes them almost clammy. Can you tell me what causes this and what may remedy it?

REPLY.

You belong to a large group of persons who suffer from a lack of stability of the vasomotor nervous system. So long as the symptoms are no worse than you describe, about as far as you are justified in going is to harden yourself by cold baths, followed by vigorous rubs. This includes cold footbaths.

Letters to this department must be signed with names and addresses of writers.

NO HIT AND RUN.

Chicago, Dec. 29.—[Friend of the People.]—Does the Illinois law require a driver to give his name after an accident in which only property damage is involved? B. H.

Yes.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ALIEN'S ILLEGAL ENTRY.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—[Friend of the People.]—I came to this country in July, 1916, leaving a Norwegian ship without discharge, then working on American ships until December, 1918, but I have no complete record. I got my first papers in 1925 and would like to get my second. Where can I pay my immigration fee? Will I encounter any difficulty in doing so? C. J.

A person who entered the United States illegally cannot obtain citizenship papers until such time as there is a record of his legal admission to the United States for permanent residence.

By a recent act passed by congress it is possible for a person who entered this country illegally prior to June 3, 1921, to apply for a certificate of registry in order to legalize his residence. If and when he obtains this certificate he may obtain his citizenship papers. Forms for applying for a certificate of registry may be obtained at this office, room 1343 Transportation building. S. D. SMITH.

MUST PROVE DAMAGE.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Two months ago I bought a barber shop and in the bill of sale put the following clause:

"It is further understood by and between the parties hereto that said party of the first part is not to operate, or cause to be operated, another barber shop within a radius of one mile from the above described premises for a period of two years."

Could I collect damages if the party of the first part opened another barber shop within 300 feet of my shop? J. R.

Yes, if you could prove such damages.

A TOURIST IS A HARD BOILED GUY.

Havana is manifesting great surprise that, in spite of martial law in Cuba and threats of a revolution busting any time at all, the American tourists are flocking down in greater numbers than ever, and Sloppy Joe's and Dos Hermanos and all the other jovial places where Bacardi cocktails and other lovely alcoholic vianda flow freely are jammed to the guards. Be not surprised, Havana! You may have bullets whistling all up and down your streets, but when a tourist has a thirst, such as is only acquired by drinking bootleg likker, all the machine guns and rifles and artillery and revolutions there are in the world won't stop him.

SHORTER HOURS URGED BY GREEN TO AID JOBLESS.

(Headline in The Tribune.)

Aw, Mr. Green, please have a heart,
Don't give us shorter hours,
It's hard enough right now to get
A job we can call ours.

From dawn to dusk we tramp the marts
Of trade with no success—
What would we do with shorter hours
But make our chances less?

So, Mr. Green, heed our advice:
We strike for longer hours!
(That is, of course until we get
That pesky job of ours!)

SHERRY KING.

OUR FIRST PRIZE for Dirty Digs goes today to Harry Ditchburne, assistant state's attorney. Hymie Loud Mouthed Levine, the w. k. public enemy, had been brought before Judge Lyle. "He served," declared Mr. Levine's lawyer, pointing to the prisoner proudly, "under the American colors in the great war." "And under the state's colors," observed Mr. Ditchburne, "in the House of Correction in 1921."

SWEET ARE THE USES OF ADVERSITY!

R. H. L.: Although it is quite true that a number of persons have been somewhat inconvenienced by the present period of depression, it is equally true that many have benefited from it. As prosperity has its evils, so has depression its blessings. Statistics show that saxophone sales have decreased materially, thereby assuring the community of a proportionate increase in peace and quietude. Were it not that motor car sales have dwindled and an unusually large number of cars have been left in the garage, many pedestrians now living would be dead. Unemployment, too, has its advantages. Leisure hours spent in reading the classics, Emily Post's "Etiquette," and the 1930 Linebook make for refinement and sophistication. Through unemployment, also, many persons have been able to realize a lifelong ambition to retire at an early age—at least for six months or a year. It is, indeed, plain that hard times have wrought much good to the country and that the really fortunate people are the unemployed. Incidentally, if you know any one who is in need of a good accountant tell him to write to me. SNEEM.

SENATOR HI JOHNSON wants congress to order the marines back from Nicaragua because of the killing of eight of them by insurgents the other day. Congress may order all it pleases, but there's no chance of persuading the marines to come home until they've finally run Sandino down and given him such a kick in the pants that he won't be able to sit down for fourteen weeks.

SEA.

By this gray
Storm-ridden sea
All of life
Is plain to me:

All its swift
Impatient need
To display
It's birth or breed;

All its blase
Of human pride,
Brave, defiant
Of the tide;

All its hunger
To attain
Something further
Than the brain,

Something burning
In the heart,
Something nameless
And apart.

Watching waves
Take shape and rise
To a haughty
Height and size—
Watching waves
Sucked in the sea,
All of life
Is plain to me.

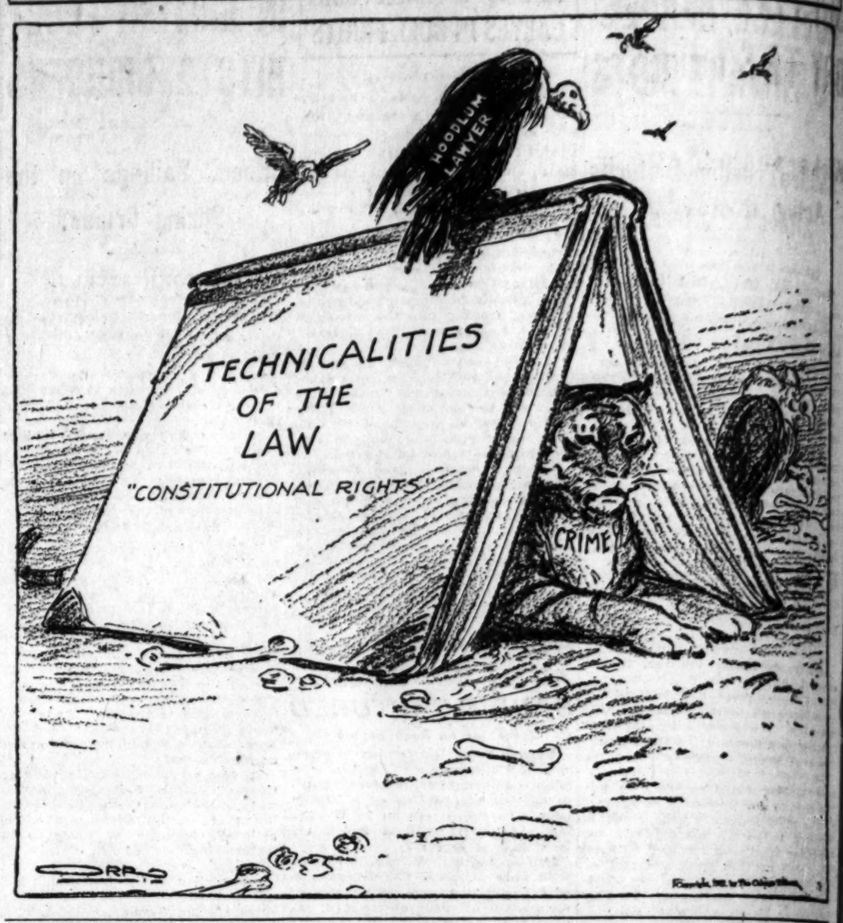
THE TIGER'S LAIR



FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 7, 1915.

ROME.—Pope Benedict XV. wired to Kaiser Wilhelm and Emperor Franz Josef urging the release of Cardinal Mercier, archbishop of Malines, Belgium. According to reliable advices, the prelate was arrested by the German military authorities for sending out a pastoral letter which is said to have counseled his followers not to accept the administration of the military authorities. The pope instructed the Austrian and German cardinals to use their influence in Cardinal Mercier's behalf. "This latest outrage against the sacred college," the pope says in his message to the cardinals, "is unprecedented since the middle ages."

WASHINGTON.—President Wilson declined for the sixth time since he entered the White House to support a federal constitutional amendment for woman suffrage. He repeated to a delegation of Democratic women his previous declaration that he considered suffrage a state issue.

CHICAGO.—Chicago housewives will probably have to pay 6 cents a loaf for bread within a few days, unless the wheat market drops considerably. This was the prediction of leading bakers following a record price of $1.37⅝ to $1.37½ for January wheat.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 7, 1901.

CHICAGO.—Philip Danforth Armour, founder of Armour & Co., died at his residence, 2115 Prairie avenue, yesterday afternoon of heart failure, following pneumonia. He had been in poor health for nearly two years. At his bedside were Mrs. P. D. Armour, Mr. and Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, Mrs. P. D. Armour Jr., and Dr. Frank Billings. The news of Mr. Armour's death was immediately telegraphed to relatives and friends in various parts of the world. Within an hour messages of condolence came pouring in. Close acquaintances of the family in Chicago also were notified and the residence during the evening was crowded with callers. Prairie avenue, near the Armour home, became gradually blocked with the carriages of the visitors, while before the door of the house gathered a crowd of neighbors. The attack of pneumonia, which, combined with a weakened heart, caused Mr. Armour's death, resulted from a cold contracted while playing in the snow with his grandchildren the latter part of November. Mr. Armour was born on May 16, 1832, at Stockbridge, New York. In 1852, at the age of 20, he joined the rush of gold seekers to California. After four years in the mining camps he returned east, first going to Cincinnati, where he married Miss Melvina Belle Ogden in 1862. From there he moved to Milwaukee, and finally entered the packing business with John Plankinton as his partner. The partnership was successful and in 1875 Mr. Armour came to Chicago and took his place at the head of Armour & Co.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 7, 1881.

LONDON.—Queen Victoria's speech read in the house of lords by Lord Chancellor Selborne refers to the eastern troubles and hopes for the best; deals with the Transvaal and the Basutoland, deploring the present state of affairs in both; touches on the evacuation of Afghanistan, which it is hoped soon will be accomplished, and discusses the Irish question. The condition of Ireland is described as one of lawlessness and terrorism, where "her majesty's writ runs not," and where life and property of loyal subjects are in danger. She recommends the usual panacea for Irish ills—coercion.

WASHINGTON.—President Hayes sent the nomination of Gen. Nathanial Goff to be secretary of the navy to the senate and his nomination was confirmed without a dissenting vote. Gen. Goff belongs to a wealthy and influential family at Clarksburg, W. Va., where he was born in 1826.

CHICAGO.—The annual meeting of the Society of Virginia was held at the Palmer house, with Gen. M. D. Buford presiding. These officers were elected: President, Gen. Buford; vice presidents, John S. Rogers, Judge S. M. Moore, and the Rev. Dr. H. W. Thomas; secretary, Hugh L. Mason; treasurer, C. H. McCormick Jr.; auditor, Thomas H. Ellis.

WHERE IS THEIR PRIDE?

La Grange, Ill., Jan. 5.—I happen to be one of the many students that go east to school from the Chicago territory. For seventeen short, but not futile, years I have lived near what I think will some day be the world's greatest city—namely: Chicago—but I must admit that I learned more about the city of Chicago and its reputation in the east than I ever did in this vicinity. Eastern young people, who have in most cases never visited Chicago, wonder at the fact that I have survived the machine guns, racketeers, gunmen, and thugs for seventeen consecutive years of life. They begged me to tell all I knew about Al Capone, Big Bill Thompson, and Bugs Moran. You can imagine that they were greatly disappointed when I confessed that I had never heard a shot fired in Chicago, had never been held up, and had not even seen such an interesting character as a racketeer.

The point, however, that I wish to make is that I, and I believe there are others, wonder at the fact that officials of the city of Chicago never become either so embarrassed or so ashamed of Chicago's reputation that they will coöperate to the fullest extent in driving the gangsters and the racketeers from the city. Where is their pride?

Isn't it about time, in view of the coming election for mayor, that the citizens of Chicago put a man at their head who will have a sense of pride and will clean up Chicago, giving the city the reputation that it deserves? I'm tired of admitting that I live near Chicago. BUDD GORE.

MUSSOLINI'S SPEECH.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—According to what the papers and announcer of the local station said we were to hear a speech in English by Mussolini, who has mastered the English language. We failed to comprehend one word that he said. I pity poor Italy if that man has mastered its people as he has the English language. MRS. MARY TIBERI.

IN CASE OF EMERGENCY.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—I happened to be a passenger on No. 601 south side bus, route No. 6, this morning. A woman passenger across from me became very ill, practically losing consciousness. This happened about 16th street, so the young lady sitting beside me went down to the bus driver to have him stop at St. Luke's hospital, which he did. By that time two men managed to drag this woman down the stairs and were attempting to open the rear door and followed instructions, "Break glass in case of emergency." This indeed was an emergency, but even after breaking the glass the door would not bulge, and the driver stated that it would not open. The lady was finally taken out the front door.

The fact that the emergency door would not open calls to one's imagination the scene if there had been a fire on the bus or an accident. D. F. S.

A FORECAST FROM THE CORN BELT.

Stronghurst, Ill., Dec. 23.—A policy that would have allowed farmers a scale of living the last few years similar to the city laborers would allow them to buy more freely now. The main reason for the boom in the cities that blew up last fall was the fact that such a large part of the earnings of the rural districts from 1920 to 1920 was extracted from them the last few years by unfair laws that allowed labor and manufacturers to have protection from world competition while not giving any practical protection to agriculture. I see red when any one pulls the old stuff about speculation in land being the trouble with the farmers. Our county is typical of most of the strictly rural counties of the corn belt. With a population of 9,000 in 1920 the resources of the banks of the county were over $3,660,000. Now they are $2,020,000. Meaning that every man, woman, and child of the county contributed over $180 of their savings to the city boom in this one item.

The people of the county bought their full quota of all the war loans and now seven-eighths of the owners have sold them and used the money in making up the difference between their income and the scale of living they wanted to maintain. The other way farmers raised money to make up losses or live beyond their income was by real estate mortgages. While the farmers were putting this money in circulation they were much better buyers than now.

With the buying power of the rural districts so low and the probability that the city people will not like to trust out their savings account or borrow on their life insurance to buy anything they don't need, it is probable that volume of production will run low for several years, unless the foreign markets improve or a higher price for farm products is established. J. C. B.

THE AVERAGE MAN AND THE LAW.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—"The Average Man and the Law," a TRIBUNE editorial of Jan. 2, 1931, reminds me of "me and my teacher don't get along," or the office boy who says, "The president of the company and I cannot get along together." The official isn't required to get along with the boy; the boy must abide by the wishes of the president or get fired.

The police force is appointed by the citizenry. In the last analysis the public is supposed to be the controlling factor. It elects the legislature, the courts, the mayor and the police. Then all it has to do is to establish what is to be done.

"The correction will have to begin with the police," the editorial says. This is the point that errs. The correction will have to be established by the public and then require the police to conform. The indifferent, fickle public itself is what needs stirring into some thoughtful action. H. D. MACDONALD.

SUPREME COURT SETS JAN. 21 FOR DRY TEST CASE

Wickersham Report Action Due Today.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Chief Justice Hughes announced today that the United States Supreme court had advanced the appeal of the government to test the recent decision of Judge William Clark holding the prohibition amendment invalid, and that arguments would be heard Jan. 21.

Counsel for the defendants, under the Clark decision, which held that the dry amendment was invalid because it had been ratified by state legislatures instead of state conventions, asked yesterday that the case be set for hearing not earlier than April 15. Solicitor General Thacher, on the other hand, asked for an immediate hearing, pleading the importance of prohibition enforcement and the damaging effect that might result from a delay in deciding on the point.

Wickersham Action Today.

Another prohibition decision, it is expected, will be reached tomorrow when members of the Wickersham law enforcement commission meet to take final action on its report. Chairman George W. Wickersham arrived in Washington today.

The report, it is understood, is virtually in shape, requiring only a final revision and approval by the members of the committee. If no last minute disagreement crops out tomorrow, it is hoped that the report may go at once to the printers and be in President Hoover's hands Monday.

The commission is still maintaining its policy of absolute secrecy and no information has been given out either as to the report's extent or content.

Start Repeal in Ohio.

Columbus, O., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Repeal of the Ohio prohibition enforcement laws became a question of the first magnitude before the Ohio general assembly today when resolutions were introduced simultaneously in the senate and house providing for a vote of the people on the proposal to repeal the laws.

The resolutions under the rules will go before the temperance committees of the respective branches for consideration and recommendations.

Beer Law in Rhode Island.

Providence, R. I., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Amendment of the Sherwood law to provide light wines and beers for Rhode Island and a memorial to Rhode Island senators and congressmen urging repeal of the 18th amendment were provided in legislation introduced by members of the Republican majority in the house and senate today as the 1931 assembly convened.

Congress Told How U.S. Ran Speakeasy to Trap Police

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—(AP)—The charge that a "government owned speakeasy" figured in a federal prohibition case that recently resulted in conviction of six Indianapolis policemen was made in the house today by Representative Linthicum of Maryland, an anti-prohibitionist.

Prohibition Director Woodcock informed Linthicum by letter, the latter said, that the government paid rent on a room which the representative described as a "speakeasy." The letter from Woodcock, read into the Record, asserted, however, that "no liquor was dispensed" in the room.

Former President's Son Protests.

A letter from Russell B. Harrison of Indianapolis, son of the former President, also read into the Record by Linthicum, said:

"I am informed . . . that you are attacking the government's method of establishing a poolroom speakeasy and buying and selling booze in order to trap the policemen of this city.

"The method used in this city by the prohibition department is so repugnant and contrary to the spirit of the American institutions that I do hope the congress will enact some new legislation or change the old legislation in such a way that government liquor entanglement with booze joints will be forever eliminated and done away with."

Information from Many Sources.

Linthicum said he had received many letters containing the open charge that "the prohibition operators in cooperation with the district attorney of Indianapolis deliberately set about to build up a sensational police scandal by the establishment of a speakeasy in that city.

"Two prohibition agents sent to Indianapolis from Chicago opened a liquor dispensing establishment at 1213 East 22d street," he said. "Government funds were used to finance this illegal venture, which obviously was operated solely as a place of entrapment. Horace Lyle, a Negro informer, was in charge of this government owned speakeasy and the two federal agents supplied liquor through dealing with one Taylor, a notorious bootlegger, who vanished before the trial. Another informer, one Henderson, was at the time a fugitive from justice."

What Woodcock Said.

From the Woodcock letter Linthicum read:

"The records do show the allowance of a small sum of money for the rental of this particular room, which payment, I am advised, is entirely lawful. A place for making such contacts is apparently necessary in the development of these cases of conspiracy between public officials and those who violate the law."

Linthicum warned that an additional appropriation of $547,000 now sought for enforcement "is going to the establishment of these speakeasies for the purpose of entrapping citizens and police officers throughout the country."

JUDGE ASKS QUIZ INTO 'INFLUENCE' IN LICENSE CASE

Judge John F. O'Connell in the Municipal Traffic court yesterday asked the state's attorney's office to investigate charges that a garage license permit was refused for an apartment building at 3260 Sheridan road because of "outside influences" brought on city hall officials. The case came to the attention of the judge when Sidney Fischel, manager of the garage, was arraigned on a charge of operating a garage in a zone where public garages are prohibited.

The petition filed in Fischel's behalf contained the charge that "a license was refused because of pressure brought to bear by parties outside of the official charged with the duty of regulating and controlling the issuance of licenses."

"A thorough investigation should be made by the state's attorney," said Judge O'Connell. "Despite the delicate wording of the petition it is evident that a serious accusation is made that must be proved false or true. It must be determined whether a city hall department head is using influence to deny the defendant his legal rights."

QUIZZED IN ROBBERY KILLING.

Thomas Farozzo, 26 years old, 1005 South Marshfield avenue, was held by police last night for questioning in connection with the killing on Saturday night of Nick Duva, 32, 1430 Polk street, who was shot by an intended robbery victim.

Mexican Revolt Chief to Fight Bathing Beauty's Suit

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 6.—Gen. Jesus Gonzales Escobar, leader of the 1923 Mexican revolution, who fled to Canada, and who is being sued for $50,000 in a marriage annulment case by Señora Escobar, an El Paso, Tex., beauty contest winner, has been definitely located in Montreal. He has employed an attorney to defend him. Gen. Escobar denies charges made in the annulment suit, which involves communal property.

ROBBED BY LONE BANDIT.

Otto Critchfield, 111 Rockford avenue, Forest Park, a driver for a loop store, and Felix Mrozyraki, 5032 Aberdeen street, his assistant, were robbed of $170 yesterday by a lone robber who stopped them in front of 1200 Monroe street.

Here's Quick Way To Break Up a Cold

Makes You Feel Like a New Person Almost Before You Know It

THE thing to do with a cold is to break it up in a hurry—with something you know does the job; not to trifle with a lot of trick ideas and remedies. Colds are too dangerous to experiment with.

Get a box of Hill's Cascara Quinine at any drug store. Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all.

Soon that miserable, aching feeling begins to go. The cold breaks up. The poisons are moved from your system. The world looks like an altogether different place.

Those results come because Hill's goes back to first principles by going to the seat of the trouble. It's not a newfangled fancy idea but a tried and proved way that's made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy.

Hill's costs only a few cents. Use it for quick relief after everything else you've tried has failed.

PAVE WAY FOR WORLD WIRELESS NEWS SERVICE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Plans of Press Wireless, Inc., for the establishment of a globe encircling news distributing agency by radio may go forward unrestrained by virtue of an order today of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia, breaking a two year stalemate in the distribution of continental short wave lengths.

This enterprise, in which THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has been a prime mover, was seriously interrupted by the issuance in December, 1928, of a stay order by the court restraining the federal radio commission from allocating any of the continental short waves during the pendency of the litigation.

Press Wireless may now have use of the 20 continental short wave lengths granted it two years ago, and thus round out its domestic news distributing network, to be coördinated with its transoceanic service which already is operating between key points of the world. These 20 continental channels, along with seven of the 20 transoceanic frequencies previously allocated it, are released by the court's opinion.

The company, a coöperative corporation of leading newspapers, is a public utility in that it will accept news dispatches of any accredited news gathering organization for delivery to a similar agency.

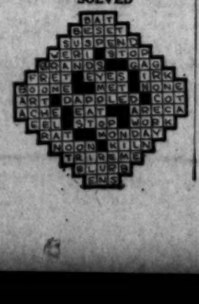
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



COL. M'KELVEY BELL, CANADIAN SURGEON, WAR HERO, IS DEAD

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Lieut. Col. F. McKelvey Bell, a prominent Canadian surgeon and world war veteran, died today after a brief illness at the Polyclinic hospital, where he was a member of the medical staff. He was 52 years old.

Col. Bell's services during the war were among the most notable recorded by the Canadian government. He was one of the first to volunteer with the Canadian army. He went over immediately to France and there organized the first Canadian hospital at Le Touquet, and he remained there throughout the harrowing early days of the war. In recognition of his services he received from the British government the Mons medal. He had taken part also in the first battle of Mons in 1914.

He was author of several books, including a novel, "Vortex," and treatises on "First Canadians in the War" and "The Romance of the Halifax Disaster." He also was a frequent contributor to medical journals.

SYNOPSIS.

Richard Chandos and his wife, Leonie, former grand duchess of Riechtenburg, are visited at their estate near Littai, in Austria, by George Hanbury, companion of Chandos in many adventures. Marya Salm, countess of Dresden, an expected guest, wires that she does not come.

Prince Paul, ruler of Riechtenburg, had hoped to marry Leonie and swore revenge. Fearing for Marya's safety because of her friendship for Leonie, Chandos and Hanbury, with their servants, Bell and Rowley, go secretly to Virgil, capital city of Riechtenburg, where Marya resides. A peasant named Ramon, whom they befriended, leads them through a secret border passage.

Marya tells them that she sent no message. Realizing the telegram was a ruse to lure them to Virgil, they are preparing to flee with Marya when the prince appears. They escape and reach the border, but find it is so closely guarded that crossing is impossible. Ramon is sought and he hides Marya and Carol, her trusted servant, in his house, while Chandos and Rowley join a traveling circus. Marya sends Carol to take them to Bariche, across the border, in a car which they recognize as Grieg's, the chief of police. Arrived at the inn in Bariche, they receive a message from Marya stating that she is to be pardoned but she must remain in Riechtenburg and not communicate with them.

Knowing that Marya, endeavoring to save them, has made some impossible arrangement with Grieg, they return to the border. Hanbury and Rowley pass, but Chandos is captured. He proves to the inspector that Grieg has betrayed his trust. Grieg arrives and leaves with the prisoner for Virgil. Hanbury and Rowley, knowing their friend's plight, hold up and capture the chief's car. They drive to the estate of Baron Sabre, where they find Marya. Grieg they left, tied to a post along the roadside.

Marya tells them that she was married that morning to Grieg—her price for their freedom. Hanbury, who is in love with Marya, is stunned at this news. Chandos sets out to find Grieg and kill him to free Marya, but Grieg has escaped. Chandos returns and is forgiven when he tells the prince he has a trap set to catch his prey that evening at the secret border pass, as well as Leonie, who is to meet them there. The prince departs. Chandos narrowly misses a bullet fired by Grieg. He intercepts a telegram to Grieg from Lelia—one of many which Lelia, a young peasant girl, has delivered. Lelia leads Chandos to a mill where his friends are hiding. He finds Hanbury sleeping. Marya ignores Chandos not to kill Grieg, and while he is bathing in the mill pond Marya disappears. Chandos sends George and Rowley to follow Marya, and he leaves for the border post. Lelia, who has fallen in love with Chandos, at the risk of her life, finds him and tells him that Leonie has entered the country an hour before. Grieg traps them and shoots at Chandos, but Lelia throws herself in front of him and receives the bullet. Grieg flees, with Chandos in pursuit. He is trapped at the brink of a gorge and forced to fall to his death below. Chandos then returns to the police and surrenders.

INSTALLMENT XXXIX.

A FORTUNATE DELAY.

So I stayed for a moment, not presuming to commend Lelia's spirit, for I think that it needed no prayers, but remembering her youth and her beauty and her natural sweetness of heart and how she had laid down her life for her friend.

Something moved beside me, and when I looked down, the poor dog that she was so proud of touched my leg. Before this dumb call for comfort I could have burst into tears.

Very gently I gathered his mistress into my arms.

Without a word, the sergeant turned the way I had come, and when I began to follow, his fellows brought up in the rear.

Half an hour later we came out on to the uplands. Some house was afire in Vardar. The big, red tongues of flame were lighting the neighboring roofs and made a pretty picture of somebody's grief.

I addressed myself to the sergeant.

"I will go your way," I said, "in a little while. But first I must take her home. Do you know the village of Merring?"

"We will ask the way at Vardar." He hesitated. Then, "I hope you will believe, sir," he said, "that our hands are clean. We had you surrounded. It never entered my head that he would fire without warning. And when—when I saw what had happened . . ." Again he hesitated. "We had reason to think it was her Highness," he added jerkily.

Twenty minutes later I entered one of two cars that were waiting below. The police gave me this to myself, except that the sergeant sat by the driver's side. The wolf-hound lay on the floor with his chin on my foot.

"She was murdered," said I steadily.

Now to get to Vardar, we had to cross the railway. When we reached it the gates were shut, because some express was due, and we had no choice but to wait until it had come and gone.

On any other night we should have waited alone and, as like as not, have had to rouse the keeper to open the gates, but tonight he was up and doing, because of the fire, and the spot was alive with people.

So for five ghastly minutes. Then the keeper of the crossing came up to the sergeant's side.

"An accident," he said shortly. "An accident with a car. A girl has been run over. We are taking her to Vigil as fast as we can."

The rumor went round like wildfire, and at a word from the sergeant the driver of the car descended and stood to the other door.

Again the keeper said something I could not hear.

"It is a case for Vigil," said the sergeant, and turned away.

Another five minutes dragged by.

Then I heard the clack of a wicket, and I looked up to see a man that was no peasant coming over the railway line.

His very step declared him for what he was, and the little knot of people behind him left no doubt.

The man was a doctor.

He was well and neatly dressed, and his figure was spare: his head was bare, and I saw that his hair was grey: his clean-shaven face was lean and resolute, and I knew in a instant that no sort of bluff would serve us where he was concerned.

As he came up, the crowd parted and let him go by.

"What is this?" he said to the sergeant.

He spoke as one having authority.

The sergeant showed him his badge and spoke in an undertone.

"That is nothing to me," said the other. "Has she been seen by a doctor?"

"No, sir. But——"

The other brushed him aside and opened the door.

"Sir," said I, "she is dead. I am taking her home."

"Put back the hood," he said. "I must see for myself."

"Sir," said I, "I beg you——"

"Open the hood."

In silence the police obeyed, and the light streamed down upon me—and Lelia, dead in my lap.

The doctor entered the car and went down on one knee . . . .

I did not look at him, but stared before me stonily.

The gazing crowd was silent, but the press had swollen until it had reached the gates, and men were climbing on these to see over their fellows' heads.

The doctor sat back on his heel.

"Where is her home?" he said.

"At Merring," said I.

"Then you must leave her here. I am the coroner of the district: and I must hold an inquest upon her death."

"Sir," said the sergeant, "I beseech you——"

As he spoke, I heard the shriek of a whistle and then the swift approach of the train which was overdue.

"May I take her to some inn?" said I. "I will pay any charges there are."

The doctor raised his hand, as though to bid me say nothing until the express was by.

As the racket faded——

"Were you driving the car?" said the doctor. "I don't suggest it was your fault. That remains to be seen. But were you driving the car?"

God knows how many ears were hanging on my reply. The crossing-gates were still shut, and the thirsty crowd was standing twelve deep about the car.

"She was not run over," I said.

The doctor stiffened. I saw his chin go up.

"What then?" he said sharply.

"She was murdered," said I steadily. "The sergeant will bear me out. We saw it done."

For a long moment nobody seemed to breath. Then the press seemed to rustle and quiver, and I heard the dread word "murder" flitting from tongue to tongue.

The doctor moistened his lips.

"And the—murderer?"

"He is dead," said I. "I killed him. Summon me as a witness before your court, and I will tell you the truth from beginning to end. And summon also Leonie, grand duchess of Riechtenburg. Last night she passed through Elsa, and if she is alive and well, she will be glad to come."

There was an electric silence.

"Alive and well'?" cried the doctor. "The grand duchess? What do you mean?"

I looked down at Lelia's face.

"She was not unlike the grand duchess," I said. "And it was dark. The man that killed her mistook her for Leonie."

Again that curious rustle seemed to run through the crowd, but this time a definite murmur made itself heard.

"Who are you?" the doctor said sharply.

"I am under arrest," I said. "When I have seen to—to my friend, these officers will take me to jail. I think those that have ordered my arrest will do their utmost to prevent me from attending your court."

The coroner looked at me shrewdly.

"I will see to that," he said. "What is your name?"

"My name is Richard Chandos," I said. "The grand duchess is my wife."

GASOLINE ALLEY—IT'S A FAIR QUESTION

I LOVE THIS TIME OF YEAR, LORA WHEN IT GETS DARK EARLY.
YES BUT I LIKE IT WHEN THE DAYS BEGIN TO GET LONGER TOO.
OH SO DO I. BUT THERE'S SOMETHING AWFULLY NICE ABOUT THIS, ISN'T THERE?
YES, OF COURSE.
YOU KNOW, LORA, YOU'RE ONE OF MY BIGGEST INSPIRATIONS. WHEN I'M THROUGH SCHOOL I'M GOING TO STUDY AND BE A CHIROPRACTOR.
ISN'T THAT THRILLING!
WHY DON'T YOU SHAKE? YOU'VE BEEN HOLDIN' ON LONG ENOUGH.

Rugby's Headmaster Calls Movies Harmful to Boys.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 6.—The modern English schoolboy revels in the scenes of screen battles to his lasting detriment, according to W. W. Vaughan, headmaster of Rugby. Mr. Vaughan told the Incorporated Association of Headmasters in London today that youths unconsciously are creating impressions and attitudes that can do great harm in later life.

Mr. Vaughan was discussing the ultimatum to producers given by Edward Shortt, film censor, that "films of prolonged and gross brutality, accompanied by sounds accentuating the situation, are nauseating to the listener." He said they would not be allowed in the future.

"My fear is that people, children especially, are not sickened by such films," Mr. Vaughan asserted. "Children are not nauseated for two reasons. They have not yet a sufficiently critical stomach and a great deal of the evil which the film censor refers to passes without doing harm at the moment. The full realization of what they have seen and heard only will come later. I seldom see a film which does not suggest something rather more pernicious to the child mind than mere brutality.

"The screen angel's message seems to be that beauty is a very dull thing and that vice, after all, is adventure. Besides this definitely evil influence, are not we all conscious of the influence of the commonplace and vulgar?" he asked.

A resolution to create a permanent board of film censors, with definite powers to forbid the production of movies found objectionable, was passed by a large majority.

L. W. Taylor, president of the association, declared that he had found that the spirit of adventure among boys is declining.

British Movie Men May Contest for Canadian Patrons

Lawrence of Arabia, Socialist Maxton Balk College Honors

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Aircraftsman Shaw [Colonel Lawrence of Arabia] could not be found when Edinburgh university sought to offer to him the honorary degree of doctor of laws. A doctor of laws degree was refused by James Maxton, fiery socialist Clydesider member of parliament.

The offer to Mr. Maxton was contained in a letter from Sir James Barrie, at whose installation as chancellor it was proposed to confer the degree. This was confirmed tonight by Mr. Maxton. "I refused because I feel that anything that tends to mark out a man from other men should not be acceptable to a socialist," he said. "Colonel Lawrence was also to be awarded a degree, but he could not be found. He is a most interesting fellow. He came to see me in the house of commons once when he was simply Aircraftsman Shaw. He lent me a copy of a book he had written. It was in a typed manuscript. It has not been published and will not be published for a considerable period. It deals with his life in the air force. Reading it revealed to me that Col. Lawrence has a philosophy of life which probably would lead to his refusing the LL. D."

People Wear Psychic Masks, Expert Says

Freudian Here Raps at Behaviorists.

Several hundred persons who had come to learn about psycho-analysis from Dr. Franz Alexander of Berlin were turned away at the Art institute last night. There Dr. Alexander spoke to a capacity audience in the lecture room. It was his first public lecture of a series under auspices of the University of Chicago college.

Dr. Alexander said primitive man endowed inanimate objects with personality while behaviorists now rob human beings of all personality.

Dr. Alexander, a student of Dr. Sigmund Freud of Vienna, said:

"The first source of error is this—no person, unless he is mentally sick, will let you observe his mental processes intimately, will do away with the conventional façade behind which we all hide.

"The second is that even if a person wanted to tell you all his psychological motives, he couldn't, because he's deceiving himself. He must indulge in this repression to keep from disturbing the good opinion he has of himself.

"Thirdly, the observer may be different from the person observed and he therefore cannot understand the other's motives. The more similar two people are, the better they understand each other. Men understand each other better than women, and women understand each other better than they understand men.

"Every one has motives which he excludes from his own conscious personality. You can't detect them in others if you hide them from yourself.

"Many adults never overcome their infantile wish-lives and therefore they cannot recognize the natural infantilism of their children.

"The first sign of becoming an adult is the recognition of a strange and by no means benign reality. That is the basis of maturity.

"Before Freud, only great geniuses were able to overcome the sources of error and understand others."

ALICIA PATTERSON AND ELIZABETH CHASE ARE FLYING IN AUSTRALIA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 6.—Alicia Patterson, American aviatrix, accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Chase of Chicago, left today by airplane to fly from Sydney to Darwin, North Australia, a distance of about 1,900 miles. Most of the flight will lie over the practically uninhabited desert of the interior. The young Americans propose to make a stopover of several days in an oasis in central Australia for the kangaroo hunting. Then they will proceed to Darwin, and from there to Java, Singapore, China, and the United States.

Fifty Visit Grave of Theodore Roosevelt; Received by Family

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Fifty men and women today made their annual pilgrimage, through rain and mist, to the top of a little knoll in Young's Memorial cemetery where Theodore Roosevelt lies buried.

Today was the twelfth anniversary of the death of the former President, and each year the pilgrims, who have an organization with a president and secretary, make the journey to his grave.

The Rev. John J. Curran, who assisted Roosevelt in settling the anthracite coal strike in 1902, read an excerpt from the late President's speech on unemployment, given in the Metropolitan Opera house in 1915. Elon Hooker placed a wreath on the grave.

Then, following a custom which has grown up in the years since Roosevelt's death, the pilgrims went to his home, Sagamore Hill. There they were received in the famous trophy room by Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt Sr., Alice Roosevelt Longworth, Dr. and Mrs. Richard Derby, and Kermit Roosevelt.

Luncheon was served, after which the pilgrims held their annual business meeting, reelecting E. A. Van Valkenburg, formerly publisher of the Philadelphia North American, president and Lawrence Abbott secretary.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

It is time for me to chant a lusty hymn of praise for the new régime at the Goodman theater. The repertory company which burns the torch of drama in the darkness of Grant park proved last night that it is thoroughly competent to handle the drifting moods and graceful melancholies of Anton Tchekhoff, the pensive Russian. And when an American stock company can interpret a Russian masterpiece without seeming out of its element it has passed an exacting test with high honors.

The Goodman's treatment of "The Sea Gull" need not shrink from comparison with that other sample of Tchekhoff which Chicago saw last fall—"Uncle Vanya," as admirably cast and staged by Jed Harris. This performance has the same Tchekhovian mellowness and somber charm. It has, I believe, an even truer Russian quality—a more persuasive suggestion of life and landscape somewhere in the country a few hundred miles from Moscow, in the days when Russia was happy under the autocracy of the czarist period. The "Uncle Vanya" of a few months ago was one of the first-rate affairs of the playgoing season; and the fact that the Goodman's "Sea Gull" can be checked up against it without embarrassment is significant. It means that the Goodman may be called an art theater not merely because it is affiliated with the Art institute but rather because it earns the title.

The production gave Maurice Gnesin, head of the Goodman's school of acting, his debut as stage director, and proved that he is eminently qualified to stand at Hubert Osborne's right hand. He achieved a rich and picturesque atmosphere for the play, and the crisp, assured performance by every member of the cast demonstrated that rehearsals had been conducted under the command of a sound technician.

Mr. Gnesin, moreover, might have taken a literary bow as well, for he was the translator of the text. His version of "The Sea Gull" is fluent and stageworthy. It escapes the stodginess of the standard printed translations. This is Tchekhoff in natural, colloquial English, freed from clumsy transcriptions of Muscovite idiom.

Karen Nielsen Stevenson's appearance with the company as guest player, in the rôle of a mature actress off duty with an adult son to fret her vanity, was a pleasant success. She contributed an expert character study to the picture, and was particularly effective in a love scene of frantic middle-aged jealousy.

Harry Mervis is at the peak of his fine career with the Goodman in the rôle of the novelist; Katherine Krug is excellent as the sea gull girl, especially in the florid rhetoric of the amateur show, and each of the others should be mentioned in turn. I will cite Florence Williams as the most Russian of them all, in the rôle of the lovelorn Masha.

Confederate Veteran Rescues First Sword from Antique Shop

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Seventy years ago, after the first battle of Bull Run, a confederate lieutenant lost his sword. Today it was back in his possession—recovered from an antique shop at a cost of $7.

The lieutenant, later a captain, was D. C. Grayson of Luray, Va., now 92 and a resident of the capital. He found the first clew to the lost weapon in a Luray newspaper article about a sword in an antique shop there.

Its description mentioned a bullet mark on the scabbard. Grayson had good reason to remember this, for his sword had stopped a lead slug in the opening conflict of the civil war.

A letter to a relative in Luray resulted in its purchase, and when delivered here the identification was completed.

"It was my first sword," the veteran chuckled as he fondled the weapon. He explained he sent it home after the Manassas engagement and that relatives hid it in a barn to prevent its discovery by enemy forces. The barn subsequently was burned by northern soldiers. The sword was found recently in a nearby residence and sold to the antique dealer.

Good Fellows' Cash Helps 252 Needy Families

Over $100,000 in Sight; More Needed.

Good Fellow contributions have been pouring into headquarters this week in pre-Christmas volume. Yesterday thirty-one donations totaled $2,095, and Monday the mail delivered $1,390 to the Good Fellow department, in The Tribune offices at Dearborn and Madison streets.

With over $100,000 in pledges and donations the Good Fellows are carrying 252 families through the winter. Eight families have been rehabilitated, returned to self-support. More families can be rescued from cold and hunger if the contributions continue.

This money was raised without personal solicitations, without embarrassment to any one. All contributions were strictly voluntary. The average donation has been small; there are 1,451 Good Fellows, individuals and groups, enrolled in the family rescue work, some of the groups including a dozen or a score of associates in church, or office, or club.

This widespread cheerful giving has tended to clear the public mind of the pessimism blamed by economists as one of the main causes of the temporary employment slack. Optimism has been stimulated by recent reports of factories and railroads giving jobs to thousands of more workers. By March, when building and road construction get under way, the Good Fellows will have done their job, and the regular charities will be able to care for the destitute.

With this outlook, there are just two more months, the cold months of January and February, for the Good Fellows to concentrate their efforts in providing food, clothing, heat, and shelter to families who otherwise would lack these necessities.

For $200 you can save some family from cold and hunger this winter. If this is too much for you alone, invite your associates in your office, your church, or your club to join you in adopting a family worthy of your help. Or mail a donation of any size to the Good Fellows, The Tribune, Chicago, and it will reach some deserving family without a penny being deducted for overhead. The Tribune pays the expenses of administering the fund.

New Yorker Urges Apartment Hotels to Replace Slums

A suggestion was made yesterday for rehousing Chicago and other large cities so that slums in deteriorated central districts should give way to apartment communities, each with its school, its center, its shops, and little theater. The ideas were offered by Clarence Arthur Perry of New York. Mr. Perry, who is with the Russell Sage foundation, spoke at a Forum luncheon in the City club.

To avert injuiries to children Mr. Perry would have streets arranged so that they could go to and from school without crossing highways crowded with autos.

"The real question is," he said, "What class of people should be encouraged to occupy costly land? Should the occupants be the golf and country club set, enjoying the open country every week-end and affording spacious downtown apartments during week days, or the families who can afford only meager summer vacations? The latter must find near their homes any outdor life their children may enjoy."

"In any shifting of homes, especially for the less mobile classes," he continued, "there should go a corresponding shifting of places of occupation. Along with any housing program there should go a supplementary city planning procedure."

Porto Ricans Say Star of Bethlehem Has Reappeared

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The age-old problem of astronomers concerning the identity of the star of Bethlehem was answered satisfactorily today for many devout Porto Ricans.

This was Three Kings' day here, the same as Christmas in other lands, and at 1 o'clock this morning a bright star, unnoticed before, shone in the western sky.

Nor did it disappear when dawn came. Through the daylight hours it still could be seen, until as late as 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Many Porto Ricans accepted it as the star of Bethlehem.

At the United States weather bureau it was stated the identity of the star was unknown, unless it was the planet Venus.

WOTTA LIFE! WOTTA LIFE!

Calls Cartoons of Home Spur Toward Careers

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I read a piece recently entitled 'The Two Job Woman.' It seems to me that if it could be impressed on people generally that home making and child rearing are the highest arts in the world, which they are, we might be answering the problem of better wives and mothers.

"If we could raise home making to the standard to which it belongs, our girls and women would be clamoring to remain in the home. But what woman wants to be known as a homebody after looking at the cartoonist's conception of a home worker, and this seems to be the prevailing conception. That is what makes the highest art in the world the most maligned and bedraggled.

"What is the art of painting the picture of a perfect child compared to the rearing of a perfect child? We rave over the artist who paints the picture, but what of the artist who molds the perfect child? It makes no difference if some of us do not actually have to do the work of the house; we are all summed up as domestic and are considered of lesser moment than if we produced in other fields. And this, in my opinion, is a great hindrance. ALICE H."

Interesting, if true. But is not the bias furnished by the woman herself, rather than by the cartoonist and the so-called popular conception? Women at home have not stood up for their art the way they should have. They have let themselves be cowed by appearances. The glamour they attach to the lives of non-homebodies blinds their better judgment. They haven't, in enough cases to create a derisive factor in cartoonist judgment, put into their particular art the fine technique that should be there.

They act, in other words, ashamed of their own noble profession and ... ing ashamed of it, they do not give their best to it. They let themselves be laughed at because of their own inferiority feeling about their chosen life work. Constantly on the lips of householders is the remark: "I wish I could do something worth while instead of doing what I am." That's damaging to the home cause.

Then, too, the work of the home and the care of the children is often a most imperfect art as it is shiftlessly practiced. Upon the woman in the home rests the responsibility of raising the work therein to the standard rightly claimed for it.

Here Are Some of America's Health Points for Children

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

A Mothers' and Fathers' Litany for the New Year, signed by Mrs. Bevans, will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

America's child's bill of rights is one of the big things that came out of the White House conference on child health and protection. Even though you may have read them before, the famous twenty points of which it is composed make a remarkable document. Of these seven will be printed today and the ten tomorrow. They follow:

1. EVERY CHILD IS ENTITLED TO BE UNDERSTOOD and all dealing with him should be based upon the fullest understanding of the child.

2. Every prospective mother should have suitable information, medical supervision during the prenatal period, competent care at confinement. Every mother should have postnatal medical supervision for herself and child.

3. Every child should receive periodical health examinations before and during the school period, including adolescence, by the family physician or the school or other public physician, and such examination by specialists and such hospital care as its special needs may require.

4. Every child should have regular dental examination and care.

5. Every child should have instruction in the schools in health and in safety from accidents and every teacher should be trained in health programs.

6. Every child should be protected from communicable diseases to which he might be exposed at home, in school, or at play, and protected from impure milk and food.

7. Every child should have proper sleeping rooms, diet, hours of sleep and play, and parents should receive expert information as to the needs of children of various ages as to these questions.

The next ten points will appear tomorrow.

These Hats and Bags Fill Daytime Needs

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—New Paris hats cast a halo of beauty over any face and when they are worn by pretty girls they may well be called the "True Bachelor's Bugbear," for they seal the doom of his single blessedness.

The new hats not only amply disclose the "little head shining over with curls," but often they have smart tresses of their own—coronet braids of supple velvet, halo rolls of felt, ribbon or feather ringlets.

Sketched here, are two new Agnes "coiffure hats," each one accompanied by a correct handbag suggestion.

The top one is in supple black felt. Its brim is a roll of felt like a small bicycle tire and the two charming hair ribbons of white chiffon velvet are tied through holes under it, so that they may be easily changed as often as is necessary for immaculateness.

The slender, black antelope bag beside it from Maurice Model shows the new, elongated shape that Paris likes for formal afternoon and evening wear. It has a fermeture and ring of black onyx.

The feature of the lower hat is its thick braid of chiffon velvet ribbon in three tones, dark brown, burnt orange, and nut beige, mounted on a brown tricot skull cap. In these shades, this hat is a practical as well as comfortable daytime bonnet. For evening, Agnes shows it all in white—white velvet braid mounted on a silk lace cap.

The triple porte-feuille from Maurice Model is the latest thing for street wear. This one is in three shades of brown box calf with brown enameled mountings. The three compartments hold money, powder and handkerchief, respectively.

PARIS FABRIC NOTES

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Paris couturiers' orders from textile creators throw light on the color trend of coming fashion collections. One leading house will feature a scale from beige to light brown tones. Navy blue will replace black for street wear. Corbeau and midnight are favoring tones. Pale grays combined with vivid color are liked everywhere. Cabbage sized flowers on print chiffons are featured by majority for afternoon and evening.

The coming French colonial exposition casts its shadow before in the popularity of rustic pebbly weaves of silks and woolen. African colors and Algerian stripes dominate the sports mode.

New sports jewelry in wood and metal is inspired by Cambodian, Moorish or Madagascar motifs.

Molyneaux has created special costumes illustrating his future trend for Gertrude Lawrence New York production of private lives. A printed georgette afternoon suit is interesting. Satin evening slippers piped with velvet will be featured in spring showings of Paris bottiers. Small fans matching vagabond pochettes of brocade are an evening accessory novelty with a note.

Vigorous Exercise Guarantee Against Middle Age Spread

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

You know what is meant by the middle aged spread, of course. Or, maybe you identify it as the thirty year spread or the forty. The year cannot be identified closely since it happens to women whose mode of life rather than their years is at fault. Women of fifty or sixty may never have known the spread at all.

It is not only an actual spread of the body from waist to knees, showing up at its worst in the back, but it is a heaviness of body accented by slothful movement.

If the symptoms are felt or seen—watch out. Don't go on spreading and don't go on moving about like a woman of an older generation or two. You cannot afford it. And I mean it may become a serious economic loss to you, since the greatest body of sufferers are recruited from the ranks of the employed. The other body most largely drawn upon are the women who write housekeeper into the census taker's book, but who do not physically subscribe to the duties thereof. That is, the women who let the Huldas and the dusky Clementines do all of their work for them, while they sit and think, but mostly sit.

The business woman, at least, cannot regulate her own working habits, which for the most of her are of a sedentary nature. She has to sit an inordinate part of her working life. In either instance, the prevention and the cure is to keep moving about when one can. That is, the business woman hadn't better go home nights and sit and read until bedtime. Better for her to get out dancing or to join a gym, skate, or have on her evening schedule a good long walk.

The home woman with time on her hands can do a dozen things that are healthfully enjoyable. Her best move is not from a fireside chair to a bridge chair in some other woman's home. She can walk. She can indoor ice skate. She can take a day course in a physical culture class of some kind. She can turn on the radio and move around home in a gayer muscled mood.

You can only fight nonactivity by bestirring yourself to move and move and move some more.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Family Needs Rug.

"We are interested in a poor family badly in need of a rug or a large piece of linoleum. The bare floors are too cold for the children. E. L."

Perhaps your holiday buying includes a new living room rug or linoleum for the kitchen. If those you are discarding are not too worn, may not this family have them?

Offers Walker for Child.

"I have a baby walker which some needy mother may be able to make use of. Let me know if you find some one who can use it.

"Mrs. M. S."

If your young son or daughter is now old enough to take those first few steps, wouldn't you like to give him or her the assistance of a walker?

Bright Sayings of the Children

Little Betty wanted some apple cider which had been standing since Thanksgiving.

I said to her, "I'm afraid that it's too hard by now."

She took the bottle, shook it, and said, "It can't be, mama, it still wiggles." Mrs. Y.

Donald had been taught to say his prayers in bed just before going to sleep.

One Sunday his aunt took him to Sunday school. Upon reaching home, his mother asked him, "Well, Donald, did you pray in Sunday school, too?"

He looked up with a start. "No," he said, "there weren't any beds."

Does COFFEE Give You Sleepless Nights?

COFFEE (also other drinks and foods) often keep you awake. Frequently this is due to an acid condition they create. The next time you raid the tin box before retiring, eat two or three Tums (often only one Tum is enough) to relieve the Heartburn, Sour Stomach, Gas, Acid Indigestion, which cause many sleepless nights. Easy to prove—get a roll of Tums at any drug store and try them. Only 5c.

For Acid Indigestion

TUMS ARE ANTACID—Not a Laxative. For a laxative use the safe, dependable Vegetable Laxative NR (Nature's Remedy). Only 25c NR

Too much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake—now.

Be sure to get the genuine, prescribed by doctors for conditions due to excess acid. It is always a liquid; it cannot be made in tablet form. Look for the name Phillips' and the word genuine in red.

GLEAMY WHITE TEETH AND A SWEET BREATH

Try Phillips' Dental Magnesia Tooth-paste just once and see for yourself how white your teeth become. Write for a free ten-day tube. Address The Phillips Co., 170 Varick St., New York, N. Y.

FARM AND GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

PRAISES IOWA ONIONS.

Tall corn may be Iowa's pride, but one resident in the state believes it is a good state in which to raise "big onions." According to H. Roy Mosnat of 1835 West 108th place, Chicago, some surprising onion crops have been obtained by Walter Thomas, Belle Plaine, Iowa.

The latter uses what is known as a new type of onion culture and grows onions that weigh a pound and have a diameter of as much as four inches, produced from seed in one season without transplanting.

Numerous artesian wells have given Belle Plaine considerable fame. One of them was formerly known as "Jumbo," an outlaw runaway. Mr. Thomas has a well connected by a watering system to his onion patch. His gardening in 1930 was accomplished with the use of about 150,000 barrels of water from his flowing well. Open ditches transport the water to fields of onions, cabbages, and celery. Wisconsin-type yellows, resistant heads that weighed 12 to 14 pounds each, were produced with the artificial watering system.

In addition to winning exhibition prizes on samples of his crops, Mr. Thomas is credited with developing a round, red onion which he has named Belle Plaine red, almost as large in type as the Valencia or Spanish variety that he ordinarily grows. Storage space enables him to keep portions of his crops until late spring or until market prices suit him. Easy irrigation is afforded over nearly all of his twenty-acre farm by reason of its levelness, consisting in what is known as second bottom Iowa river valley soil.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

G. B.: TO GET RELIEF FROM an itchy skin, apply an oily lotion several times a week. Do this after the bath. Twenty-five per cent glycerin in olive oil is satisfactory.

L. P.: ONE'S BEST SLEEP IS with the stomach practically empty. While it is true that food puts one to sleep at first by diverting blood from the head, it later disturbs sleep.

Claire Dux to Sing Soon for President

BY THALIA

If the Charles H. Swifts' neighbors, above and below them, at 209 Lake Shore drive, have heard more than the usual amount of warblings issuing from the Swift apartment lately, there was reason good and sufficient therefor.

Mrs. Swift, or Claire Dux as she still is professionally, is to sing tomorrow afternoon at the White House. The occasion is one of the several musicals given by the President of the United States and the first lady of the land during the social year. Mrs. Swift is to be on the program with the pianist, Vladimir Horowitz.

The singer and her secretary departed from Chicago yesterday, and will not return until the 16th. Mr. Swift did not accompany them, and will not be present for the White House musical.

Portraits of H. H. Princess Marie Louise, a marchioness, two marquises, a lord, and a lady are in the exhibit of Charles Sneed Williams' portraits to be opened tomorrow afternoon at the Ackermann galleries with a private view and tea. The Chicagoans whose portraits are included in the showing include Mrs. Americus F. Callahan, Mrs. Augustus K. Maxwell, Lydia Swift, the Franklin Callahans' Anne, and James Simpson Jr.

Bohemian Party at Top of Building; Not in Attic.

The Thomas Fishers have moved into the little penthouse on top of the Michigan Square building, although they probably won't be entirely settled for some time, as Ruth Page will leave for appearances in various parts of the country for most of the winter. Nobody has given a bohemian party for so long that all those who have been invited to the Fishers' for Mary Wigman on the 16th are highly intrigued with the idea. I understand that there are even some people so anxious to attend that they're planning to wangle an invitation.

In case anybody drives up in a coach-and-four and asks you . . . the answer to "roast mules" mules rearranged into a 3 syllable word is "somersault." (Ruth Elting says several people have guessed it without being told.)

Travel notes . . . Young George B. Van Hagen III. is leaving with his grandmother, Mrs. George E. Van Hagen, on 4 days' notice for a winter in Florida because he hasn't been very well—his other grandmother, Mrs. Silas Ford of St. Paul, is visiting here now. . . . The Wilbur C. Smiths depart this week on a motoring trip to Florida and are properly thrilled because Mrs. Smith has never been there before. . . . Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick is to make her annual departure for Palm Beach the last week of the month. . . . Nancy Taylor, the Melvin Traylors' daughter, took a westbound train on Monday to finish out the school year at a new school in Santa Barbara—she has been attending Miss Walker's—next year will go abroad to study, and the following year is to make her debut.

Friends Greet Actress After Show at Goodman Theater.

There was a large and fashionable audience to see Karen Nielsen Stevenson in "The Sea Gull" at the Goodman last night and afterward her friends went backstage to see the star. She held a little court, still dressed in her adorable last act costume and looking sweeter than ever with a daub of lipstick on her chin, while everybody congratulated her. Among others at the performance were the Thomas W. Hindes, the Walter S. Brewsters, Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus McCormick Jr., Mrs. Holbrook Clarke, Alice Gerstenberg, greeting all her first night committee, Mrs. Gerstenberg, Mrs. Harry Shearson, the Jack Finlays, Betty Scriven, the Lloyd Laflins, Mrs. Clyde Stevens and Jean, and the Murry Nelsons.

Hastening to Correct Errors and to Help Good Deeds.

Mistakenly we said that the tea for those interested in the Olivet institute tonight concert by Gigli at the Opera house on Feb. 1 was yesterday, and instead, it's tomorrow afternoon—at Harold F. McCormick's Rush street residence, and the interpretive committee of the Playwrights theater is to have a tea-meeting at the Casino tomorrow afternoon instead of Friday. Mrs. Howard Linn is to speak at the Olivet affair.

Mrs. Charles H. Fargo and Mrs. Albert B. Gardner, who are managing the stupendous ticket sale job and the selling of program advertising, have 100 girls assisting them, and they and the patronesses have all been invited to the tea. Mrs. Walter Borden, Mrs. Helen Walton, Mrs. Joseph B. Mullen, Mrs. Theodore Brentano, Mrs. Joseph B. Long, and Mrs. Boyd Hill are to pour.

At the final performance of "The Children's Chauve Souris" on Saturday, Jan. 17, at the Selwyn, Bacty, the shy little monkey who's been winning the hearts of the juvenile audiences, will encounter a rival performer. The rival is a chow puppy. Though the dog has had no more theatrical experience than Bacty, he is to be led on to the stage during intermissions.

The puppy hasn't been christened yet, but the Junior league girls say he comes from a fine kennel and boasts a superior pedigree.

Using an Odd Word in Right Sense; News, Too.

Oddments (whatever they are) . . . the young William Coxes have taken an apartment at 1366 Dearborn parkway, and Mr. Cox's mother, Mrs. Rensselaer W. Cox, with whom they have been, is going to California . . . the Lawrence Meekers are now living at 70 East Walton place . . . Jibs Hall and Tom Tallmadge had a contribution of theirs in a recent issue of the New Yorker (it was illustrated, too) . . . Miss Sarah Stockton of Princeton gave a luncheon and bridge party for Virginia Starr Myers, who is engaged to Edward Kohlsaat, on Saturday . . . the new beauty department at Saks' is to be known as the Saks Fifth Avenue beauty salon, and not as an Antoine place . . . the Green Moth ball is to be on Feb. 7 at the Knickerbocker hotel.

FERNANDO GERMANI, ORGAN SOLOIST WITH STOCK'S ORCHESTRA

Fernando Germani has an important function in the musical world. It is to demonstrate that the organ is an impressive, gorgeous concert instrument. The violinist, the pianist, the singer is important enough in public appearances. The organist is even more so, and Mr. Germani would seem to be one of the elect in his profession.

He came here as soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra two years ago. He returned to give a recital at Kimball hall last night. In both his appearances he was completely the musical aristocrat, the technician whose ability is so thorough and fine that it can be completely forgotten, the colorist whose taste is for the vivid and arresting and never for the cheap, the interpreter who projects his composers and holds himself in reserve.

There were two sections to his program. The elder composers were represented by Handel, Corelli, and Bach, the Corelli selection being from a violin sonata transcribed for organ by Mr. Germani. The Bach number was the Prelude and Fugue in D major, and was Bach playing such as one idealizes but seldom hears.

Of the moderns, there were works by Joseph Bonnet, Max Reger, Louis Vierne, and Cesar Franck. Mr. Germani appeared under the auspices of the Illinois chapter of the American Guild of Organists. The organization did well to bring him here. It will do better if it brings him here again.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

True, but Confusing.

During the holiday gift buying season rush I secured a job running an elevator in a large department store. The hours were long and being unaccustomed to working late, I was often tired. It was the day before Christmas and the crowds had been unusually heavy. My one thought was of the luxurious hours I would spend in bed Christmas morning.

Letting out a crowd on the toy department floor, I prepared to take on those going down. Thrusting my head out of the elevator I cried, unthinkingly, "Going home!" Titters ran through the crowd and followed me until the elevator reached the main floor. Even the department head had an indulgent smirk on his face.

Chicagoans Take Down Christmas Trees as Holiday Season Ends

While the great majority of Chicago citizens last night were observing Twelfth Night, the historical end to the holiday time, and tearing down Christmas trees and New Year's decorations, thousands of citizens, members of the Greek Orthodox church, were celebrating Christmas eve. Under the old calendar today is Christmas, and masses and appropriate services are being held in all churches of the faith.

At the St. Nicholas church, Oakley and Rice street, the Ukrainian chorus will sing Christmas carols and the Ukrainian bands will play familiar and loved songs of the Ukrainian people. Vespers were held last night at the Russian Holy Trinity cathedral, 1121 North Leavitt street. Services were conducted by the Rt. Rev. Theophilus Pashkovsky, bishop of the Russian church of Chicago. Christmas day services will be held this morning in the cathedral.

There May be Poison in YOUR Bowels!

STEP out tomorrow morning with the fresh buoyancy and briskness that comes from a clean intestinal tract. Syrup Pepsin—a doctor's prescription for the bowels—will help you do this. This compound of fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other mild ingredients will clean you out thoroughly—without griping, sickening or discomfort.

Poisons absorbed into the system from souring waste in the bowels cause that dull, headachy, sluggish, bilious condition; coat the tongue; foul the breath; sap energy, strength and nerve-force. A little of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will clear up trouble like that, gently, harmlessly, in a hurry. The great difference it will make in your feelings over night will convince you of its merit.

Dr. Caldwell studied bowel troubles for forty-seven years. This long experience enabled him to make his prescription just what men, women, old people and children need. Its natural, mild, thorough action and its pleasant taste commend it to everyone. That's why "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin," as it is called, is the largest selling laxative in drugstores everywhere.

Painter Learns Elephant Is Restless Model

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

To lie for fifteen minutes hugging the earth, scarcely daring to breathe, is a unique experience in the history of any man, artist or not, particularly when the danger in question is that of the possible next step of a five ton elephant being planted squash upon one's shrinking backbone. Maj. A. Radclyffe Dugmore lived through just such a fifteen minutes while he was painting the portrait from life of a wild South African elephant.

An exhibition of Maj. Dugmore's paintings and etchings are in the Knoedler galleries. If one wants to revel for an hour or more among real wild beasts and then to turn for a change to the charming landscape of Ireland and the glorious mountain region of the Canadian Rockies, drop in at Knoedler's before Jan. 17. It is a superb exhibit and a good one with which to start the children. Children as well as grownups will find a great deal to their mind among these pictures.

Maj. Dugmore has spent many years in Africa. He has written books about animals and made motion films of them. Now he is bringing them to us in picture form and his accomplishment is stupendous. He paints with a power and sincerity which carry conviction, nor does he neglect beauty in his search for truth. These are stunning pictures. The flights of wild duck remind us of Benson at his best. The "Whistling Swans at Sunrise" is an ecstatic moment delightfully prolonged. "Caribou in Snowstorm" is fascinating in its presentation of running bodies silently melting like so many ghosts into the curtaining of white flakes.

"Reflections, Nova Scotia Herring Boats" is an exquisite piece of color. "An Achill Island Cottage" and "Between the Showers, Achill Island" convince us that the songs of Ireland have not told nearly all its haunting, quaint, quiet, elf-ridden beauty. A stronger wonder pulses in the paintings of the mountain lakes that gleam in the Canadian Rocky regions, but the same brush, we are forced to realize, executed the two types of picture. Maj. Dugmore is to be congratulated on the difference of tempo in his ability, as well as upon that ability, strikingly extraordinary, itself.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Hoover had as overnight guests Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Fry of Philadelphia, who arrived for dinner last evening and returned to Philadelphia this morning.

Miss Mary Dawes, niece of the American ambassador to England, Charles G. Dawes, who is spending the winter in Washington, has been chosen to lead the cotillion of the second one of the bachelors' cotillions this season, to take place next Monday night at the Mayflower. She will dance with Gen. William E. Horton, U. S. A.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Federal Judge and Mrs. John Clark Knox have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Martha Knox, to Mr. Melvin Butler, son of United States Supreme Court Justice and Mrs. Pierce Butler of Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Doherty have returned from Washington.

SOCIETY ATTENDS THE OPERA

THE audience at "Resurrection" last night at the Civic Opera house made up in spirit what it lacked in numbers. Several of the boxes were untenanted and some of the main floor rows were vacant, but the Mary Garden fans present rewarded her performance as Tolstoi's heroine with generous and prolonged applause.

Walter H. Wilson and his daughter, Miss Irene Wilson, had as their guests Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, Miss Agnes Foreman, and Maj. Gen. Milton J. Foreman. Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Schuyler were hosts to Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Folsom, Edward Filbert, and Baroness von Reuter.

Dr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Small and Rear Admiral and Mrs. W. S. Crosley were guests of Col. and Mrs. William Nelson Pelouze. Mrs. Small wore wine colored velvet, Mrs. Crosley black and gold brocade, and their hostess pale green beaded chiffon. Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Stillwell and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Moore were in the George M. Reynolds box.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford D. Caldwell were hosts to Miss Mary Louise Pattison, Horton Conrad, and Mr. and Mrs. George C. Hager. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Fitzsimmons had as their guests in the Landon C. Ross box Miss Edna Dean Baker, Miss Mabel Kearns, Miss Mary Gonnerman and Miss Claribel Baker.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Hooker's guests included Mr. and Mrs. Frederick K. Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. Ward C. Castle and Miss Elizabeth Polk of Memphis, Tenn. In the Frank G. Logan box, Mrs. Logan's niece, Mrs. Eugene H. Garnett, was hostess to Mrs. Edwin S. Mills, Mrs. Arlington Harvey, Miss Carrie B. Neely, and Mr. and Mrs. James Moore.

Mrs. and Mrs. Charles V. Barrett, Mr. and Mrs. Brekke, and Mr. and Mrs. John S. Gleason occupied the John S. Gleason box. Mrs. George O. Fairweather, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Waples, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Graham, and Miss Frances Fairweather were in the Frederick H. Rawson box.

Audience in Berlin Applauds Czerwonky for Violin Composition

BERLIN, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Richard Czerwonky, Chicago violinist, achieved a triumph with the world premiere of his D-major concerto for violin and orchestra tonight.

Mr. Czerwonky played the solo part with the Berlin Symphony orchestra. The audience cheered, calling forth the composer frequently.

He also played the violin concerto of his late teacher, Joseph Joachim, with whom he made his debut in the same Singakademie hall exactly 25 years ago today.

Mr. Czerwonky is a naturalized American.

Give $200,000 for College.

St. Louis, Jan. 6.—(AP)—A gift of $200,000 by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Howard for the purchase of adequate lands and other necessary facilities for a new college near Alton, Ill., was announced today by Frederic E. Morgan, director of the institution. The donors are trustees of the school.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S DRESS.

This tailored dress is ideal to wear under your winter coat and is suitable for tweed, wool crêpe or any of the heavier silk crêpes. The crossed over effect of the bodice and panel at the front gives a slender effect to the figure. The button trim adds still further to its slenderness. The youthful, plaited arrangement at either side of the skirt gives a smart flare to the hem.

The pattern, 2803, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4¾ yards of 39 inch material with ⅝ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Food Talk.

Those light, airy, delicious morsels served as the final touch to the meal and which bears the fine combination of sweetness with high food value are the Bavarian creams. Bavarian creams or Bavarioses, whether simple or complex, are considered to be among the finest products of culinary art. They are made by combining fruit juices and pulp or some flavored liquid as coffee, caramel, chocolate, or nuts with gelatin, sugar, and whipped cream in such a manner that the fluffy texture of the cream is retained.

When the cream is made of milk and flavored with nuts, chocolate, etc., the yolks of eggs are used to enrich and help thicken the mixture. Commonly egg yolks are not used when fruit juices are to be combined with the gelatin. However, rules are made to be broken, and this procedure is often changed. Eggs in the fruit mixtures is a French custom that is not as yet popular in this country.

A nutritious, plain Bavarian cream is this one which may be served with no qualms to invalids and children.

BAVARIAN CREAM.

¼ cup cold water or milk.
1 tablespoon gelatin.
1 cup milk.
⅔ cup sugar.
2 egg yolks.
Salt.
1 cup double cream, whipped.
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Soak the gelatin in the cold water for at least 5 minutes. Scald the milk with ⅓ cup of sugar. Add the eggs well beaten and mixed with the rest of the sugar and salt. Cook over hot water until the mixture will coat a metal spoon. Remove from the fire, add the soaked gelatin and strain. Set the dish in ice water and stir until it begins to thicken. Fold in the whipped cream and vanilla. Chill thoroughly before serving. Two tablespoons of rum or sherry flavoring may be used with or without vanilla.

STRAWBERRY BAVARIAN CREAM.

1½ tablespoon granulated gelatin.
¼ cup cold water.
1-3 cup boiling water.
1 cup strawberry sirup (drained from frozen berries or made from the fresh).
Powdered sugar (to be added if the strawberry sirup is not sweet enough).
¾ cup whipping cream.
Pink coloring.

Soak the gelatin in the cold water for 5 minutes. Dissolve in the boiling water. Add the strawberry sirup and sugar if necessary. Place in a pan of ice water and stir until it begins to thicken. Fold in the whipped cream and enough coloring to give it a delicate pink tint.

Fromage Bavarois aux pistaches is a noteworthy French contribution to the ranks of Bavarians. To make it chop 6 ounces of pistachio nuts and ¼ pound of almonds fine. Soak 1 ounce of gelatin in 1 cup of cold water for 5 minutes. Make a hot sirup by dissolving ¾ cup of sugar in 2 cups of water and boiling 2 minutes. Add to gelatin. Strain, add the chopped nuts and enough green color to give a nice green tint. Cool. When it begins to thicken fold in 1 pint of whipped cream. Chill for 2 hours before serving.

In your mouth, a fierce and continuous battle is being waged. The forces of Health against those of Sickness. Nature against Germs—dangerous bacteria that lodge and multiply in the mouth by millions, striving to cause illness.

Surely you can appreciate the necessity of using, every day, a mouth wash fatal to germs, yet harmless to tissue!

Physicians have long urged a night and morning gargle with full strength Listerine, the safe antiseptic with the pleasant taste. For Listerine kills germs of all types in 15 seconds. No faster killing time has ever been accurately recorded by science.

Gargle every 2 hours

The morning and night gargle is deemed sufficient, in time of normal health, to keep germs under control and maintain a cleanly condition of the mouth.

But when infection is actually under way, which is the case when you have a cold, sore throat, or inflamed condition of the oral tract, authorities urge that the gargle be repeated every two hours.

By so doing you give the body, now at lower resistance, the extra attacking force it needs to combat the ever-multiplying germs in the mouth.

Mouth germs reduced 98%

If you could look into your mouth with a microscope before and after gargling with Listerine, you would behold a remarkable transformation.

Before the gargle you would see millions and millions of germs, alive, wriggling, darting to and fro. After, you would see the same germs dead and powerless to cause harm.

Repeated tests, following the technique employed at great universities, show that full strength Listerine actually reduces bacteria on the surfaces of the mucous membrane 98%.

Take this precaution

At the first symptom of trouble in the oral cavity, begin gargling with Listerine and consult your physician.

Do not be afraid to use Listerine undiluted. Only in this way can you get the full benefit of its germicidal action. Remember that Listerine is non-poisonous, absolutely safe to use, and actually healing to tissue. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Michigan served notice on the Big Ten that it is a strong contender for the Western conference basketball title by defeating Purdue, 29 to 22, in the Big Ten opener here tonight. The Boilermakers, undefeated in Big Ten competition a year ago, started out strong, but were unable to maintain their lead and trailed at half time, 13 to 10.

JERRY WOODEN.

The battle was a duel between Ray Altenhof, Michigan guard, and Johnny Wooden, Purdue's whirlwind guard, and Wooden met his equal. The Purdue star got the range of the hoop three times in the first half, but was unable to get close in the second period. Altenhof, heretofore a low scorer, speared three in the first period and came back with another in the second half.

CHICAGO, 28; MARQUETTE, 20

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 6.—The University of Chicago tonight inaugurated athletic relations with Marquette university by beating the Golden Avalanche basketball team, 28 to 20. The Maroons sifted through the hill-top defense with a fast breaking and smooth passing attack that meant baskets almost any time a Chicago player was near enough to shoot. Capt. Fish, Yates, and Parson were costers in the triumph, scoring 25 points among them.

Chicago started with a rush of baskets by Yates and Parsons and a free throw by Ashley. Budrunas pushed through for the first Maroon field goal. Stephenson wasn't long behind. Shipley countered after a dribble to make the score 7 to 4. Then Yates followed with a basket and a charity throw on King's foul. Chicago led, 14 to 8, at the half.

The defeat was Marquette's second in six starts, Pittsburgh having administered the other. Chicago's defense was so effective that virtually all the Hilltops' 53 basket attempts were from long range. The Maroons had 46 chances at the hoop.

NOTRE DAME BEATS OHIO

Notre Dame, Ind., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—A rally which saw four baskets in the last five minutes of play gave Notre Dame its first victory of the season over a Big Ten team when the Irish defeated Ohio State, 27 to 24. The lead had alternated throughout the game, with both teams staging sudden spurts. Ohio State led at the half, 13 to 11.

In the second half the Irish ran up a 19 to 13 lead. Lively's basket, Baldwin's free throw and Fesler's basket made it 17 to 16. Decook and Fesler immediately ran the score to 19 to 13 and Lively put Ohio ahead with a shot from under the net. He added another point one to make Ohio the leader, 22 to 20, with five minutes left. Then the long shots by Crowe, coupled with Baldwin's and Decook's baskets, turned the tide. Lineups:

In the WAKE of the NEWS

"HUNCHES" AND 1931.

RECENTLY The Wake promulgated our "hunch" that 1931 would be a great improvement over 1930. Our change of heart from pessism to optimism came almost over night. Its cause would seem so trivial to others that we were ashamed to mention it. Numerous Helpers, however, have associated it with the figures in 1930, which add up to 13.

Before presenting their attempted corroboration, however, let us explain that we never have been superstitious about 13. It has been our golf club locker number for ten years, and we have stuck to that locker when a more desirable location, farther away from the draft of the outside door, could be secured. Now we're wondering if we're wrong about 13. For those same ten years our golf game has not improved, we still find as many water hazards, and our club handicap is still 30.

Anyway, 13 was not the cause of our 1931 "hunch," but here's what Helper M. L. Collyer says: "Has The Wake discovered that for at least 82 years, until 2013, we shall not encounter another 13? And according to Mr. McCutcheon's cartoon of Dec. 29, not until 2929 will the figures add up 13 again."

Says Helper Cal N. Dar: "Since the year 1 A. D. there have been 148 years when the sum of the digits of the year amounted to 13. 1903, 1912, 1921, and 1930 are those of this century. But it won't happen again until 2029, so even the most pessimistic of us can forget this omen."

With becoming modesty we present this from Helper George Hagstrom:

1930 ADDED UP IS 13.

Herbert Hoover has 13 letters in his name.
Woodrow Wilson had 13 letters in his name.
Warren Harding had 13 letters in his name.

1931 ADDED UP IS 14.

Calvin Coolidge has 14 letters in his name.
J. Hamilton Lewis has 14 letters in his name.
Harvey Woodruff has 14 letters in his name.

MILLERS GET HOT AS GAME WANES, BEAT SHAMROCKS

Tie Score Just Before End —Win in Overtime.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Winding up a drab exhibition with a fury that produced a dramatic ending, the Minneapolis Millers won a 2 to 1 overtime decision over the Chicago Shamrocks tonight.

For almost three periods the contest brought yawns to a crowd which likes its hockey furious and its goals in abundance. But from then on it was a horse race, with the Millers running in front.

Shamrocks Hold Lead.

The Shamrocks had taken a one goal lead on McFayden's rebound goal after 14 minutes of play in the second period and were playing a defensive game. With less than a minute of the game remaining, things began to happen.

Fred Gordon, captain of the Millers, who was mainly responsible for his team's defeat the night previous, had been ruled off the ice. It looked like curtains for the Millers, but with only seconds to go, Riley broke through on a solo. He raced past his forward cover man, and passing to Redding, placed himself in position for a rebound. Redding shot, Riley picked up the rebound, and the score was in.

Score in Second Overtime

Then the game began. The first overtime period produced nothing. But with three minutes of the second overtime period gone, Fred Gordon raced down the left side boards, cut loose with a long shot, and it bounded off the cage post and into the net. Lineup:

TULSA HERE TOMORROW.

Tulsa, Okla., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—The Tulso Oilers will entrain tonight for Chicago to meet the Shamrocks, American Hockey leaders, Thursday. In the one previous meeting between the clubs the Tulsans took a 4 to 1 beating.

Since that time the Oilers have gradually worked into their present form, which establishes them as the highest scoring club in the American league. Included in the Tulsa record is a 7 to 0 defeat of the Duluth Hornets, whom the Shamrocks have defeated once in five starts.

THREE COLLEGES SEEK FRIEDMAN AS GRID COACH

New York, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The name of Benny Friedman, former Michigan quarter back and professional football star of the New York Giants, was mentioned today in connection with coaching positions at California, Pennsylvania, and Yale.

Friends of Friedman said they understood he had talked with representatives of all three, including William W. Monahan, California graduate manager, who has been in the east seeking a successor to C. M. Price as head coach.

Chicago, Summer Playground, Capital of Winter Sports

BY ARCH WARD.

Chicago, with its miles of beaches and parks, has established itself as a summer playground.

Now it is making a name as a winter resort.

Not less than 30,000, and there may have been 40,000, stood on the frozen turf of Riis park Sunday afternoon to watch seventy-one young ski jumpers compete for medals in THE TRIBUNE tournament. The same afternoon 20,000 were banked around the ice at Humboldt park to watch girl and boy skaters race for championships in the annual meet of the Norwegian-American A. A. Thousands more saw candidates for Uncle Sam's Olympic skating team work out on the same ice Sunday morning.

The previous Sunday a skating meet conducted by the Franklin S. C. drew nearly 20,000 to Humboldt park.

Entries for THE TRIBUNE'S 15th annual Silver Skates meet opened last Saturday and the nominations already have run into the hundreds. If the pace is maintained, more than 4,000 will compete.

There will be a ski meet at the Biltmore Country club next Sunday which will attract most of Chicago's expert jumpers. The following Sunday the national tournament will be held on the Norge slide at Fox River Grove. Then comes the meet at Ogden Dunes.

Indoor fans can enjoy hockey, basketball, boxing and wrestling.

Is it necessary to explain further that Chicago is the capital of winter sport?

Why Attack Football?

It is interesting to note that the professors who talk loudest about the evils of football are consistent in their inconsistency.

They contend that schedules should be limited to five or six games, with no more than three or four trips away from the campus.

Why is it there has been no attack on basketball, track, swimming, or baseball? These teams frequently play fifteen or twenty games involving a corresponding number of trips. Basketball men practice from early fall until spring. Candidates for the crew work all winter and spring. Frequently they make transcontinental trips.

Wonder if Knute Rockne didn't come close to the truth when he said that football was under fire because it had interested and entertained the public?

Whether you like it or not, it looks as if wrestling is back to claim a place as sporting entertainment. A north side show a few weeks ago filled Broadway armory. Twenty-thousand attended a recent match at Madison Square Garder New York. Bouts are drawing well in Philadelphia, Boston, and on the Pacific coast.

Perhaps wrestling's increased popularity is due in a measure to the decreased interest in boxing. Again maybe the new champions, Londos and George, have caught the public's fancy.

Persons who like boxing and wrestling usually are gluttons for boisterous action. They haven't seen enough physical rowdyism among the boxers to make an evening at the ringside worth while.

The wrestlers have sensed the situation and are grunting, tugging, and pulling with increased ferocity. Their bouts, as in the past, probably are hilarious hippodromes, but that makes no difference.

The fans want action, and the grapplers are giving it to them.

Silver Skates Teams Will Race for Eckersall Trophy

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[ENTRY BLANK ON NEXT PAGE.]

THE TRIBUNE has added a new prize to the list of awards for victory in the Silver Skates Derbies Jan. 24 and 25 at Garfield park.

WALTER ECKERSALL.

It will be known as the Walter Eckersall Memorial trophy and will go to the team scoring the greatest number of points.

The late Walter Eckersall was in charge of Silver Skates tournaments and other promotions of THE TRIBUNE since their inception. The oldest of these sport promotionals is the Silver Skates. This trophy will commemorate his service.

The trophy is a silver column 24 inches in height mounted on an ebony base. On top of the column is a Winged Victory supported by a silver skate.

3 Time Winner Keeps Trophy.

Around the base are nine shields on which will be inscribed year by year the winning teams. The Eckersall trophy will belong to the winning team for one year until the same club or organization has won it three times. Then it will become the permanent possession of the victors.

Several hundred individual entries have been received for the seven races scheduled this year. Among them is that of Harry A. Pillinger, 725 Fountain street, Grand Rapids, Mich. Harry is 17. He formerly attended the Robert Emmett school in Chicago and has participated in other Silver Skates tournaments as a representative of Emmett playground.

"For two years I have lived in Grand Rapids," Pillinger writes, "and am attending Central High school. I have always been interested in the Silver Skates and would like to enter once more."

Franklin Team Entered.

The Franklin Skating and Athletic club is the first to make a team entry for the fifteenth Silver Skates Derby. Herman Hofmann, vice president of the club, has entered 19 in the men's senior, boys' intermediate, junior and juvenile divisions.

Sig. Jablonoski, national indoor ice champion, will compete for the Franklin club in the boys' junior Derby. Victor Rencketti, Illinois indoor ice champion, is another competitor in the same division who may win the silver skates.

BOSTON HOCKEY SEXTET DEFEATS BLACKHAWKS, 5-2

March, Gottselig Score for Chicago.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 6.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins, driving hard for 1931 Stanley cup honors, lengthened their lead in the National Hockey league here tonight by overwhelming the Chicago Blackhawks, 5 to 2. The victory placed the Bruins in front by three full games.

An injury to Taffy Abel early in the first period probably cost three goals. This aggressive Chicago defense star wrenched his right knee in a collision with Eddie Shore and soon after he left the game the Bruins scored three goals in rapid succession. All of the scores went past Duke Dutkowski, who replaced Abel. Taffy will be out of the game for two weeks.

Abel's Absence Helps Boston.

George Owen, Mary Barry, and Eddie Shore took advantage of Abel's absence to increase their scoring totals and Red Beattie and Cooney Weiland pushed the puck through Goalie Chuck Gardiner in the third period.

Mush March scored for Chicago in the second period with a sensational solo drive that carried him past Hitchman and Shore and into position to drive a terrific shot through Tiny Thompson, Boston goalie. The other Blackhawk goal, made by Johnny Gottselig on Bill Adams' assist, was scored while two Bruins rested in the penalty box.

The Bruins put on a great show during the early part of the first period, outplaying the Hawks in every department of the game, but none of the Boston rushes resulted in a score, although Chuck Gardiner had several difficult shots to turn back.

George Owen scored first for Boston. He feinted to draw Gardiner out and then banged the puck into the empty cage.

Barry Scores for Bruins.

After the following face off, Beattie hooked the puck in the center zone, passed to Barry, and the latter, after circling the Chicago net with the puck, drove it inside for the Bruins' second score.

Eddie Shore gave the Bruins a third score by stopping a Chicago drive after circling his own net, carrying straight down the ice to register an unassisted goal.

Owen took the puck away from March and passed to Weiland, and Cooney's direct shot just cleared the inside of the right net post for the Bruins' fourth goal.

Gottselig Scores Goal.

While Shore and Chapman were off, Bill Adams managed to plough deep into Boston territory and feed Gottselig a pass that resulted in a score.

A few seconds later the Hawks put on a jam near the Boston net and after a whistle Gottselig spanked the puck inside. The Hawks protested vigorously, but the goal was disallowed.

Two seconds before the bell, Barry hooked the rubber near the boards deep in Boston territory and went down with Beattie. He passed the red haired center and flipped the rubber home for the Bruins' fifth tally.

Big Shows of Boxing Died with Rickard

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 6.—It has been about two years since Tex Rickard died in the midst of his plans to create another Monte Carlo on the American Riviera at Miami Beach, Fla., and the prize fighting business continues to establish new record lows in attendance and receipts at the very capitol of the industry, Madison Square Garden, which is situated about three miles from Madison Square as the taxicab flies.

Mr. Rickard was the boldest, blandest and most successful fourflusher of his time. On a salary of about $500 a week he carried himself in the manner of a millionaire, and many a man envied him his wealth who could have bought him with the contents of his change pocket.

Just what he was planning to use for money in the promotion of his gambling center at Miami Beach, which was to have been a kind of gambling department store, with a bargain basement to catch the dimes of the proletariat and blue chip departments upstairs in tapestried walls, will not be known. But presumably he was planning to use other people's money as this had been his method in the past.

His first million dollar prize fight, the first million dollar prize fight ever produced, the one between Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier in Jersey City, was promoted entirely on the customers' and the ticket scalpers' money, and he took a chance of disaster, which appalled every other promoter who tried to outbid him for the bout.

Mr. Rickard first planned to seat about 40,000 customers, and in order to obtain operating capital he sent a representative to see the New York ticket scalpers, proposing to sell all but a few of the better tickets to them for cash. The ticket scalpers thought well of the bout and bought out the ringside, and Mr. Rickard was heeled for further operations. The New York scalpers sent out tickets to other scalpers in Chicago, Detroit, Cincinnati, Philadelphia, and all other centers where there were customers for a million dollar prize fight. But scarcely had Tex received his money when he decided to enlarge his arena to a capacity of 90,000 and issue many more $50 tickets.

This naturally depressed the market for the tickets which the scalpers had bought and there was a serious panic in the scalping industry as the day of the prize fight approached. The New York scalpers and scalpers in towns far away, in their desperation, planned to station deputy scalpers along the route from the ferries and tubes in Jersey City on the day of the prize fight to waylay the patrons before they came to Mr. Rickard's ticket wagons and undersell him, sacrificing their tickets to recover a portion of their investment.

But Mr. Rickard had made excellent political arrangements. The Jersey City police, who are very tough policemen, were stationed all along the line of march to keep every one moving. Consequently the scalpers were unable to unload their tickets on the Jersey side, and by the time they had surveyed the situation and hurried back to the New York side to catch the customers there the rush for the Jersey side was over.

But throughout the weeks of the ballyhoo, after the original sale of the tickets to the scalpers, Mr. Rickard was spending his customers' money to build his arena, post forfeits and establish his political standing in New Jersey.

Twice in the week immediately preceding the prize fight, Carpentier was close to being disabled. Once he piled up a light automobile in which he was tearing along a Long Island road near Syosset, and crawled out scared but unhurt when a broken arm would have meant exposure, prosecution and disaster for Tex Rickard.

Again, on the Sunday before the fight, Carpentier went out on Long Island sound aboard a yacht to swim over the side with a party of social lion hunters, but became interested in a young person, described as a debutante, and remained aboard.

STADIUM CHIEFS MAKE BID FOR STRIBLING BOUT

Fight at Soldiers' Field—Jacobs.

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Max Schmeling's title of world's heavyweight boxing champion was declared vacated this afternoon by the New York Boxing commission, but he probably will defend the fistic crown against Young Stribling in Chicago next June.

JOE JACOBS.

Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, announced that the German heavyweight and Stribling will fight at Soldiers' field. This statement came immediately after the commission's ruling had been passed out following debate of more than two hours between the Schmeling representatives, William Carey, President of the Madison Square Garden corporation, and Messrs. Farley, Phelan, and Muldoon of the New York Boxing board.

Sidney Strotz, president of the Chicago Stadium, and his matchmaker, Nate Lewis, who hope to take the fight to Chicago, tonight said they were unable to make any announcement that the championship fight had been arranged.

"Nothing Definite Yet."

"We hope and expect to have Schmeling and Stribling fight for the world's heavyweight championship in Chicago in June, but we cannot make definite announcement as yet," said Mr. Strotz.

Pressed for an answer as to whether they had come to a verbal agreement, Mr. Strotz replied:

"I can only say that Joe Jacobs made a statement to newspaper men in my presence this afternoon to the effect that Schmeling would be matched to fight Stribling in Chicago in June. Even if we clear the path and come to terms no papers will be signed until we get back to Chicago."

The Chicagoans spent the evening conferring with Jacobs.

Dangle $500,000 Offer.

On what basis the Chicago fight will be promoted remains to be settled. Strotz and Lewis are reported to have dangled a $500,000 guarantee to Schmeling, through Jacobs. Dispatches from Miami, Fla., quoted Pa Stribling as being ready and willing to join in the Chicago promotion. Cables from Berlin, where Schmeling is hanging out with the home folks, quoted him as expressing similar readiness to pull off the Chicago show.

At their session earlier in the day the state board had declared Schmeling's title forfeited because of his failure to agree to fight Jack Sharkey a return bout in New York.

The commission contended that Schmeling had entered into an agreement with them immediately after the unsatisfactory termination of the Schmeling-Sharkey contest last summer; that Schmeling, in return for the title being conferred upon him, would defend his laurels against Sharkey, and that agreement has never been lived up to.

Gave Him a Break.

"Schmeling won his title while lying on the floor," declared Farley, "and for the first time in history the heavyweight championship was passed over on a foul. Only for the fact that Schmeling was a foreign boxer we would not have given him the title on so unsatisfactory an exhibition.

"However, we made him champion, and he promised to fight it out again with Sharkey and then he ran out of the match. His six months' grace as a titleholder has expired, and we have notified him that he must defend his title against Sharkey. He has failed to take up the Sharkey challenge, so we have vacated the title. We now nominate Sharkey to the position of defending champion and will recognize the winner of a contest between Sharkey and some opponent, preferably Stribling, as the successor to the title vacated by Schmeling.

Jacobs Says He's Fair.

To which Jacobs rejoined:

"We made a fair proposition to the New York board. Our offer was that we would insist on Stribling boxing Sharkey in New York for the right to a match with Schmeling, and in event of Stribling's refusal we would be ready to sign at once for a return match between Sharkey and Schmeling.

"The commission would not even give an ear to our proposition. We have done all we could and so we have definitely decided to close with the Chicago promoters for a match with Stribling. Beyond saying the bout will be fought in June in Soldiers' field I do not care to commit myself right now."

KEARNS PLANS SUIT.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Jack Kearns, manager of Mickey Walker, whose middleweight championship was declared vacant today by the New York State Athletic commission, announced tonight he would start suit at once against the commission for $1,000,000 unless it rescinded on the ground that its action was in restraint of trade. He asserted the commission's action would prevent Walker from earning a living.

ROGUISH EYE IS STILL APPLE OF ALDERMAN'S EYE

Luckless Horse Bids Adieu to Race Tracks.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The "big" horse in John Coughlin's turf establishment has said farewell to the race tracks.

When the alderman announced yesterday he had sent Roguish Eye into retirement to serve as the sultan on Glen-Helen farm near Lexington, there passed from racing a horse which gave more hope of greatness at times and caused more disappointment on other occasions perhaps than any other topnotch thoroughbred within the last quarter of a century.

Let's picture Roguish Eye's biggest afternoon.

It is Futurity day in the autumn of 1928 at Belmont in New York. A pot of gold and the 2 year old championship of the American turf are at stake. Twenty-five of the finest juvenile thoroughbreds in the country are in the struggle, among them this huge chestnut from Chicago quoted at 40 to 1 and 50 to 1 by the bookmakers. Forty thousand persons are on hand talking and speculating about every horse in the race except the chestnut which has dropped in from somewhere under the personal direction of the Chicago alderman.

Thrilling Duel Begins.

Came the race. A chestnut streak and a sleek smooth striding bay flew away from the barrier on even terms. They soon were clear of the others. First the bay's nose was showing in front. An instant later the chestnut held the advantage of an inch. The others were now well back of them.

The crowd, mostly New Yorkers, was shouting High Strung. The spectators had faith in this eastern colt and had wagered on him. But the apple blossom Coughlin silks, unfamiliar in metropolitan racing, were being carried so gallantly by Roguish Eye that even the partisan eastern crowd took up the cheering for the ungainly chestnut.

The horses approached the line of finish still an inch apart. High Strung caught the judge's eye. He got the decision and a purse of $100,000. The defeat by an inch or less, doubtful to all those not directly on the finish line, cost Roguish Eye and his owner $90,000, for second money was worth only $10,000.

Goes Amiss in Training.

Darker days came later for Roguish Eye. In the following spring when "The Eye" was training in a way to indicate he was ready to vindicate his narrow Futurity defeat and make a show of a Kentucky Derby field he went wrong in training. He didn't go to the post in that race.

For two years Roguish Eye has been pointed for one rich and important engagement after another. But always just when ready to gallop on the track and demonstrate his greatness, the inevitable happened. "Roguish Eye has pulled up lame in his final training trial" came the brief bulletin from the Coughlin barn.

Persons who like their horses big and gross, and the alderman is one of them, will admire this young stallion Roguish Eye, whose sire, Flittergolf, was a full brother to Fair Play, daddy of Man o' War.

Alderman's Faith Not Shaken.

Did Roguish Eye's defeat by a "whisker" for the $100,000 Futurity purse, his failure to get to the post in the Derby and other rich fixtures, his inability to shake off a jinx which continually trailed him sour Ald. Coughlin on this luckless race horse?

You wouldn't think so if you had been present when the alderman pictured Roguish Eye's future as a successful sire late yesterday.

"It's true he didn't prove it, but he was as good as Man o' War or Reigh Count or Gallant Fox, or any of the other great horses of recent years," he said.

"Those were pretty nice horses," we reminded the alderman.

"And so was the Eye," he shot back so emphatically that we knew no matter how other people rank leading thoroughbreds of the century, Roguish Eye will always get one vote for leadership.

Major League Clubs Plan to Curtail Squads

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The next reform in big league baseball—and it should have been put into effect years ago—will involve the number of players permitted to be retained by teams during the major portion of the playing season. At present each squad, except for the first few weeks of the campaign and again at the finish, must be limited to 25 players. Bench managers and coaches are not included.

Agitation to lower the actual playing personnel already is under way, the arguments of its sponsors being twofold. One is that there are not enough players of big league caliber to permit of 25 for each of 16 clubs. The other is that 22 men are enough for any one manager.

At the reeent New York meetings this proposal was considered, but no announcement covering it was made to the scribes. It seems that the National league was unanimous for its adoption, but preferred to wait until the player boycott set up by themselves against the class AA leagues could be straightened out. Only half of the American league clubs expressed opinion in favor of its acceptance now or in the future. However, the holdouts probably would weaken if next season should happen to be financially poor.

* *

The White Sox are slated to battle the Giants at Little Rock April 2 and the home club in the same place on the three following days, but different arrangements may be necessary. A new park is being erected and there is some doubt as to whether the construction people will have the place ready in time.

* *

Although the American association took a telegraph vote to accept the draft terms offered by the majors and then rescinded its action when one club owner demanded the matter be determined in formal meeting, the eventual acceptance is assured. The original mail vote of ten days ago was 5 in favor of the draft, 2 opposed, and 1 noncommital. In the new vote, which is being taken by mail to avoid the expense of a meeting, the vote promises to be 6 to 2 for the draft, which automatically will eliminate the barriers which since Dec. 1 have prevented a class AA team from getting a player from a major club.

* *

Clarence Rowland, former White Sox manager, who recently purchased the Reading club from the Chicago Cubs, intends to cast his vote for draft acceptance by the International league. A meeting is expected to be held for this purpose within the next two weeks. Sentiment favoring acceptance of the proposals from the majors is reported to be 5 to 3. The Coast league, the third of the class AA circuits now in bad repute with the majors, so far as players are concerned, probably will agree to accept the draft when it holds its election meeting late this month.

* *

Hank O'Day, the oldest figure in point of service in the National league, is reported seriously ill at Excelsior Springs, Mo. Hank has served the league as player, umpire, manager, then umpire again, and lastly as supervisor of arbiters. O'Day pitched for the Washington club of the National league back in 1887 and a couple of years later was with the Giants. It was O'Day who in 1908 made the decision on the "Merkle touching second" play which cost the iGants a pennant.

Big Time Prize Fighting Died with Rickard

tante, who was sitting under an awning.

A friend of Carpentier who had no interest in debutantes and probably vice versa, continued to lie in the sun where he and Georges had been sprawled and where Carpentier probably would have continued to take the sun all day but for the more interesting company under the awning. The friend of Mr. Carpentier went to a couch of pain that night, missed the prize fight which he had traveled far to see, and spent two weeks under a kind of casserole suffering from one of the worst cases of sunburn ever seen on Long Island.

Any mishap to either of the prize fighters or any dislocation of the political arrangements which were relied upon to thwart the pious ladies and gentlemen of various reform societies, would have put it up to Mr. Rickard to refund the money of those customers who had bought their tickets from the scalpers.

Yet Mr. Rickard was not as shrewd as sometimes seemed to be. He was overeager always when he decided that he had to have a fight or anything else, and he allowed the prize fighters to boost him $200,000 when the time came to sign the articles. Mr. Rickard had offered them $300,000, or $200,000 for Dempsey, and $100,000 for Carpentier, and both gladiators and their managers were tremulous lest they should overwait and the offer should be withdrawn. But Jack Kearns was a gambler also, and as a last, daring fling, he offered Jack Curley $25,000 to sign a formal bid of $500,000 for the bout, which Mr. Curley, of course, was in no position to fulfill.

"But," Mr. Kearns said, "Tex thinks J. Ogden Armour is behind Curley, and if he sees this bid maybe we can get a little more money out of him."

So the sportsmen called on Mr. Rickard, showed him Mr. Curley's offer, and said, "Tex, this is your last chance." Thereupon, Mr. Rickard raised his bid $200,000, and when the business was over Mr. Kearns paid Mr. Curley his $25,000.

But with the exception of the late Dan Stewart, who promoted the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight at Carson, and other bouts of that period in the far west under the most discouraging political conditions, there has never been any one who combined Mr. Rickard's audacity with his imagination and his efficiency. Mr. C. C. Pyle was daring, but he had poor ideas and moreover he was not efficient. Frank Bruen, the only man the Garden firm has been able to hire since Rickard's death who faintly resembled Tex, is a man of the gambling temperament, but he is also of the employé temperament, and the board of directors and efficiency experts of the Garden firm suppressed him, whereas they never had been able to suppress Tex.

Rickard often wrote checks for fight managers against the Garden corporation's treasury on his own authority in order to close deals which would have been vetoed if he had put them up to the directors first. When their money was up, they had to go through with Rickard in order to get it back. They were afraid to rein him in because he might start another Garden, but when he died his prerogatives died with him. The prize fight business entered an era of business sobriety, efficiency, economy, and caution.

That is why the business has been establishing new record lows in attendance and receipts at the Garden. Prize fighting is a rogue business, and is not amenable to the routine methods of those forms of business which are known as respectable business.

DETROIT HOCKEY TEAM DEFEATS CANADIENS, 6-2

MONTREAL, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The Detroit Falcons gave the world's hockey champions, Les Canadiens, their first defeat of the season on home ice tonight, 6 to 2. It was the second time Detroit has beaten the Canadiens this year and dropped the losers to third place in the Canadian division standing.

RANGERS WIN, 5 TO 1.

New York, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The New York Rangers gave one of the best exhibitions of the National Hockey league season tonight as they trounced the Montreal Maroons, leaders of the Canadian division, 5 to 1. The Rangers gained a tie with Chicago for second place in the American section while Montreal, although defeated, held first place in its division.

MAPLE LEAFS TIE.

OTTAWA, Ont, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Toronto Maple Leafs and Ottawa Senators divided points tonight after 70 grueling minutes of their National Hockey league struggle tonight failed to bring a dicision. The final count was 2 to 2, and the single point Toronto gained by the draw put the Leafs in second place in the Canadian division.

NOW 'TIS FOUND TIM MOYNIHAN IS MARRIED MAN

Rawlins, Wyo., Jan. 6.—(AP)—The marriage last September of Tim Moynihan, assistant football coach at Notre Dame university, and Miss Mabel Roach, Rawlins school teacher, was announced here today by Mrs. Moynihan.

The couple met here while attending high school. Moynihan lived with an aunt, Mrs. T. W. O'Hara, and was graduated from Rawlins High school in 1925.

He came here for a visit last fall while Miss Roach was teaching school. On Sept. 6 they went to Rock Springs where the ceremony was performed.

The marriage was kept secret and Mrs. Moynihan returned to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Roach. Her father is warden of the state penitentiary.

Adopt New Conditions for Grand National

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 6.—To keep the field within manageable limits in the Grand National steeplechase, hardest test in Europe for horseflesh, to be run at the historic Aintree course near Liverpool on March 27, new conditions for the race have been adopted.

The new rules provide that the horses which go to the post must be six years old and upward and by March 17 must have been placed first, second or third by the judges in steeplechases of three miles and upward, or the equivalent in foreign distances.

This may cause the number of American starters to be somewhat limited this year, since the first three horses in the International, run early in December

PRICE DECLINES REDUCE PROFITS OF ARMOUR & CO.

Betters Financial Condition in 1930.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Now comes the season of annual reports by American corporations and, as the result of last year's depression, many of them will make gloomy reading. However, unsatisfactody earnings have been expected and they are "water over the dam." And in contrast to the statements is the optimism for the future expressed by our leaders of industry.

In such vein is the statement of Armour & Co., among the largest of the meat packers, made public last night. While the volume of business last year at $900,000,000 was about the same as in 1929, profits declined sharply as the result of constantly declining prices.

Net earnings for the fiscal year ended Nov. 1, 1930, were $4,741,026, which fell just short of dividends guaranteed on the preferred stocks of Armour & Co. of Delware and the North American Provision company.

However, Armour & Co. of Illinois maintained the regular preferred dividends on both its own preferred stock and those of its subsidiaries by resorting to surplus to the extent of $1,000,576.

Surplus Is $43,078,092.

Total surplus now stands at $43,078,092. Net earnings for the preceding fiscal year were $9,810,518, equivalent after all preferred dividends to 6 cents a share on Armour of Illinois class A common stock, although no dividends were paid and surplus was increased.

The Illinois parent company, however, improved its financial structure last year. It retired $10,134,900 of funded debt and $3,132,800 of guaranteed preferred stocks of subsidiaries and reduced inventories to the lowest point since 1923. Its balance sheet shows current assets of $75,954,219 and current liabilities of $24,499,523.

"I can not foresee at this moment what is immediately ahead of the business world," President F. Edson White says in the report, "but I do know that the best guide to the future is the record of the past, and that record is one which warrants an optimistic viewpoint. Restoration of confidence throughout the business world will be the determining factor.

"In fifty years our country has experienced fifteen depression. Many of them were as serious as the present one but the country recovered from every one of them and gained enough between times to make our people the richest in the world, with luxuries and advantages such as are possessed by no others. In due time the present depression will fade out and this great country of ours will climb back to prosperity, taking with it those enterprises which retain their faith in the future and serve steadfastly in the present."

Miller & Hart Reports.

Miller & Hart, Inc., Chicago packers, also issued its annual report. Net sales for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31 totaled $9,979,008, or only slightly below those of 1929.

Net profit was $176,556, equivalent to $3.46 a share on 50,950 shares of preferred stock outstanding at the end of the year. The issue was reduced from 55,000 shares by retirements during the year.

Earnings fell below preferred dividend requirements but both preferred and common dividends were met by recourse to surplus to the extent of $231,519. Total surplus on Oct. 31 stood at $634,025. Net earnings for the previous fiscal year were $266,-000.

The campaign to remedy over-production of petroleum was pushed further last week, with the result that output was brought down to the lowest level since July, 1926. Less reassuring, however, was an increase in gasoline stocks. The daily average gross crude oil production totaled 2,467,100 barrels, a decline of 44,650 barrels a day from the preceding week, according to the American Petroleum Institute. The chief factor was a drop of 28,300 barrels a day in California.

National Tea Co. Makes Good Sales in December

The National Tea company reports consolidated sales for the month of December, 1930, of $7,468,306.93, as compared with $8,076,019.23 for the corresponding month of 1929.

Railway Officials Point to Inroads Made by Trucks

BY SCRUTATOR.

Another new and alarming tendency—for trucks to take some of their heavy, low grade business as well as their lighter, high grade traffic—was discussed by railroad officials yesterday at an interstate commerce commission hearing in the Hotel Sherman.

A. P. Gilbert of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad gave a specific instance of a million bricks that were trucked from Upper Sandusky, O., to a Michigan point 141 miles away for $5.50 a thousand. This service included pickup and delivery at the point the brick were to be used and Mr. Gilbert estimated that to compete with these advantages the railroad would have had to cut its own rate of $5.40 a thousand in two to get the business.

Part of a Series.

The hearings here are part of a series which, it is hoped, will give the interstate commerce commission and, later, congress information on which legislation may be passed to coördinate in some way the motor and rail facilities of the country.

J. F. Porterfield, assistant to the transportation superintendent of the Illinois Central, testified that a decrease of passenger train miles reaching more than two million miles had occurred on his road mostly as a result of automotive transportation. F. H. Law, assistant freight traffic manager of the same railroad, suggested that trucks had taken a great deal of business from the Illinois Central and recommended that they should pay a fair compensation for the use of the highways in the form of taxes.

J. W. Stevenson, assistant general passenger agent, asserted that the Illinois Central had lost 30 per cent of its passenger traffic in recent years.

Low priced buses, he said, carried passengers from Chicago to St. Louis for $2.50 while the railroad charged more than $10. This railroad, he continued, had tried low coach fares only to meet the competition of other railroads in the same territory and this lowering was regarded strictly as an experiment.

Small Road Suffers.

R. R. Valier of the La Crosse and Southeastern, a small Wisconsin road, showed that its passenger revenues were $60,000 in 1920 and only $600 in 1929. He attributed the loss to private automobiles rather than to buses, as bus lines in that territory were hauling only 25 per cent of his road's decrease. As for trucks, he advanced the belief that in a few years they would be hauling freight all the way across the continent in one movement.

For the first time at this hearing truck operators had an opportunity to be heard. Tom Snyder, president of the Warehouse Distributing corporation of Indianapolis, asserted that the trucks and railroad forwarding companies in Indiana had made it possible for merchants in 400 Indiana cities to get store delivery of goods from New York in four days.

It was a common practice to ship a carload of goods by rail, the contents ranging from matches and shingles and lubricating oil to fish, fruit and magazines, to a specified point in Indiana and to have it broken up there for carriage to any of the cities.

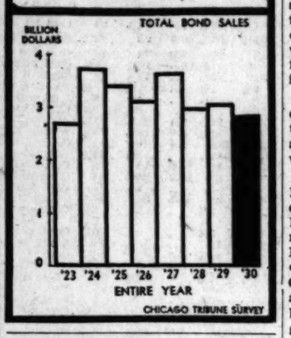
Transport Coördination.

"There are fourteen such places," he said, "where truck pickups of carloads are made. The trucker collects both his own charge and that of the forwarding company, which in turn pays the railroad. The Indiana merchant gets the benefit of the lowest possible freight and the quickest delivery. The railroads get long haul freight. We are actually increasing their business. This is the real way in which coördination of transportation will move."

H. C. Kelting of Louisville, another trucking executive, gave similar instances where rail and truck had been used to advantage. He recommended legislation to insure the financial responsibility of truck carriers, but declared no regulation of their rates should be attempted.

The hearing will continue today.

BOND SALES ON THE NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE IN 1930 WERE SMALLEST SINCE 1923



NASH MOTOR EARNINGS IMPROVE LATE IN 1930; YEAR'S PROFITS LOWER

The Nash Motors company showed the best earnings of the year in the final quarter of the twelve months ended Nov. 30, income available for dividends being equal to 77 cents a share on the capital stock, bringing the earnings for the fiscal year to $2.73 a share, according to the annual report issued by the company yesterday.

Although the annual earnings were far below the $6.60 a share shown in the year ended on Nov. 30, 1929, Charles W. Nash, president, told the stockholders that, "when taking into consideration the unusual conditions throughout the world, the management feels that the operations for 1930 should be considered satisfactory."

The net profits for the fiscal year were $7,601,164, after all expenses, reserves, depreciation and federal taxes. Net for the previous fiscal year was $18,013,781.

During the year cash dividends amounting to $13,650,000 were paid, but the company at the end of the period had $38,094,963 in cash and government securities. Another favorable factor pointed out by Mr. Nash was a reduction in inventory from $5,246,094 on Nov. 30, 1929, to $2,768,-070 a year later.

During the year the company had a large amount of income absorbed in cleaning up the 1929 production of cars and the expense for bringing into production, during the final three months of the year, the 1931 models.

In discussing the future, Mr. Nash in his letter to stockholders said: "The management feels that the company should be in splendid position to take advantage of business when it is revived, which revival, we believe, will take effect during the year 1931."

CURB ABSORBS SPORADIC SALES, CLOSES HIGHER

New York, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The curb market easily absorbed sporadic selling today and closed at generally the best levels of the day.

Gains in the utilities were moderate, but other sections of the list showed to better advantage, particularly industrial specialties. Trading was dull all day.

Electric Bond and Share had to content itself with a fractional gain, but it had plenty of company in the active utilities. American Gas and Electric rallied a couple of points and Associated Gas "A" continued its recent improvement.

Confer on Rail Consolidation; Hoover Support Is Attacked

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 6.—Further efforts to agree on methods of procedure before the interstate commerce commission and on points still unsettled in the general plan of consolidation of eastern railroads into four systems were made today at a prolonged conference of attorneys of the systems involved.

It is understood that representatives of all four systems, the New York Central, Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, and Chesapeake and Ohio-Nickel Plate, were in attendance.

For the New York Central, Clyde Brown, general solicitor, is in charge of the work of straightening out the legal details in connection with the merger plan; for the Pennsylvania, C. B. Heiserman, vice president and general counsel; for the Baltimore and Ohio, John J. Cornell, general counsel, and for the Chesapeake and Ohio, Herbert Fitzpatrick, vice president and general counsel.

Seek to Speed Case.

One of the main problems is to determine the method that will secure most expeditious consideration of the case by the interstate commerce commission. It has not been determined whether each system will file a separate petition embodying the plan announced last week in a joint letter to the interstate commerce commission, or whether a joint application can be filed.

The fact that the railroad presidents stated that the plan is interdependent and that an agreement could not have been reached on any other basis would indicate that the latter method may be adopted, giving the interstate commerce commission an opportunity to consolidate the hearings and other proceedings that necessarily will cover a period of several months.

Is Bitterly Criticized.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—President Hoover's instigation and support of the four system eastern railroad merger came in for bitter criticism in the house of representatives today.

Representatives Sam Raybourn [Dem., Tex.] and George Huddleston [Dem., Ala.], ranking minority members of the house interstate and foreign commerce committee, charged that by suggesting and approving the merger, he had prejudged it prior to its consideration by the interstate commerce commission and that his attitude was calculated to influence the commission.

"The interstate commerce commission is the responsible agent of congress and it should be unhampered by the great influence of the chief executive," Representative Raybourn declared. "It is most regrettable that the President has handled the matter in such a way as to make it appear that he is handing something to the commission already worked out by him and for them to approve. If the commission after a hearing ever approves this four system plan it matters not how sincerely, they will be embarrassed by the fact that many will charge them with having supinely done the bidding of the President."

Lloyds Bank, London, Declares 15% 'A' Dividend

LONDON, Jan. 6. — (AP) — Lloyds Bank, first of the big houses to make it current dividend declaration, today announced that 15 per cent would be paid on the "A" shares, compared with 16 2-3 per cent paid for the last ten years.

The Midland bank declared the regular dividend of 18 per cent for 1930, the same as last year, and reported net profits of £2,318,689, against £2,655,-042 in 1929.

Form New Brokerage Firm of J. A. Sisto & Co. in N. Y.

A new firm of J. A. Sisto & Co., brokers, has been formed in New York, succeeding the firm of that name which was suspended a few months ago for inability to meet its obligations. Recently the firm effected a settlement with creditors which opened the way for reinstatement of the floor partner, Norris B. Henrotin. The new firm is composed of the same partners who were interested in the old firm.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 6.—The bulls whooped things up a bit in the late stock dealings today. It was a professional affair out and out, but it provided one of the best shows Wall street has enjoyed in weeks and undoubtedly helped to further improve sentiment marketwise. Unless they stub their toes, the bulls are liable to start something yet, what with the news growing more and more favorable, the commodity markets developing a firmer tone and everything—as they did today.

The late rally came as the climax to some three hours of mixed trading, with groups and special issues moving every which way. Buying converged on the leading industrials, utilities and rails and gains of 1 to 3 points were scored by a fairly long list of issues. A few of the rails, one or two tobacco issues and a number of preferred descriptions ran up in even more imposing fashion.

LEADING CHICAGO STOCKS ACHIEVE MINOR GAINS

Will Combine Grigsby and Majestic Firms.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

After a period of uncertainty yesterday the Chicago stock market firmed up and leading shares edged forward for minor gains. A steadier tone was apparent soon after the New York tape recorded the change in tempo on the big board.

Despite the vagueness of the Grigsby Grunow merger reports and the refusal of officials to either affirm or deny them the company's issues received the attention of the spectulative fraternity. The noncommittal replies of B. J. Grigsby, chairman of the board, when queried on the matter were the subject of varied interpretations.

It was felt in La Salle street that something tanglible should come out of the dickering before the end of the week. The negotiations are not confined to two parties but conversations are or have been carried on with representatives of several firms with allied interests, it was reported. Announcement is expected in a day or so if the company should come to terms with General Motors.

Will Combine Companies.

Whether or not any merger agreement is reached with other interests the Grigsby Grunow and Majestic firms will be combined, it was learned. Such a program has been under consideration for several months. Officials of the two concerns, which are closely affiliated, feel that such a merger will remove certain difficulties of separate operation which have arisen.

Grigsby Grunow shares were turned over in the heaviest volume in several weeks yesterday and the price improved to 4¼. Majestic was bid up above 7 but later settled back to finish unchanged at 6⅞.

Libby McNeill was again in demand advancing a fraction on sales of about 7,000 shares. Improvement in other specialties included an advance of 2 points in Northwest Engineering which was scored on light trade.

As a group the utility stocks fared better than the rest of the market.

Moderate Strength.

In contrast with their recent heaviness the Continental Chicago issues each displayed moderate strength. Northwest Bancorporation wound up the day with a two point gain.

Stutz and Modine stood out among the motor and accessory shares. Each improved more than a point while Bendix moved up to 20 and Borg added a fraction to 23.

United Corporation.

I am thinking of investing what little spare money I have, which is less than $1,000, in United Corporation warrants when they get to about their low. Give me your guess of what their low will be during the next year. Do you think $1 too low? I have no information concerning the company except that some one told me it was good. Who manages the company? Is it under much of a strain in this depression?—L. R. S.

United Corporation was formed in January, 1929, with broad charter powers. It is primarily a public utility investment company, its holdings including stock of the leading eastern utilities.

A company of this type with no funded debt is not necessarily "under a strain" during a period of business depression, although, of course, the market value of the stocks held declines and this decline is reflected in the price of its own shares.

United Corporation on June 14, 1930, had outstanding 2,479,367 shares of $3 dividend preferred and 12,332,515 no par common shares. The latest available income account, that for the period from Jan. 1 to June 14, 1930, showed that dividends had been covered on the preferred with a balance, after preferred dividends, equal to 22 cents per common share.

American Superpower Corporation is the largest institutional holder of United Corporation stock. Control is held jointly by J. P. Morgan & Co., Drexel & Co., and Bonbright & Co., Inc.

There were outstanding on June 14, 1930, option warrants entitling holders to purchase at any time 3,732,059 shares of common stock at $27.50 per share. When the common stock can be bought on the market without warrants at $27.50 per share or less these warrants have only a speculative attraction. We cannot predict their future market price.

United Corporation common is a speculative stock. An initial dividend of 50 cents per share for the year 1930 was paid Oct. 1.

Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron.

Please advise me your opinion of Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company 6 per cent debentures in the present market. I hold a $500 debenture of this issue.—J. W. H.

Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company, a subsidiary of Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron corporation, was incorporated in 1871 and is one of the two largest anthracite coal producers in this country.

The 6 per cent convertible debentures dated March 1, 1929, and due March 1, 1949, are a direct obligation of the company, but are not secured by mortgage. They are convertible to March 1, 1939, into common stock of the parent corporation at the rate of 40 shares for one $1,000 bond.

In 1929 earnings were not sufficient to cover fixed charges. These debentures are somewhat speculative.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Cotton gray goods were moderately busy today. Print cloths, carded broadcloths, and narrow sheetings were selling for quick delivery at steady prices, with easy conditions on later deliveries of some descriptions. Mills were reported to have liquidated stocks of several rayon descriptions. Rayon yarns were unchanged and quiet. Burlap markets were quiet, with a few minor adjustments in prices of both futures and spots. Spot raw silks were quiet here. Japan markets reopened, showing activity.

Chicago Curb Exchange Stocks

A mild trade on the Chicago curb yesterday brought fractional changes for the most part. Action of investment trust securities was irregular. Corporate Trust Shares and Nationwide Securities easing slightly while Universal Trust Shares and Reliance Management were narrowly higher. Ford Ltd. declined fractionally. National Family Stores preferred sold at 11¾ in its first trades since Dec. 3.

BROADER BUYING OF CORN FUTURES ADVANCES PRICES

Trade in Chicago Wheat Market Is Light.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Buying of corn futures on a broader scale than of late, said to have been headed by a leading local professional, advanced prices 2¾@3c yesterday after a fractional decline early. All deliveries sold at a new high on the present movement, May touching 73¼c or 7¾c over the low of last week, and at the best figure since Dec. 9. Short covering became general on the way up and stop loss orders were uncovered with the finish at net gains of 2@2¼c, March being 71⅝c; May, 72¾@72¾c, and July, 73⅛@73½c.

Local operators sold corn early, and covered later. There was backspreading under way between the March and May deliveries, although the difference at the last was the same as on Monday. Sellers of daily and weekly offers were forced to protect themselves on the way up.

Basis for Buying.

Buying operations in the corn market were regarded as having been based on the abnormally small movement of cash grain in the interior for this season of the year when under average conditions the receipts at terminals are about the largest of the year. Chicago had only 29 cars, while primary points had 460,000 bu, compared with 982,000 bu last year. The country took advantage of the upturn in futures to sell 50,000 bu to arrive, but the grain was readily taken. The spot basis was steady to 1c higher with a good demand. Shipping sales aggregated 95,000 bu.

Commission houses generally have been expressing a favorable view toward the buying side of corn on the breaks. While there have been numerous sharp recessions of late, the offerings on declines have had a way of disappearing quickly.

Trade in the local wheat market was light, with the old crop months holding within narrow limits, but above the figures at which the stabilization corporation has been buying of late. The July dipped fractionally early, only to rally 1½c from the low in sympathy with corn and with Winnipeg. The finish was 1c higher at 65⅛@65¾c, while old crop months were unchanged, March being 80¼c, and May, 81¾c.

Winnipeg Closes Higher.

There was a letup in the profit taking so much in evidence at Winnipeg on Monday. That market closed 1⅛c higher, with houses with seaboard connections good buyers. Export sales of Manitobas in all positions were estimated at 750,000 bu, and the seaboard reported numerous bids somewhat under the market. The trade is inclined to look for a good demand for cash wheat from abroad, especially if weather conditions in Argentine remain unfavorable. Argentine shippers have lowered the natural weight of their offers abroad by ½ to 1 lb per bu, suggesting that the threshing returns from the districts visited by rust are showing poorer quality grain. Buenos Aires was closed yesterday.

'A Free and Open Market Favored by J. C. Murray

James C. Murray, the newly elected president of the Chicago Board of Trade, who is to assume office on Jan. 12, believes in the Chicago Board of Trade as a sound and commercial asset and a free and open market. The Chicago Board of Trade has maintained an open market for over 80 years, he said, and members assisted in the development of the greatest agricultural empire in the world.

"The system of marketing and financing as devised and practiced enables all interests to engage in production and distribution of the crops with the minimum of risk." Mr. Murray said. "This has established a corresponding minimum of conversion and marketing cost unequaled in any other industry.

"I regard the agricultural marketing act with its resultant farm board and stabilization corporation as an expression of congress in its effort to provide relief to agriculture. The success of the venture depends on the results accomplished."

CORPORATION EARNINGS

CORN EXCHANGE BANK [N. Y.]

Company earned $3,793,000 during year ended Dec. 31, equal to $5.58 a share on 677,500 shares, the average number outstanding during the year. This compares with $6.30 a share earned in 1929.

IRVING TRUST [N. Y.].

The company earned $9,649,000 during year ended Dec. 31, equal to $1.93 a share on 5,000,000 shares outstanding, against $2.41 a share earned in 1929.

CASH-GRAIN NEWS

There were numerous bids for Manitoba wheat slightly under the market, according to reports from the seaboard, but the strength in futures tended to check business and sales in all positions were finally estimated at 750,000 bu.

Chicago handlers sold 14,000 bu wheat, 95,000 bu corn, 60,000 bu oats, and 3,000 bu rye to the domestic trade with 50,000 bu corn booked to arrive.

Official receipts of grain at Chicago Tuesday: Wheat, 61 cars; corn, 29 cars; oats, 4 cars; barley, 2 cars.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

A better tone is noticeable among the majority of speculators and traders, and there is less pressure to sell grains except on sharp bulges, while on the breaks the market runs into supporting orders. July wheat, as viewed by most operators, is a purchase on breaks, as there is too much uncertainty as to crop conditions in the winter wheat sections.

Corn is considered by all interests as the real live market, with most local professionals friendly to the buying side. Their opinions are based on light receipts and moderate country offerings, although holders in Illinois and parts of Iowa are selling on every good bulge, which necessitates increased absorption of futures by the pit element, as well as by strong local professionals.

Possibilities of the farm board agencies buying July wheat are uppermost in the minds of the trade. Fred Uhlmann, in a review of the situation, expresses the belief that they will not do so.

BUTTER AND EGGS

Butter futures received active support on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange yesterday, recovering rapidly after a lower opening. Egg futures likewise scored a good gain on last minute buying. Closing prices showed a gain of ¾@¾c on butter and ¾c on eggs. Sales: Butter, 103 cars; eggs, 33 cars. Receipts: Butter, 12,823 tubs; eggs, 3,801 cases. Deliveries: Butter, 2 cars. Prices follow:

Top yesterday, $8.85; average, $7.80.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 9,000 cattle, 29,000 hogs, and 14,000 sheep.

All classes of live stock scored advances yesterday. Hogs pushed higher against larger receipts, lightest weights showing the biggest improvement on strong eastern support. Cattle ruled strong to 25c higher. Top lambs advanced to $8.85, equaling the highest paid for lambs since middle of last October. There was a better tone in all branches at the finish.

The biggest shipping orders of the season have featured the hog market during the last few days. Outsiders in two days purchased almost 40,000 head at Chicago alone, which more than offset the increase in receipts and brought smaller local packers on the market for their usual quota when the available supply dwindled faster than many had anticipated.

Larger packers bought sparingly, but only 4,000 were left at the close. The extreme top advanced 20c at $8.25, while the general average moved up 10c at $7.80.

April Hogs Bid $9.00.

Light weight hogs for delivery during the last half of next March and all of April carried bids of $9.00 on the hog futures market yesterday. February lights were bid $8.50. January light hogs were offered at $8.50 and bid $8.00. January and February heavies were offered at $7.65. April heavies were bid $8.00.

Demand in the cattle yards yesterday centered on the dwindling supply of well finished steers and yearlings, which sold quickly at 15@25c higher prices, some sales showing even more gain. Loads of outstanding quality and finish were absent, the best available, averaging 928@1,245 pounds, at $12 25.

Cows and heifers were more active and brought steady to strong prices. Calves were steady to 50c lower, plain kinds showing the loss. Stockers and feeders sold steady.

Best Lambs Strong.

Best grades of fat lambs sold readily at strong prices yesterday, while others ruled weak to 25c lower. Good grades sold at $8.50, although several loads of the best selections ranged upwards to $8.75@8.85. Aged sheep were firm, light ewes bringing $4.00, while aged wethers sold at $5.50 and two year olds in fair sized lots as high as $6.00. Yearlings were steady at $7.25. Feeding lambs were unchanged.

PROPOSE RULE CHANGES

Two of the leading features in the proposed changes in a number of rules of the Chicago Board of Trade to be voted on today are attracting important attention. One is the change in the differentials in corn, making No. 3 deliverable on future contracts the year round on the basis of 2c bu discount for white and yellow, and 2½c bu on mixed. No. 3 white oats 1½c bu discount from contract price; No. 1 barley 2c over contract price, and special No. 2 barley at contract price.

The Cash Grain association of the Chicago Board of Trade sent out an explanation in favor of the adoption of the No. 3 corn rule and the delivery of grain in cars on track the last three business days of a maturing contract. The point made is that deliveries can be made only subject to approval by the Board of Trade sampling department as to proper quality, and defines the rule for settlement of surpluses, as well as fixing responsibility for ordering, unloading and payment of car lot deliveries.

GOOD UPTURN IN LARD

Offerings of lard were well absorbed yesterday by shorts and commission houses, with a net gain of 15c to 20c, March and May leading the advance. Liverpool lard was unchanged to 6d higher.

Dry salted bellies were hard to buy and prices were bid up 12½c to 20c on futures and cash bellies were up ½c to ⅝c in the last few days. Exports of bacon were 15,000 lbs. Prices follow:

REVENUE FREIGHT CAR LOADINGS IN 1930 ARE OFF 13.1% FROM 1929

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—Complete reports for the year show that 45,887,413 cars were loaded with revenue freight in 1930, the car service division of the American Railway association announced today.

This was a reduction of 6,940,512 cars, or 13.1 per cent under the number loaded in 1929, and a reduction of 5,702,474 cars, or 11.1 per cent under 1928.

Total loadings by commodities for 1930 compared with 1929 follow:

	1930.	1929.
Grain and grain products	2,265,925	2,396,195
Live stock	1,285,245	1,419,191
Coal	7,951,868	9,095,271
Coke	487,151	634,427
Forest products	2,368,419	3,248,408
Ore	1,664,725	2,281,566
Merchandise less than car load lot freight	12,201,445	13,205,698
Miscellaneous freight	17,662,634	20,547,169

For the week ended on Dec. 27 loading of revenue freight amounted to 538,419 cars, a decrease due to the Christmas holidays, of 175,391 cars compared with the preceding week. It also was a decrease of 100,970 cars compared with the corresponding week in 1929 and a decrease of 129,555 cars under the same week in 1928.

For the week ending Dec. 27, loadings totaled 538,419 cars, a decrease, due to Christmas holidays, of 175,391, compared with the preceding week and 100,970 under the same period a year ago.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Butter market was somewhat unsettled, but prices showed little change. Fresh eggs were steady to ½c lower. Live, heavy hens advanced 2c, with light hens, spring chickens, stags, leghorn hens, ducks, and geese 1c higher. Receipts by freight, 5 cars. Potatoes steady, with a somewhat better demand due to more favorable weather. Receipts, 78 cars, with 215 cars on team track.

STRONGER TONE IN COTTON

Cotton was picked up on all weak spots yesterday, especially in the first hour, in the face of rather unfavorable trade reports. Sufficient buying developed to advance prices, closing them well toward the best of the day.

There were net gains of 1 to 6 points on most active futures in Chicago, with January up 10 points. In other markets gains were 1 to 6 points. Spot cotton in New York was unchanged at 10.15c. New Orleans was up 5 points at 9.70c, with Houston 9.85c and Galveston 9.95c. Liverpool was lower and closed 5 to 8 points off, with spot sales 2,000 bales.

The situation, as reviewed by the New York Stock exchange weekly report, showed consumption off more on American than on foreign cotton. Russian crop is estimated at 2,000,000 bales, against 1,281,000 bales in 1929. Prices follow:

BETTERMENT IN MORTGAGE FIELD SEEN BY CODY

Last Quarter of 1930 Has Big Pickup.

BY AL CHASE.

A striking pickup in the mortgage business during the last quarter of 1930 and the active part taken by life insurance companies in the present mortgage market are indicated by figures compiled by the Cody Trust company yesterday. These show $1,934,000 in mortgages during the last three months of 1930 as compared with only $3,289,000 for the entire nine months preceding. The total for the year was $5,223,000. In other words, the business for the last quarter was approximately 40 per cent of the entire year's showing.

HIRAM S. CODY. [Wallinger Photo.]

Business in mortgage bonds for the last quarter failed to register so well. It was $135,000 for October, November, and December of last year as compared with $892,000 for the preceding nine months. The total for the year was $1,027,000. If the business of the last quarter had kept up to the standard set earlier in the year the total would have been approximately $1,189,000.

Commitments Increase.

The total of mortgages and mortgage bond business for the last quarter of 1930 was $2,069,000 as compared with only $4,181,000 for the preceding nine months.

During the first nine months of 1930 the life insurance companies made commitments to purchase Cody Trust company mortgages, according to Hiram Cody, vice president, of $3,735,000. During the last quarter of the year just passed the commitments were $2,456,000, approximately 40 per cent of the total for the year, which was $6192,000.

Sees Turn in Building.

A turn in the building industry in the near future is seen by President A. E. Dickinson of the Indiana Limestone company. "More work has been figured by our company in the last thirty days than in any 32 days in two years," he announced yesterday. "Most of the projects are public works, colleges, railroad facilities, and similar developments. Signs point to contracts for a great deal of work being let shortly."

J. Soule Warterfield, vice president of Starrett Brothers, and former business manager of the Chicago Real Estate board, will address that organization at its regular monthly meeting this evening at the board rooms. The subject of his talk will be "A Message of Good Cheer from a Hod Carrier to His Fellow Realtors." It will follow the customary complimentary buffet

HOUSEHOLD LOANS
$50 to $300
ON PLEASANT TERMS
The Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.
Loans above $100 and up to $300 are made at a rate almost one-third lower than the lawful maximum.
Strictly confidential—no inquiries of friends, relatives, or tradespeople.
The only signatures required are those of husband and wife. No endorsers.
Interest is paid by the month and charge is made only for the actual number of days the money is in use. There are no fees or fines.
